One of the most pleasant events of the season was the first anniversary of the C. F. C. celebrated at the home of Miss Elsie Benedick, last Wednesday evening. Games and music were the principle features of the evening. The reception hall was tastefully decorated in blue and gold festooning, the colors of the club, while white was the predominating color in the parlors.

The dining room was beautifully decorated in blue and gold while violets were used in profusion. The favors were bouquets of violets tied with the club colors. A dainty lunch was served after which the guests were entertained by both vocal and instrumental music. At a late hour the guest vended their way homeward voting Miss Elsie a most perfect hostess.

A female tramp came into town yesterday on one of the freight trains from the South. She rode in one of the ventilators of a refrigerator car. When seen near the depot she was accompanied by a man evidently of the free tourist tribe also. She was bundled up closely with a shawl or hood, passed as a woman and evidently was so, though some suspected it was a man in woman's clothes. A certain woman tramp was wanted along the line as the police here were advised, but this woman did not answer the description at all.—Ashland Tribune.

Accident to Railroaders.

Wm. Taylor, the S. P. brakeman met with an unusual accident at Medford last Wednesday night, which might easily have terminated fatally. He was running on the top of a refrigerator car and stubbed his toe just as the car was brought to a string of cars. Taylor was thrown over the end of the car falling 12 or 15 feet and striking on his shoulder between the tracks at the end of the car, and was unable to rise. The trainmen missed his lantern which had gone out, and in the absence of proper signals went to investigate the case. Had the cars gone a few feet farther Taylor would surely have been crushed beneath the wheels.
