"In Six or Seven Years the Feeling Will Be Very Different." He Tells Artist.

LONDON, July 31 .- Philip E Lazzlo, the famous Hungarian artist who recently painted a portrait of King Edward and still more recently one of President Roosevelt, has given to the Pall Mail Gazette some interesting details of his experiences at the White House in Washington.

Lazzlo seems to have been impressed most of all with Mr. Roose velt's great love for his wife. "Nothing could be more touching," the the city. artist declares, at the outset of his interview.

During one of the sitting Lazzlo to do when his term of office

The President said "impossible!" to a suggestion that he might enter the Senate adding:

"I think the people will forget me. The spirit of the American Nation changes from day to day. In six or seven years the feeling will be very different from what it is today. I shall have been forgotten, although I shall never change."

Before leaving London for Washington the artist was told by King Edward that he was going to "paint one of the most interesting men of the twentieth century." The President was greatly interested in Lazzlo's acounts of the King. whose tact Mr. Roosevelt praised, saying that Edward VII, is the great- he has been absent from Coquille. est of all diplomats, accomplishing purchased a half interest with Capt. Strange Little Insect Is Making Victims Too Lazy to Breathe.

MT, VERNON, N. Y., July 31. -How would you like to have "the lazy disease," now that the thermometer is hovering about 90 degrees? Its first symptom is a distaste for work. The victim gets that "tired feeling," and gets it badly. He doesn't want to do anything but just sit around and rest. Finally he becomes unable to move hand or foot. There is little discomfort. One just lazies along until one day he flinds it altogether too much trouble to keep on breathing and he shuffles off this mortal coil without a sigh of regret. It's an easy finish. A little hookworm, which gets into the blood and feeds upon the red corpuscles, causes the trouble. It's a busy little worm and multiplies with amazing speed. A peculiar feature of the disease s that in its advanced stage it leaves the patient's flesh almost wax-like in its whiteness. The disease is practically unknown in the United States. The physicians call it ucinariosis, and talk of it in seven-syllabled words. But down in Brazil, where it is almost epidemic in some localities, it's plain "lazy dis-

Five In One Family.

Guiseppe Mascia, an Italian who came here some months ago from Brazil, has developed the disease, Four of his ten children have it also. The health authorities have taken the family in charge and isolated them in tents at Mt. Vernon hospital, Mascia is a shoemaker. He opened up a little shop, but he just couldn't work. Customers came in and protested, but Mascia only shrugged his shoulders. It was too much trouble to argue. He would do the work, but he must have time. His children worked in the factorles. They couldn't keep up with their fellow workers, but it wasn't their fault. Their hands were heavy. their feet leaden. Finally they lost their jobs. When Mascia went to a physician his case puzzled the man of medicine. The usual remedies failed. Finally Dr. L. B. Goldhorn, a pathologist who had become familiar with the 'lazy disease" while studying in Germany, was called into consultation. He made an examination of the blood of each member of the family. Each sample showed the presence of the pestiferous, little, bloou-thirsty hookwork. The health authorities took action immediately.

Although the Mascia children mingled freely with the little ones of the neighborhood it is not believed serious results will follow. In Brazil the contagion usually comes from an infected water supply. This is not feared here. The United States quarantine offi-
