SOMEWHERE.
SOMEWHERE a sweetness grows; Somewhere it comes and goes Into your life and mine, Mortal and yet divine.
SOMEWHERE a sweetness speeds Unto our sorest needs; Under the gloom, the cloud, Upward it grows to God.
SOMEWHERE, in field or stream; Somewhere, in deed or dream; Somewhere a sweetness clings Round us with warding wings.
SOMEWHERE, in darkest hours, Bird song or bloom o' flower, Lo, at our weary feet, Somewhere is sweetness sweet. —Selected.

A Hindu myth regarding the creation of woman is making the rounds and it is such a pretty one—mind you, it's a myth—that it is worth producing here. A translation of the myth goes:

"At the beginning of time Twashtri—the Vulcan of the Hindu mythology—created the world. But when he wished to create a woman he found that he had employed all his material in the creation of man. There did not remain one solid element. Then Twashtri, perplexed, fell into a profound meditation. He roused himself as follows:

"He took the roundness of the moon, the undulations of the serpent, the entwining of climbing plants, the trembling of the grass, the slenderness of the rose vine and the velvet of the flower, the lightness of the leaf and the glance of the fawn, the gaiety of the sun's rays and the tears of the mist, the inconstancy of the wind and the timidity of the hare, the vanity of the peacock and the softness of the down on the throat of the swallow, the hardness of the diamond, the sweet flavor of honey and the cruelty of the tiger, the warmth of the fire, the chill of snow, the chatter of the jay and the cooing of the turtle dove. He united all these and formed a woman."

So these are the constituents parts of a woman. We suspected the fact several times in the past but never before were our suspicions so perfectly confirmed. No doubt the Hindu mythographer had a better chance to observe women, after the custom of the east, than we, and that lends prestige to his myth. But there are many statements made in this beautiful tribute to the ancestry of women in which we of our own knowledge cannot concur. There is no disposition to disbelieve anything the Hindu admirer of the so-called gentler sex has said of her. We simply do not know—perhaps for lack of experience.

For instance, that element of her taken from "the entwining of climbing plants." Never have we had the pleasure of playing the role of a post for her when she was in her entwining moods, and by the same token we do not know of her "lightness." Neither do we know of her "softness" as "of the down on the throat of the swallow" for the very good reason that we have never made a close inspection of the down on that particular part of the swallow. Neither can we affirm that the Hindu is right when he speaks of her "hardness of the diamond," for the only one we ever possessed is still back east and prospects of its recovery are slim. We do not remember how hard it felt. But when the Hindu touches the ornithological side of woman we are prone to agree with him. We know that she likes the plumes of birds, therefore we believe the Hindu when he says she is of "the chatter of the jay and the cooing of the turtle dove." Her "slenderness of the rose vine" is good for those who like the Gibsonesque but our personal preference runs toward the rose bush kind. Of her "glance of the fawn" we cannot say again for we have never encountered one except on exhibition and he could stare one straight in the face.

Of her other elements we are willing to take the Hindu at his word without question, for anyone knows that her gaiety is that of the sun's rays and her tears those of the mist, her inconstancy that of the wind and her vanity that of the peacock, her sweetness that of the flavor of honey and her cruelty that of the tiger, while her warmth is that of the fire and her chill that of the snow.

Yet, notwithstanding the enlightenment this Hindu has thrown upon her ancestry, and despite what we have since learned of her, is she a mystery—a mystery as eternal as the question she must some day answer, provided she be not unlucky.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Tower have given up their summer home on South Coos River for the summer, returning to town Friday. Dr. J. Tuttle of Astoria, who studied medicine with Dr. Tower at Empire City many years ago, has been their guest for some days but leaves for Astoria today. Dr. Tuttle before taking up medicine was sheriff of Coos county for a term or two and is well remembered by the older citizens.

Miss Edith Simpson arrived during the week for an extended visit at the home of her brother, L. J. Simpson, at North Bend. Miss Simpson intended to come earlier in the summer but had to postpone coming here on account of Mrs. A. M. Simpson desiring her to accompany her on a summer trip. Miss Simpson will be the recipient of a number of courtesies during her stay.

Mrs. C. J. Millis entertained a number of friends at a launch ride and picnic party at Charleston Bay last Saturday. The trip down and back was made in the Beaver. The outing on the beach was greatly enjoyed, the day being a delightful one. Among those who were guests of Mrs. Millis were Miss Mable Clare Millis, Miss Elizabeth Henahan of Seattle, Miss M. E. Bowler of Boston, Miss Elizabeth Kaufman, Miss Grace Lewis of Portland, Mrs. E. W. Hendricks of Portland, Lloyd Spooner of Portland, Langdon Spooner, Mrs. W. F. Miller, Mrs. I. S. Kaufman, Mrs. C. H. Marsh, Mrs. A. M. Poyntz, Mrs. B. A. Garlinghouse of Greenville, Mich., Florence Graham and Miss Lucy Horton.

Mrs. W. S. Chandler entertained at bridge whist Tuesday afternoon at her bungalow on Coos River, in honor of Mrs. E. Pollexfen of San Francisco.

The prizes were won by Mrs. H. Lockhart and Mrs. Otto Schetter. Those invited were Mesdames McCormac, French, Merchant McPherson, Bradley, Schetter, Williams, Jones, Minot, McCollum, Lockhart, Barry, J. H. Flanagan, Pollexfen Sengstacken, M. Tower and C. W. Tower and Misses Porter, Painter, Helen Dobel and Helen Chandler.

Miss Kaufman entertained a score of friends at Bridge last evening at what proved one of the most pleasant events of the season. The guests of honor were Miss Bess Henahan of Seattle, and Miss Marion Bowler of Boston. There were five tables of devotees to the game that a recent writer has described as requiring an adding machine and an expert accountant but the guests last evening found it a more delightful diversion, and its only relation to mathematics being a division of time and an addition to life's pleasures. The prize winners were: Ladies first prize, Miss Marion Bowler of Boston; consolation prize, Miss Evelyn Anderson. Gentlemen's first prize, Mr. Robert Booth; consolation prize, Mr. G. W. Kaufman. A delightful luncheon was served.

Among those present were: Misses Evelyn Anderson, Maude Painter, Agnes Hutcheson, Gertrude Mandigo, Kathleen Bennett, Beth Bradley, Marion Bowler of Boston, Bess Henahan of Seattle, Mrs. G. W. Kaufman and Messrs. W. F. McKee, Jack Kronholm, DuFay Montgomery, Geo. Goodrum, Claude Nasburg, Harry Butler, G. W. Kaufman, Robert Booth, M. C. Maloney, Tom Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Marsh entertained the members of the First Baptist tist church choir and a few others at their home Friday evening as a farewell for Harold Millis. About twenty-eight were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent with music and games. Refreshments were served. Mr. Millis was the recipient of several presents as tokens of the esteem in which he is held. The individual farewells were all coupled with the wish that he will shortly return to Marshfield.

Mrs. Capt. Olson entertained a number of friends at her home on Baines street last Tuesday evening. Progressive whist was the evening's game. The honors were carried off by Mrs. Peter Scott, Sr., and Charles Doane. The consolation prize was awarded to Peter Sorenson. Refreshments were served.

A number of friends surprised Clifford Doane at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Doane, last Saturday evening, the event being his sixteenth birthday. Various games and music furnished the diversions for the evening. He was the recipient of a number of presents.

John Kriek of North Bend and Miss May Cutlip were united in marriage at a quiet home wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cutlip, on Coos River, Wednesday, August 19. The Rev. B. F. Bengtson of Marshfield, officiated. Only immediate friends and relatives were present. The young couple are the recipients of congratulations from a host of friends. They will make their home on Coos Bay.

Harold Millis, who has been spending the vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Millis, here, left today for Berkeley, Cal., to resume his course at the University. Miss Mable Clare Millis accompanied him as far as Portland where she will visit friends for a few days.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church, enjoyed a pleasant launch ride and picnic party up Coos River Wednesday. Luncheon was taken along and several stops were made at points of interest along the river, including the government rock quarry and the Yoakam ranch.

J. E. Weaver, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Weaver, left yesterday for his home in San Francisco.

Miss Bess Henahan of Seattle, who has been the guest of Miss Kaufman for a short time, left this morning for Portland and after a week's visit with friends, will return to her home in the Sound City. During her brief stay on Coos Bay, Miss Henahan made many friends who said farewell with regret and will look forward to future visits with pleasure.

Karl Kaufman, who has been spending his vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Kaufman in Marshfield, left Friday for San Francisco where he is engaged in business.

Miss Dunning and the Misses Meeren who have been spending their vacation at the home of the latter's parents here will leave on the next trip of the Nann Smith for San Francisco en route to Minneapolis where the young ladies will reenter school.

Misses Vivian Taylor and May Bennett are spending a few days at the J. W. Flanagan camp on South Coos River where Mrs. Flanagan, Mrs. E. E. Straw and Mrs. Wm. Lawlor and their husbands are enjoying an outing.

The picnic given by the Hahatonka Club at Enegren's grove on Coos River last Sunday, was one of the most delightful outdoor entertainments of the season. A special orchestra furnished music for the dancing and numerous other diversions furnished entertainment to suit the desires of all. The picnic luncheon was most elaborate. The invitations were limited to members and their friends. Among the married couples present were Dan Keating and wife, and Tom Harvey and wife. Among the other young folks were Misses May Stauff, Nettie Savage, Madge Savage, Martha Burnitt, Hat tie Ferry, Thelma Holmes, Edith Holmes, Selma Johnson, Ada Chapman, Della Chapman, Hilda Stenholm, Minnie Harkensee, Edna Brainard, Pearl Riggs, Clara Myren, Ruth Dean, Edna Budweiser, Ruth Dean, Isabelle Demming, Mae Empy and Amy Anderson.

Messrs. Sidney Burnitt, Jack Burnitt, Earl Murnahan, Robt. Dillard, Iris Elrod, M. Carlton, Will Lynch, Jay Doyle, Jim Falconer, Albert Matson, Oscar Golovsen, Carl Johnson, Earl Savage, Ray Ollivant, Vincent Lorenz, Wm. Kronholm, Dallas Foote, Edw. Archer.

Mrs. E. K. Jones and Mrs. Minot who have been spending the summer on South Coos River, returned to town during the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Smith of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McPherson of Portland, are guests at the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. McCormac on South Coos River. Mrs. McCormac has been feeling poorly of late. It was the intention of Dr. and Mrs. McCormac to break up their summer home about the middle of the coming week and return to town but they may postpone moving for a few days.

One of the principal events of the week in the summer colony on Coos River was a salmon bake at the J. W. Flanagan camp. About twenty of the younger set were present. The usual camp fire diversion preceded the salmon feast and made the evening a most enjoyable one.
