DIDN'T FIGHT THE BACK LAWN

"He called for a city beautiful."

He showed it day by day.

He named a city where none was not.

Where the spirit of art should ever.

He named a city that should be fair,

Where little might never be seen.

And longer, in spite of the soil he had.

To keep his back yard clean."

HOW ABOUT "CLEAN TO DAY"

H this year?"

The good work inaugurated so auspiciously by the A.S.W. Club last year should not be permitted to be abandoned.

Better work should be done this year than ever before in growing the city for the summer. A more thorough cleansing and a greater sense than usual are demanded this season.

The city will be subjected to a critical examination by citizens of other places where the progressive Coos Bay ideas have attracted attention, and as many homeowners they will look closely.

The evidence of a real desire for cleanliness and beautiful surroundings is to be found in a city's back yards as well as the front yard.

A peep over the back fence will tell us more about our neighbors than the encroachments our divine. On the same principle much may be learned by a discerning observer in an apartment house regarding distinctions among households from viewing the morning exhibit of garbage paths.

The back yard is elegant and it is a more reliable witness than the front lawn. Of course the owner may deliberately make the back yard sell a falsehood and earn him more credit for civic pride than he deserves. But the neighborhood will be improved, and to keep the premises clean must have some good effect upon a man's character.
