RAILWAY IN THREE YEARS

The Great Astro Tackles and Answers a Difficult Question.

"You are—asking—about—something—that—is—coming—to—Coos—Bay—" thus slowly did Astro announce the query propounded by No. 11 at the Odd Fellows' hall before a large audience last evening. He was attired in flowing robes, gold embroidered, wore the headdress of a seer of India and in his left hand held a large crystal that he rubbed vigorously, but intermittently with a silk handkerchief. It is coming. I depths of this glass he claimed to get his answers.

"Yes," he continued, "you are asking when will a railway be built into Coos Bay. Well, it will not be for two years and a half but it will be within three years. It is coming. I can see it. It will be built."

The answer was in response to a question written by Dr. McCormac, president of the Chamber of Commerce, when the great white Mahatma passed a number of cards among the audience on which were written names and questions.

This was only one feature of one of the most interesting and clever entertainments seen in Marshfield a year. Astro and his company of clever artists amused and confused their audience. Every act was a feature that was enjoyed by the large house present.

"Leon, the jail breaker," proved his right to the title by removing in short order a pair of handcuffs Chief of Police Carter had placed upon his wrist. Later, he performed the same feat with irons on wrists and ankles.

The trunk mystery in which Astro's lady assistant escaped from a locked and rope bound trunk without breaking locks or cords proved mystifying. A committee including Tom Bennett and Will Chandler tried to prevent any false bottoms or marked card game but they were as much mystified as the audience. Astro has been doing some strong advertising but he made good last evening.

They appear again tonight at Odd Fellows' hall with an entire change of program and indications are that the hall will be crowded.

There will be a dance at the hall tonight after the entertainment and it was announced at a late hour that there will be another performance at the hall Sunday night.
