CENTRAL AVENUE never takes a vacation. It is too busy. During the supposedly dull month of August building continues lively on this growing thoroughfare. Frank Waite is going to put up a new building just around the corner off Central Avenue. Maybe that's where the Postoffice will be. Keep your eye on Central Avenue. Economize and merchandise there.

NO PERMITS TO BURN SLASHINGS

Oregon Forestry Board Decides to Forbid Starting Fires During August.

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 8.—Warning was issued to all fire wardens by the State Board of Forestry to issue no permits to burn slashings in the main timber belt this month. A resolution was passed declaring that no private patrol of forests would be considered adequate unless the men were state wardens. Dan P. Smythe presided, and F. G. Elliott, State Forester, was secretary of the meeting.

COOS COUNTY PATROL.

Effective Measures Taken to Prevent Forest Fires This Year.
With every precautionary preparation made to protect the timber of Coos County from fires, the Coos County Fire Patrol Association is now ready to meet the danger season which has just started. Rains came so late in the summer that the fire season was postponed, but it is here and the association hopes to keep the timber loss at the minimum point. Last year Coos County escaped any bad fires, due largely to the efforts of the organization. The jurisdiction of the association is all of Coos County and the northern part of Curry County. Practically all of the big timber owners are members and they pay an assessment of two cents an acre to defray the expenses. This is much cheaper than individuals can protect their timber and the organized work is more effective.

The logging operators have burned slashings at their camps; fire traps in the timber have been removed; underbrush has been burned out and new trails have been cut for use of the wardens in reaching the different districts. The telephone lines have been put in repair for use of the wardens. The association has forty miles of private telephone lines and also connects with the farmers' line.

Twenty wardens are now stationed in the timber districts and five more men will soon be sent out. If any bad fires start extra fire fighters will be employed.

The operations of the association are all directed from the office of the secretary, W. J. Conrad, in the Coke building, at Marshfield. A. E. Crouch is the head of the fire wardens for the association and also holds the position of supervising fire warden for the state in the Coquille Valley. Farmers and others should report any fires starting in the timber to Mr. Crouch or Mr. Conrad.

The secretary urges the importance of fires being reported promptly so that the wardens may be sent to the danger point and the flames prevented from spreading. Hunters and campers are also urged to use great care in extinguishing their camp fires. The thoughtless leaving of a few embers of a camp fire may be followed by the destruction of thousands of dollars worth of timber, the burning of homes and serious losses.

In the past the association has been greatly assisted by the farmers who reported fires and have requested those especially in the isolated districts to follow the same plan this year.

It is unlawful after June first for farmers or others, to burn, even on their own land, brush or slashings, without a permit. These permits can be secured from the office of the association secretary, or the different fire wardens throughout the county.

Coos County during the last few years has lost less timber by fire than any other county in the state, so effective has been the work of the association. The cost of fire protection has been less here than in the other counties. The minimum fire loss in Coos County has given an added value to local timber.

Jesse Smith, supervising fire warden for the state in northern Coos County, works in conjunction with the association, as does also the state forestry board.

I. W. W. AGITATORS CAUSE DEATHS

Blame for California Riot Fixed on Armed Anarchist Agitators.

WHEATLAND, Aug. 8.—While the riot precipitated in the hop-pickers' camp here by Industrial Workers of the World agitators apparently has passed into history with only the single outbreak which cost four lives, its effect bids fair to be enduring. The growers of the hop fields here are aroused against the Industrial Workers and men employed at the Durst Brothers' ranch, where the battle took place, hereafter will be closely observed and promptly rejected on the mere suspicion of affiliation with the workers. The same spirit is manifest throughout the entire district.

"While the officers might have been a trifle hasty," said Jonathan Durst, senior partner in the big ranch, "I will lay the blame for these unfortunate killings upon a few people who were what is called Industrial Workers of the World. It is very apparent from the fact that the people carried firearms and made a specialty of public disturbances and unreasonable demands that the statement which is current to the effect that the I. W. W. organization had invaded our fields for the purpose of making trouble is correct.

I. W. W. Make Trouble.
"The statement has reached me from a very reliable source that it is the plan of the I. W. W. to invade other districts of this state on a general campaign to make trouble for hop pickers and farmers. "We will have no trouble in harvesting our crop, as the crop is light," Durst added, "and there will be enough of our old pickers on hand who know us well and will remain with us to the end of the season."

APPLE PIE TO BE LUXURY.

Shortage in Crop May Interfere With Favorite Dessert.
Apple pies may be scarce this season as a result of a shorter crop in the United States than last year. The crop of the country is estimated at 68,484,520 bushels or 10,272,678,000 apples of average size.

"I don't see where we are going to get our usual supply of apple pies this season," says A. P. Bateham, vice-president of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange. "It takes perhaps five apples of average size to make a good pie, and only 2,654,535,600 apple pies can be made from the crop this season. However, we will export about 9,000,000 bushels of apples this year or enough to make 270,000,000 pies, leaving only 2,784,535,600 pies for home consumption. There will not be more than 20 pies for each person during the entire year. This is not enough." Latest reports received from various apple-growing sections of the country indicate that the shortage in the crop will be somewhat greater than first estimated. In the Pacific Northwest the crop promises to be of good quality and size.

YEAR'S MOTOR LICENSES TOTAL 12,907 TO AUGUST 1

SALEM, Or., Aug. 8.—During July 778 motor vehicles were registered, bringing the total number for this year up to 12,907. This is 3483 more than the number registered to the corresponding date last year. The fees collected during July amounted to $3494.50, bringing the total for the seven months of this year up to $52,013.50. This is $9019.50 more than the fees collected during all of last year, while it is nearly twice the amount collected in fees in 1911.
