The Circle Installs.

Syringa Circle met at Woodmen Hall on Friday evening and installed the following officers:

Addah Stanton, P. G. N.; Nellie Gaitner, G. N.; Hannah Franklin, advisor; David Collins, magician; Oneatta Reynolds, C. G.; Virginia Hoefflein, O. S.; Anna Hawkins, manager.

The pretty and impressive ceremony was witnessed by members of the Camp and other guests, who had received special invitations to be present. After the installation of the new Guardian neighbor, Nellie Gaitner, assumed her position and declared the rest of the evening for amusement. Several entertaining games were indulged in and ice cream and cake. After a period of frigid bliss, some of the young and old played a sort of catch as catch can game and called it Bingo—something entirely new in Toledo. At a late hour the assembly dispersed, and the belief that Syringa Circle contains the most charming entertainers in Oregon.

Attention Comrades.

The best wishes of THE LEADER accompanies Chauncey and we predict that he will ever uphold the fair name and reputation of Toledo boys during his sojourn within the Golden Gate.

Perishable through freight will have a special car on the passenger train.

The Duke of Albany, who is visiting at the Resort city, has a peculiar mania for gathering blackberries. He went down to Otter Rock one day last week for this purpose, but got tangled up in the salal and had considerable trouble in extricating himself. He came back to Newport, wise in the knowledge that Otter Rock is a good place to hunt for blackberries and that they do not grow on salal bushes.

Judge M. C. George, who held Circuit court for Judge Hamilton this week, is not only a man of sterling qualities and an able expounder of the law, but an artist as well. While waiting for the grand jury to grind out a grist Tuesday, he amused himself by making a pencil sketch of Bailiff Jack Allphin which was true to life. Jack accepted the sketch as a valued souvenir and ostentatiously remarked that he never knew before he was so good looking.

The slander case of Mary White vs. Walter Szelaszkiewicz, which has been figuring in the courts the past year or two, was finally disposed of in Judge George's court Monday—the jury deciding in favor of the defendant, Szelaszkiewicz. The general opinion is that the case should never have been permitted to come to trial. McFadden & Jones defended the case.

Larkie Logan and Louie Fuller indulged in a little amusement Monday night and Larkie carved Louie some—just how deep we are unable to learn. The grand jury promptly took action in the case but decided that no particular harm had been done and failed to find a true bill. Larkie and Louie were just "funnin'" anyway and the county is saved unnecessary expense as the case, had it come to trial or been continued, would undoubtedly have had the usual ending.

The grand jury in the case of Lincoln County vs. L. E. Dole found two indictments and Mr. Dole was arraigned before Judge George Tuesday morning for trial. He pleaded guilty to the charge of selling spirituous liquors by the bottle, but insisted that he was innocent of dispensing the same in homeopathic doses and his Honor imposed a fine of $200 because Dole had neither sold by the drink or gallon, but had simply adhered to the "happy medium" in catering to his customers. The other indictment was thrown out upon the prisoner pleading guilty to the first count.

The little girl stood the operation, which was necessarily a painful one, with true grit.

The launch Racine made a successful trip to Newport and return last Sunday. She carried about twenty passengers who were well pleased with the boat and the good time she made. Captain Dedrick is to be commended in his efforts to make the Racine a success and the fortitude with which he has borne his many losses and reverses during the past year. The Racine is a staunch little craft and will be a valuable means of transportation to our citizens, who will find Captain Dedrick ready at all times to accommodate them in any way where the services of this launch are required. FRED DAY SHOT.

A Toledo Boy the Victim of a Band of Cowardly Assassins.

The many friends of Fred Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Day of this city, were shocked by the news received Wednesday evening that he had been shot.

Fred is in the employment of the O. W. P. & Ry Co. of Portland. The dastardly deed was committed by a band of thugs who held up the car upon which Fred was returning home from his daily duties.

The first reports were that he was mortally wounded, but a telegram sent to his mother early Thursday morning, contained the statement that the wound was not as serious as at first supposed and there were bright hopes for his recovery.

The Portland Evening Telegram of Wednesday gives the following account, in Fred's own words of the shooting:

"I did nothing to cause the men to think I was going to make a break for liberty," said Day, "and why I was shot is something no one knows. I simply turned to let the other man pass into the car, when the one who ordered me to move, fired the shot.

"I was in awful pain and before I knew what I was doing, I ran down the aisle to the front platform. I thought sure they would shoot again, but they didn't. It was the most cruel thing I ever heard of, when, after wounding me, they robbed me of every thing of value I had with me.

"One of the robbers, the one who searched the passengers in the rear of the car, dropped the handkerchief off his face just as he reached a lady near me. I looked at him for fully half a minute, and if ever I see him again, I promise the officers I will identify him to a certainty. His mask was off when he took my watch. He was tall, yet quite broadly built man, having a prominent Roman nose. He had light hair and complexion, and a mellow, snappy voice. There is no doubt but that I would know him, if he is ever captured."

Day was operated upon by Company Surgeon A. E. Rockey and Dr. L. E. Irvine shortly after 9 o'clock. They found the bullet, which was a 38-calibre, entered the right side of the back, about eight inches from the spine. It fractured the tenth rib and lodged against the spinal column, traversing about eight inches of flesh and bone in its course. It tore a piece of cloth from Day's coat, carrying it on its leaden point the full course. It made a very large hole in the flesh. Dr. Rockey has the bullet in his possession.

"The wound is not serious, and in all probability the boy will recover," said Dr. Rockey this afternoon.

Fred's mother went out to Portland today to nurse him and be with him should a change come for the worse. She has the sympathy of the entire community.
