SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM TO HAVE NEW BUILDING

University of Oregon, Eugene, Nov. 25.—A new three story building of the University of Oregon school of Journalism will be formally dedicated in March, according to an announcement made by Eric W. Allen, dean of the school.

The school of Journalism lost half of its available space last summer when one of the frame buildings used for offices and class rooms was destroyed by fire. When the new building, which will be of brick construction, is completed, the school of Journalism will have twenty-eight offices, lecture rooms and laboratories and will be one of the best equipped schools of its kind in the country. Some of the larger journalism classes are at present being accommodated in buildings devoted to liberal arts courses.
