Home Maker

EDITED BY ALICE F. TALCOTT.

The Despotism of the Juniors.

I wonder why we so often forget that the older children are as much to be considered and as carefully guarded as the little ones who are not yet very far from babyhood? Your boy of 12 or 14 is drawing a map that must be taken to school the next day. He is preparing a lesson that requires close attention. He is writing his theme and not finding his task easy. Along comes the little brother. He tries to climb upon the big brother's knee, he snatches a pencil and makes a mark upon the map, or he insists upon interrupting the home work of the older lad by little forays and dashes and requests for a story, until the patience of the older boy is exhausted. Repeated efforts to send the little one away prove futile, there is finally a scene and a skirmish, rough words are spoken and the smaller one begins to cry and goes with a grievance to his mother. Three times out of four the mother catches up the little one, kisses and hugs him and reproves her older child for his ill behavior. He has not behaved ill and his right to do his work in peace has been invaded, but for him there is no sympathy.

A girl of 10 or 12 is generally willing to assist in the care of the younger ones of the family. She helps them to dress and undress, devotes a good deal of time to them and is her mother's affectionate aid in their upbringing. It is not to be expected that she shall invariably wish to take little Ruth or Jimmie with her everywhere and it is right that she should have some time to call her own and to be at peace when talking with her friends of her own age. The little children do not mean to be tyrannical, and would not be if they were not given to understand that every one must yield to them the instant they appear. After a while, if other babies arrive and they are deposed from sovereignty, they are sometimes very much surprised.

In the ideal home a system of mutual helpfulness reaching around the circle binds the household together in perfect harmony. The little ones have an undoubted claim on the care, the care and the loving protection of those who are older. This being admitted, it is for the parents to see that the older ones are also immune from interruptions that hinder them from the work that they are daily obliged to do.—Margaret Sangster in Mothers' Magazine.

EVERY-DAY RECIPES.

Economical Cookies.

These delicious cookies without eggs, butter, cream or milk are a boon to the economical housewife. This is a good recipe for the children's school lunch. One and one-half quarts flour, two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cup of lard, one cup of sugar, one cup of currants, one-half nutmeg. Sift the baking powder with the flour, rub the sugar and lard in the flour, then mix in the currants and nutmeg. Mix to a firm dough with cold water, roll about as thick as pie crust, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and cut out and bake in a brisk oven.

"Never-Fail" Biscuit.

Four level cupfuls flour, four scant teaspoonfuls baking powder and one teaspoonful salt. Sift three times and work in a piece of lard the size of a large egg. To one pint of sour or buttermilk add one very scant teaspoonful of soda. When dissolved pour as much into the flour as is required to make a soft, smooth dough (some grades of flour require more wetting than others). Pat or roll to one inch in thickness; cut into small biscuits and bake in a quick oven. A little melted lard rubbed over the biscuits before putting into the oven makes the crust very tender.

Mincemeat Pickles.

Chop finely one peck of green tomatos, drain and add two table-spoons each of salt, cloves, cinnamon and allspice, two pounds of well-cleaned currants, two pounds of seeded raisins, half a peck of peeled, cored and chopped tart apples, six pounds of brown sugar and one cupful of cider vinegar. Cook all together slowly for three hours then can while hot in glass jars. This is a most delicious pickle to serve with meat. Put between thin slices of buttered bread; it makes an appetizing sandwich. Half or quarter the quantity can be made.

Celery and Rice.

Here is a combination dish that is suitable for a supper dish for children and is liked by grown-ups, especially when served with a browned meat stew: Cut the best part of a bunch of celery into small pieces and cook in plenty of water about a half hour before adding the rice. The proportions should be about one part of rice to two of celery. When done season with salt, butter and a half cup of rich milk or cream.—Mrs. F. M. Carnahan, Fellows, Cal.

Delicious Potatoes.

Peel medium-sized potatoes and lay in a lightly greased baking pan; sprinkle with salt and lay in a thin strip or two of ham or bacon fat over them. Bake about 45 minutes, or until brown and cooked through. Sweet potatoes or crook-necked summer squash may be cooked the same way and with delightful results.—Annie L. Rose, Surrey, Cal.

Bachelor's Hot Cakes.

One cup of buttermilk, one cup of flour, an egg well beaten and one-half teaspoonful soda. Salt to taste. Bake on a hot griddle.

Green Tomato Pie.

Line a piepan with a rich crust and spread over it layers of sliced tomatoes that have been peeled like an apple, half a cup of sugar, one tablespoon of vinegar and a little flour. Drop little lumps of butter all over it to make it rich and juicy and flavor with lemon or nutmeg.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Ego of Baking Powder Can.

I am excellent for steamed puddings. If you use me you will have cause to congratulate yourself upon the appetizing appearance of your dessert and the ease with which it can be served.

I am just the right size for cutting out the biscuit dough for turnovers. I have a sharp edge and am easily handled. I am extremely good to bake bread in, providing you without trouble, with crustless slices for sandwiches.

I am a good burnt match receiver. Punch a hole near my rim, suspend me on a hook below the match box in the kitchen and prove for yourself that I am convenient, easily emptied and always look neat.

I am a perfect mold for jellies, veal or chicken, the round slices lending themselves readily to effective arrangement on the platter.

I am quite as satisfactory for pressed beef or potted fish.

Broomholder.

Fasten two spoons of the same size to the wall by driving large nails through the holes. Place them two inches apart, then turn the broom handle down, letting the brush part rest between the spoons. This is very simple and lasts for years and keeps the broom straight.

To Keep Rice From Sticking.

Wash the rice in clear water until it doesn't make the water look milky. Then put in fresh water with enough salt to taste and cook. The rice will not stick and will not have to be stirred. If tried, you will find it a great help.

To Clean Silver.

Boil two quarts of potato parings in one quart of water for ten minutes. Remove the parings and put in as many knives, forks and spoons as the water will cover and let them boil for ten minutes. Your silver will come out like new.

POLYTECHNIC COLLEGE NOTES.

Floy Cambers enrolled this week in the typewriting department.

Miss Enid Richards, a graduate of the Ashland high school, last year, and who took some special commercial work under Miss Stevenson, is now living again in Alaska. Her address is Treadwell, but she is a stenographer for the governor of Alaska in his office in Juneau, across the bay from Treadwell. Her salary is much above that of some young men in this section.

Prof. E. E. Washburn, formerly of the Ashland schools, sends greetings to our new Polytechnic College. He has charge of the commercial department of the John C. Fremont high school of Oakland and has 300 students in his department. He is well acquainted with our President Gibson and Professor Ingram, and speaks in the highest terms of the integrity and good business sense of these men.

Ladies of the Civic Improvement Club were callers on the school Wednesday afternoon.

Declare War on Colds.

A crusade of education which aims that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation" has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of "don'ts" which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold:

- "Don't sit in a draughty car."
- "Don't sleep in hot rooms."
- "Don't avoid the fresh air."
- "Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Overeating reduces your resistance."
- "To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by Foley's Drug Store.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

The Woman Makes the Home

She makes it best who, looking after the culinary department, turns her back resolutely upon unhealthful, or even suspicious, food accessories. She is economical; she knows that true economy does not consist in the use of inferior meat, flour, or baking powder. She is an earnest advocate of home made, home baked food, and has proved the truth of the statements of the experts that the best cooking in the world today is done with Royal Baking Powder.
