BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT ON EVE OF ELECTION

Roosevelt Odds Lengthened in New York Betting.

(Journal Special Service.)
Washington, Nov. 7.—(Bulletin.)—Following is the special bulletin regarding tomorrow's weather probabilities as issued by the weather bureau today:
"Fair weather and seasonable temperatures are indicated for all parts of the United States tomorrow, except for some showers and showers or snow flurries in a part of New York, northeastern Pennsylvania and New England, and the extreme north Pacific coast."
(Journal Special Service.)
New York, Nov. 7.—The betting odds on Roosevelt's election, lengthened slightly this morning, the curb, early bets being $500 to $300 that he will win.
Herrick remains the favorite in the gubernatorial race at $1,000 to $500.
The national committeemen and others concerned in the direction of the national campaign closed their desks at their respective headquarters today and departed for their homes, leaving behind a political atmosphere filled with heated claims.
Urey Woodson, secretary of the Democratic national committee, was the only one visible at the Democratic headquarters today. Woodson said: "It's over; we are going to win, so dig out your horns and join in the procession tomorrow night."
Chairman Cortelyou was not at the public headquarters until late this afternoon. He had nothing to add to his statement made Saturday, when he stated all doubtful states and possibly Maryland and Nevada. Cortelyou will receive the returns at the headquarters tomorrow night.
Governor Odell left for Newburgh at 10 o'clock to receive the returns at his home, a governor said.
"We will carry the state by a good majority. The national ticket will run dead of the state ticket, 30,000 to 40,000. Murphy will have to carry New York City by more than 140,000 to beat the national ticket."
The usual stories of colonization and plot box frauds are in circulation, but there is nothing to show that there is

Republican Victory Conceded in Multnomah County.

Apathy seems destined to be the distinguishing feature of tomorrow's election in Oregon. From all parts of the state come reports that the voters are indifferent and that the vote will be disappointingly light. It is the general belief that the total vote of the state will be materially less than in June.
The heavy normal Republican majority discourages the Democratic voters, and it is feared that a large proportion of them will not go to the polls. The proportion of Republican stay-at-homes will probably be nearly or quite as large, for the confidence of victory has begotten indifference. There are no state or county officers to be elected tomorrow and aside from the presidential issue the only influence that will serve to bring the voters to the polls is the fight over prohibition.
Roosevelt Plurality Predicted.
Opinions vary widely as to the size of the plurality by which Roosevelt will carry this state. Frank Baker, chairman of the Republican state central committee, adheres to his prediction that the plurality will reach 35,000, provided a full vote is cast, and he estimates that even with a light vote Roosevelt will carry the state by at least 30 per cent of the total vote cast. Most of the Republican leaders are inclined to be less sanguine and they consider Baker's figures too high.
Alex Sweek, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, estimates the Republican plurality at less than 15,000, cutting Baker's prediction in half. "I expect a light vote," said Chairman Sweek this morning. "Our committee has done all that it could to get out the vote and has been in correspondence with the precinct committeemen all over the state, urging them to get the Democrats to the polls tomorrow. But as the state is conceded to the Republicans, it is hard to get Democrats to vote."
Democratic Prediction.
From information derived from the county committeemen all over the state, Chairman Sweek has compiled a detailed

ELECTION RETURNS

Everybody will be interested in the election returns. While they may be perfectly certain about how Oregon will go no one can be certain how New York, Indiana and the other doubtful states, which will decide the result, will go. While the contest here has been devoid of excitement, it has been lively enough in some other states. On the result in the concededly doubtful states hinges the election.
The Journal will receive a great bulletin service tomorrow night and display the returns on a large canvas opposite the Fifth street front of its building. The service will be the very best, quickest and most accurate that has ever been given to a western newspaper.

JAPANESE ADVANCE ON THE YENTAI HILLS. FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

JEST WITH JOHN BULL

Russian Officer From the Baltic Fleet Not Even in the Navy.

(Journal Special Service.)
London, Nov. 7.—(Bulletin.)—It is reported here that Togo's fleet has succeeded in breaching the Golden Hill fortifications. If true, the surrender of Port Arthur must occur within a few hours.
(Journal Special Service.)
St. Petersburg, Nov. 7.—M. Clado, one of the four officers landed from the Baltic fleet at Vigo, and who proceeded to St. Petersburg, is not a naval officer, but a major in the army. He was simply Admiral Rojestvensky's guest and intended to land at Vigo.
The fact that he was left behind as a responsible officer who gave the details of the Doggerbank affair, is nothing less than a mockery to England.
The car, it is learned, has loaded M. Clado with honors. Russian society is hilarious over the farce in sending him to the capital as a representative of the fleet.
When interrogated regarding the truth of these assertions, which became public in the last 24 hours, the officials declined to make any statement whatever and merely replied that Major Clado would be one of the witnesses at the inquiry in case it became necessary to introduce witnesses in person.
It is not even apparent that any attempt has been made to suppress the fact that instead of being one of the commanding officers of the fleet he is of the other arm of the service.
As a result of the capture of the Doggerbank incident has dropped into second place here and attention is again concentrated on operations at Mukden and Port Arthur.
The following report was received from General Sakharoff this morning:
"Our sharpshooters on Friday, under Lieutenant Vorotnikoff, penetrated as far as the Japanese entrenchments in front of Houshal heights, where they remained all day exchanging a fusillade with the Japanese."
"The concentrated Russian fire has destroyed the village of Udeyatse and Japanese attempts to damage the Russian masked guns have been unsuccessful."

Its Seven Members Are Opposed to Violation of Gambling Laws.

Even the District Attorney Excluded From the First Meeting of Newly Called Body Which Will Reconvene Wednesday.

The county grand jury, called today, is composed of:
F. M. Johnson, foreman; insurance agent; opposed to gambling.
G. H. Thomas, insurance agent; member Municipal Reform association.
A. C. Fairchild, preacher; Methodist denomination.
John M. A. Laus, druggist; prominent churchman.
Lewis Van Vleet, capitalist; opposed to gambling.
J. B. Quay, farmer; opposed to gambling.
Larkin Russell, farmer; opposed to gambling.
Acting under the instructions of Presiding Judge George, Deputy Circuit Clerk Henry Bush and Marion R. Johnson proceeded this morning in open court to draw seven names from the November panel to fill a grand jury. While it has been commonly reported that a grand jury would be called for the November session of court, the action of Judge George came as a surprise to many who were inclined to be skeptical of the truth of the rumor.
Judge Instructs Them.
The calling of the jury took place in department No. 1 at the conclusion of the six-part business. After the first seven names had been drawn from the box, in accordance with statutory provisions, Judge George asked the members to take their places in the jury box in his court room while he gave them instructions.
Assembled in department No. 4, the court asked the jurors if any of them knew of any reason why he should not serve. None being forthcoming he proceeded, as required by the codes, to read them certain sections, relative to criminal libel, prize-fighting and the setting of timber fire.
"It will be your duty," said the court, "to look into the conditions of the prisons of the county and other public institutions. You may investigate all public officers and records must be presented at all reasonable times upon your demand. As regards bringing in indictments it makes no difference whether or not persons have been accused of such crimes and not bound over, you

TWO CAPTIVES SUSPECTED OF MONMOUTH ROBBERY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Nov. 7.—Two men were taken off the brakebeam of a train last night by the local police. The captured men give the names of Ansel Crisler and Asa Hill, whose dress and appearance aroused suspicion. The officers have taken them to the capture they have taken Monmouth bank robbers. Both men have a haggard appearance and had an out in the brush and rain some time. They were well dressed, wearing overalls on the outside and showed no signs of being in the brush.
The coat worn by Crisler was this morning identified as the one stolen from W. B. Mayer, an employe of Long's restaurant, while eating dinner yesterday. He also carried a

OHIO MILLIONAIRE'S SON ASPHYXIATED WHILE DRUNK

Claire B. Brainard, son of Samuel R. Brainard, a millionaire contractor of Cleveland, O., was asphyxiated by gas in his room in the Buckley house, First and Madison streets, some time during Saturday night and his lifeless body was discovered stretched on the floor at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Policeman Price and the proprietor of the hotel.
Coroner J. P. Finley was summoned and took charge of the body. Investigation satisfied the official that death was accidental, or due to drunkenness on the part of the young man, and no inquest will be held. Telegraphic instructions from the father at Cleveland were to ship the remains there for burial, and this will be done today.
"Investigation shows that young Brainard probably returned to his room late Saturday night; that he was intoxicated, or at least had imbibed too much liquor; that he turned on the gas and then laid down on the floor in a drunken stupor." said Coroner Finley. "Frank Monnin, his room-mate, was with him until about 9 o'clock. They attended a performance at the Star theatre, after which he returned to the room. At that time, Monnin states, they had drunk but three glasses of beer, and except for a brief cold, Brainard was well. Monnin went out, leaving Brainard in the room."
"When found by Policeman Price and Proprietor Buckley, the young man was dead, his body being stretched full length upon the floor. He had no money, although Monnin says he had about $8 when he left him at the room. This leads me to believe he went out after Monnin left and spent his money, probably for liquor, at least a portion of it. He was sick, as was shown plainly when we found him. I think it is clearly a case

KILLS HER COACHMAN FORTUNE OF $150,000

(Journal Special Service.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—The body of Mrs. Elora Chambers, a daughter of Gen. Thomas Morris of this city, who died recently in California, will lie here today, most of her property in this city. Her fortune of $150,000 was bequeathed to Harry Graves, coachman. Graves came to the home of Mrs. Chambers in rage. He was a drunkard and his wife was a prostitute and he was attracted to her, and offered him employment. When he failed, she went to California and he went with her. Thomas and his brother, brothers and natural enemies of Mrs. Chambers, will contest the ground that Graves exercised undue influence over their sister.

INSANE MAN CAUSES VISITORS TO FLEE

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, Nov. 7.—Visitors fled in terror from the elephant house of the menagerie at Central park yesterday afternoon, when a man named Ely, believed to be insane, battled with six policemen and keepers, who overpowered him after he had made an attempt to hurl a little girl under the feet of one of the elephants. He attracted attention early in the afternoon when he visited the elephant house and stood in front of the stalls, talking on loud tones.
His remarks were apparently addressed to the animals and he continued to talk incoherently when a small group gathered about him. Turning his attention from the animals to the visitors, Ely frightened a little girl by trying to hurl her under the feet of one of the elephants.

WILL TRY TO RAISE BATTLESHIP MAINE

(Journal Special Service.)
Washington, Nov. 7.—For $5,000 the United States Battleship Maine Salerage company of this city has bought from the Cuban government the wreck of the battleship Maine, in Havana harbor. A coffer dam will be built around the wreck and the hull will be raised. Such of the 74 bodies of the American sailors not recovered will be removed and buried with due honors in the United States, if the navy department desires to take charge of them, or in Havana if the Washington government makes no provision.
The salvager company will make arrangements for the sale of the machinery of the famous battleship. It is planned to tow the ship to Coney Island to be put on exhibition there.

"SOAPY" SMITH'S PAL RELEASED AT TACOMA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Nov. 7.—George Wilder, one of the participants in the duel to the death between Frank H. Reid and "Soapy" Smith's gang at Skagway, in 1898, has been released after a rough experience in Tacoma. Wilder and a man named Jackson, still in McNell Island prison, were indicted in Alaska, after the killing of Reid and "Soapy" Smith, on a charge of assault with intent to kill. They were convicted and sent to McNell Island, Jackson fighting the case, but finally landing there later than did Wilder.
When Wilder's time expired Saturday, Warden E. C. Miller came to Tacoma with Wilder, bringing another indictment against the man for the murder of Reid. Wilder was placed in custody, proclaiming that the indictment had been changed to assault, upon which he was convicted. The police communicated at once with Juneau, found that Wilder was correct, and there was no longer a charge against him, so he was given his liberty. He left at once for Denver, Col.
