

NATIONAL GRANGE HARD AT WORK

was introduced by T. C. Atkinson of Morgantown, W. Va., overseer of the National Grange, favoring the establishment of a permanent committee of arbitration at the Hague. The resolution provides for an international committee, and is for the purpose of settling all difficulties between nations by arbitration rather than by war. The resolution deposes the existence of war between Russia and Japan. It was referred to a committee, but will in all probability be adopted.

Reports were filed with the secretary of the overseer, the steward, the chaplain and Ceres of the National Grange. Reports were also received from the masters of the state granges of Colorado, Connecticut, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Vermont and West Virginia.

A communication was read by Mrs. Laura T. Haap from Governor George C. Pardee of California, extending a welcome to visit the state of California. A letter was also read from O. K. Kelly of Washington, D. C., the recognized founder of the order.

An invitation to members of the grange and delegates to the convention was extended to visit the Oregon Historical society at any time. A number of brief addresses of welcome and congratulatory nature were made by Mrs. I. L. Hillery, past master granger of Oregon, made a short address of welcome and read a paper, entitled, "The Gateway of Birth," which she presented as a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Remarks were also made by Mrs. E. K. Lord of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Ripperley of Connecticut, visiting members of the grange.

GRANGERS FOR PEACE.

Governor Atkinson in His Report Deplores Militarism.

In his annual report this morning, T. C. Atkinson, overseer of the national grange, said, in part:

"Agriculture is an occupation of peace and thrives only under peaceful conditions. The grange stands for peace, equity and justice, and has always advocated arbitration as the best means of settling industrial or international disputes. The true spirit of the grange can but deprecate any and everything that tends to develop the war spirit in our own country.

"Surely even the most militant person cannot doubt that our present army and navy are more than ample for our defense as no country in the world is in the least danger of provoking a war with us. It is therefore not unreasonable to ask that the preparations for wars which can never happen, except by our own fault, should cease and that we devote ourselves again to our true mission. If we have any surplus treasure let us expend it in lightening the expenses and the burdens of those whose days are given to toil and into whose lives enters far too little of brightness and joy.

"No observant citizen can doubt but that the spirit of militarism is greatly on the increase in our own country, and between the growth of colossal fortunes on the one hand and militarism on the other, the great mass of our citizenship may well look to the future with some degree of solicitude. The liberties of a free people have never been overthrown except by one of the other of these influences or the two combined.

"The grange should give forth no uncertain sound in its demands for peace and its influence should always be found supporting all things that make for peace, love, justice and mercy, among our great citizenship.

"That we may have peace let us have less of the getting ready for war, and just why the science of war should be yoked up with the science of agriculture in our agricultural colleges has never been very clear to me, and has always seemed like an effort to convert the implements of peace into the implements of war. The two things do not mix well together in the schools in the country. May the grange ever teach the

GRANGERS HAVE RECEPTION

Delegates and Visitors at the Grange Convention.

Christian doctrine, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Most People of Portland and Eastern Neighbors of Welcome.

An immense crowd gathered at the armory last night to attend the public reception given by the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry. It is estimated that between 2,000 and 2,500 people were there, and by all it was considered a most delightful feature of the convention. Governor Chamberlain and other state and city officials were present and met the delegates and the guests. Augustus High of Vancouver, the past master of the Washington state grange, presided.

In his address of welcome Governor Chamberlain said in part:

"An executive of the state I extend to you a most cordial welcome. Oregon is proud to entertain as her guests such a distinguished body of ladies and gentlemen as those who compose the national and several state granges, and all of her people hope that your stay here may be most pleasant.

"The national grange has had for its first object the betterment of the condition of the farming classes of the United States, and it is impossible for any one to calculate the good that has been accomplished by it and its membership throughout the country.

An Age of Organization.

"This is an age of organization, and that body of men is best able to meet and overcome obstacles in the way of successful enterprise who can breast them with perfect organization and consolidation of their forces.

"Greater attention ought to be paid in the public schools of the state to instruction along the lines of field and farm. The trend of public thought is in this direction, but until some concentrated effort is put behind it to force this thought upon the people, it will not be put into practical operation but much can be expected at the hands of those in authority.

"The farmer either by direct or indirect taxation pays more to administer the affairs of government than any other class of laborer. His lands, which are his stock in trade, are open and visible and contribute to county and state support, whilst wealth in the shape of stocks and bonds escapes its just proportion of direct taxation; and the burden imposed by excessive tariff rates, rests more heavily on the farming classes of the country than upon the wealthy denizens of the cities."

Master Granger Jones' Response.

Worthy Master Granger Aaron Jones responded to the governor's address in a facetious way that was heartily applauded.

"If we had caught that young man young and put him into the grange, we would have been able to have made a pretty good sort of an American citizen out of him," he said.

In behalf of the city Mayor Williams delivered an appropriate address of welcome. He said in part:

"I am here as the official representative of Portland to extend to you a cordial and hearty welcome to this city. We fully realize the advantages and usefulness of your association. The agricultural interests of the country are paramount to all other interests. When the country prospers the city prospers; when the farmers prosper the tradesmen prosper, as well as the business derive their vitality from agriculture. The hand that holds the plow holds in a large measure the wealth of the country. Co-operation among the cultivators of the soil is in many ways productive of good results. Consultation develops improved business methods. In a multitude of counselors there is wisdom. Social gatherings add to the enjoyment of life."

Governor N. J. Bachelder of New Hampshire responded to the mayor's address. He declared that the delegates recognized in Portland the industrial and business center of the Pacific Northwest, as well as the most beautiful city of that territory. He assured the people of this city equally as cordial a greeting if they ever visited New England.

E. G. Leedy, master granger of Oregon, delivered an address of welcome in behalf of the patrons of the Northwest. E. B. Norris, master of the New York state grange, responded. Two songs were rendered by Miss Verma Welch Royal and were vigorously applauded. A company of 18 young women, representing the Royal circle No. 523, Women of Woodcraft, gave an interesting exhibition of drill work. They were in command of Colonel Jones' orchestra furnished the music and rendered several patriotic airs.

EXPLOSION OF GAS DISMANTLES BUILDING

An Entire Front is Hurlled Forward Into a San Francisco Street.

(Journal Special Service.)

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—A gas explosion almost completely wrecked a three-story frame flat building at Washington and Leavenworth streets this morning, and probably fatally injured F. H. Bradley whose cigar ignited the gas.

Many other occupants of the building were hurt, but none seriously. After the explosion it was found that several panes of the house had been partially overcome by gas, which had flowed all night from a jet in the first floor.

Bradley was passing down stairs when the gas was ignited by his cigar. The force of the explosion hurled him and the front of the building into the street.

Many pedestrians on the street narrowly escaped as the front of the building leaped outward, hurling fragments of timbers and clouds of dust from the disintegrated plastering.

A report quickly spread that many bodies were buried in the ruins and even before the fire department arrived men garmed over the wreck and pulled frantically at the "heaped-up" timbers. Beside those in the building, however, none were injured.

Those within were wounded only by falling plastering or fragments of timber. The stairway was destroyed and the firemen conducted a spectacular as well as perilous search through the fats resulting those within the ruins.

APPLICATION OF COUNSEL DENIED

(Journal Special Service.)

New York, Nov. 17.—Justice Clarke of the supreme court has denied the application of counsel for Miss Sara Madden, the actress, who is suing Peter Duryea for $50,000 for breach of promise, for an additional bill of particulars.

In his decision Justice Clarke says the bill of particulars already granted, mentioned the names of four men associated with her. Duryea is a breeder of trotting horses and a partner of W. E. D. Stokes, the owner of Patchen and the Wilkes stock farm at Lexington, Ky. He has apartments at the Hotel Ansonia.

In her statement, the claim is made by Miss Madden that she and Duryea became acquainted in March, 1897, and in May, 1898, in response to his request she promised to marry him. Since that time she has, so she asserts, refused many advantageous offers from others, but Duryea has declined to fulfill his promise. Duryea denies that he ever promised to marry Miss Madden.

Hungarian Brigands in Manchuria Are Led by a Disgraced Officer.

(Journal Special Service.)

St. Petersburg, Nov. 17.—The "News of the Manchurian Army," published in this city, declares that the most daring band of Hungarians in Manchuria is commanded by a disgraced Japanese colonel named Hiyodi, whose history is described as follows:

When the war broke out Hiyodi asked to be readmitted to the army as a private soldier. His request was refused. He then declared, it is said, that he would make war on his own account. He shipped to the Yalu in a junk, and, making his way overland, obtained a chieftainship among the Hungages by distributing liberally forged paper money. Hiyodi first operated on the railway near Taichichow, but had now gone north. He is a big, bearded man, resembling a European, but dresses in Chinese garb, wearing a cryanthemum flag as a necktie. He invariably charges at the head of his men, and once shot down a subordinate for running ahead of him.

Hiyodi has sworn to make war on Russia as long as he has life. "Japan," he says, "may make peace, but I will continue the war as long as I live. If Russia is driven from Manchuria I will migrate to Siberia and make war there."

MRS. TALBERT WOULD NOT FEED CHICKENS

While occupying the witness stand at the hearing of the suit for damages brought against her by Emma C. Talbert, in Circuit Judge Frazer's court this morning, asked John E. Trigg wept copiously. He was asked whether the plaintiff had any children.

"No," he moaned, bringing out a large handkerchief to stem the torrent of tears flowing down his cheeks. "God knows I wish she had. Then there would have been a bond between us, she would have warded off all this trouble."

Mrs. Talbert turned up her nose and sniffed contemptuously at this exhibition of emotion.

"I have done lots of washing. I am as good a washer as she is," said the witness, meaning Mrs. Talbert by "she."

One of his defenses for her suit is that she wouldn't feed chickens or gather their eggs.

COURT EN BANC HEARS KINNEY'S DEMURRER

Sitting en banc, Circuit Judge George Sears and Cleveland were occupied this morning in hearing argument on a demurrer interposed by Marshall J. Kinney to the suit for $75,000, brought against him by William M. Bray. Attorney W. W. Capton appears for Bray and Senator Joseph Simon and Attorney John Smith of Astoria for Kinney. The plaintiff alleges that March 15, 1915, Kinney entered into an agreement with the Southern Oregon company to purchase its property, consisting of lands now worth $500,000, for $500,000. Of this amount $5,000 was paid down to secure an option.

By a subsequent agreement with Kinney, the plaintiff claims, he was to receive a third interest by paying one third the purchase price, and advanced a third of the $5,000, or $1,666.66, on an installment of $5,000, so he asserts, made a number of trips in connection with the deal and paid in part for the defense to a suit, all aggregating $25,000.

The remaining $50,000 he asks as damages, alleging that while he was all ways ready with his money when installments were due, Kinney kept delaying matters and failed to put up money until the time of the option had expired.

GIRL IS GUILTY FAINS IN COURT

Sensational Close to the Trial of May Rice Before Municipal Judge Hogue.

IS IN SERIOUS DANGER BUT RECOVERS SHORTLY

Her Sweetheart Hears Her Express a Strong Preference for Chinese Lover.

Upon hearing the verdict of guilty found against a jury in Municipal Judge Hogue's court today, pretty May Rice fainted, and but for the quick work of City Physician Zan it is believed she would have died. She was hurriedly removed from the courtroom to Matron Simmons' apartments, where she recovered.

The sensational scene came as a climax to another dramatic feature of the hearing. In the room, which was crowded with spectators, was L. D. Hunt, who resides on East Burnside street. When Miss Rice, the defendant, told the jury she liked George Keys, a Chinese boy better than any American, Hunt threw up his hands, gasped and fell on the floor. The crowd surged about him, breaking up the hearing of the Rice case until Hunt was carried from the room by Bailiff Golts and Policeman Carr and revived by applications of cold water.

Rather than listen to further testimony in the case, Hunt took a car for his home.

The case then proceeded. All of the evidence was given. Attorney John F. Watts, for the defense, made his address to the jury. Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald followed, and the instructions of Judge Hogue were delivered. The jury retired, but quickly returned with the verdict.

Just as Clerk Fred Olson read the words "find the defendant guilty," Miss Rice fainted. Her aged mother, who had feared her daughter would not be able to sit through the hearing without an attack, rushed to her side. Again Bailiff Golts, assisted by Policeman Carlson, took charge and removed the young woman to the matron's apartments.

After a long talk between Mrs. Rice and Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald, the young woman was permitted to go home, upon condition that she will not in future keep company with Chinese or conduct herself in a disorderly manner.

Miss Rice told Judge Hogue she preferred a berth at the city jail to being sent to the boys' and girls' aid society or the Magdalen home, and she would not live with her father, at Vancouver, Wash., because he made her wear castoff clothing from her stepmother.

Keys, the Chinaman, was fined $50. Allice Alexander, arrested with the Rice girl by Policeman Carlson, is still charged with robbing the streets after hours, but sentence has been continued indefinitely.

DRINK CAUSES HIM TO ROB GOVERNMENT

(Journal Special Service.)

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—After three years' search, United States secret service officers yesterday arrested one of the most ingenious swindlers the government has ever had to deal with. He is James H. Cary, a university man and lawyer, with offices in this city. He has been for years taking gold from $20 pieces and keeping the light coins in circulation.

His method was simple and at the same time hard to detect. He would carefully drill a dozen holes along the milled edge of a $20 piece and catch the filling thus obtained. He was enabled to get $2 in gold out of every coin, and then filled up the holes with small brass nails, which he filed down to the level of the coin and covered them with a thin coating of gold in the refilled places. The coins were left to all appearances as they were before, and was an easy matter to pass them. When arrested at his home he admitted his guilt and showed his plant to the officers. Drink has been his undoing.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED IN RIO DE JANEIRO

(Journal Special Service.)

Washington, Nov. 17.—Martial law has been declared in Rio de Janeiro, according to official advices received at the state department today. This action follows action by both houses of congress in Rio de Janeiro yesterday in which the declaration was made that a state of siege existed.

President Alves sent a message to both houses in which he stated that if permission were given him to arrest senators and deputies who were in reality ring leaders of disturbances, that he could restore order within 48 hours. It is presumed that such permission was given him.

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—At the morning session of the American Federation of Labor addresses were made by the British fraternal delegates. It condemns the present steamboat inspection laws and suggests numerous restrictions.

The matter of seating Delegate Schardt of the Chicago Federation of Labor, which was expected to develop one of the fiercest fights of the convention, was put over until tomorrow. D. G. Ramsay of Colorado, representing the railroad telegraphers, is being put forward for the presidency.

SHERIDAN MAN IS FATALLY WOUNDED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Sheridan, Or., Nov. 17.—Marv Potter was shot and fatally wounded in this city yesterday afternoon by John Dickens, proprietor of the Sheridan hotel. Both men are about 45 years of age. Dickens is married and Potter is unmarried. While not definitely known as to what led up to the shooting, it is supposed that jealousy or an old grudge was the immediate cause. The two men were seen engaged in earnest conversation and Dickens suddenly pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired at Potter, who was not distant from him more than three feet. The bullet struck Potter in the mouth. He fell to the ground and Dickens fired two more shots into the prostrate man's back.

A physician who examined the wounded man found that the first shot had entered Potter's mouth and lodged in the back of his head. One of the other shots had lodged in the spine after passing through the kidneys, and the other had lodged in the abdominal cavity. The physician pronounced the case a hopeless one and says that Potter will die within a few hours.
