

CLARK IS SOOR IN PORTLAND

HE NOW THINKS THAT THIS IS A VERY JAY TOWN

Chief of Police Hunt Unable to Tell Him When Poolrooms Will Reopen.

Carrying a roll of bills so big that it would have put the famous hurdle racer, Duke of York, on his mettle to jump over it, T. F. Clark, better known as "Stoney" Clark, came all the way from Kansas City, Mo., to Portland to engage in the poolroom business.

Up to date "Stoney" has found his trip a losing venture, but to the sum of his knowledge he has added something interesting—he has learned that Chief of Police Hunt is not a prophet.

Clark is a Missourian and he has been "shown." His verdict, accordingly, is that "Portland is a jay town." He has written to his friends in several cities and recorded his opinion of the webfoot metropolis in no uncertain terms. And what mystifies him the most is that Portland's police chief doesn't seem to understand the poolroom situation any better than the lay citizen.

Witnesses of the accident summoned an ambulance and the injured man was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. He did not recover consciousness and Dr. Jones and City Physician Zan, who are in attendance, say the man has practically no chance of living. In addition to severe internal injuries he suffered a compound fracture of the base of the skull.

VALUABLE QUEEN BEE

From the Boston Transcript. Just as there are valuable strains in horses, cattle and other stock, so there are varieties of queen bees which are worth many hundred times their weight in gold. The most valuable strain is the Italian, and many Italian bee farmers demand and receive without question prices ranging from $50 to $200 for a single queen bee of a certain kind. Such bees are sent all over the world. The owner of a bee farm near Ottawa, Canada, goes to Europe annually and brings back with him bees of an aggregate value of thousands of dollars.
