SEPTEMBER SHORTS.

City and County News Notes of Minor Importance.

John Johnson had a silver tongue That he enjoyed a rest.
A child, he talked his friend to sleep.
At school he talked the best.
When speech was on the hill of fare John Johnson never failed.
Asleep, as well as when awake, He talked and talked and talked.
He talked the simple off the roof,
The hinges off the door, Until at last he got a wife,
And then he talked no more.

Salmon shipped a carload of horses last night.

Two dachshunds were arrested for tramping yesterday and fined by the recorder.

The Living Issue (populist) is now a dead issue, the office having been closed last week.

Caterpillars are numerous, and are crawling all over the sidewalks. There are several kinds of them.

Although gold is pouring into the country, an eastern paper says the only feasible method of getting it is the good old fashioned method of working for it.

A report reaches the city that a freight train occurred today this side of Un-milla. It is not yet confirmed and there are no particulars.

Mr. J. R. Winter of Prineville shipped the Saltmarsh & Co.'s stock yards this morning twenty-four head of fine large horses to Indiana, his old home.

The subject of the sermon this evening at the Christian church: "Messages From the Dead, or Have We Testimony Enough?" This subject is not doctrinal, but instructive and interesting.

This place has been favored with .86 of an inch of rainfall since Wednesday afternoon, notwithstanding Mr. Pague's sub in the tower of the Oregonian building's forecast of fair weather and killing frosts.

No one has yet given the queer fish a name, mention of which was made yesterday. An old Californian said that this same kind of fish invaded the Sacramento river many years ago and drove out all the salmon of that stream.

The Rowe Lumbering Company's logging teams left Portland yesterday for the upper Columbia river by the Dalles City boat. It is the intention of the company to start a saw mill during the coming winter at or near The Dalles.

Mr. Myron Farrington, at Fairfield school house is in the city today, and we earn that he has been threshing right long every day, and that the grain is not injured. If this west wind continues a day or two, one would hardly know that a heavy rain had fallen. The ground is in fine condition for the plow and some have started their teams to work turning over the soil for fall sowing of wheat.

A SMALL FAVOR.

Pat's Funny Request Put a Stop to the Duel.

Although it is a familiar saying that an Irishman is always spoiling for a fight, still there is one kind of fighting to which even the brave sons of Erin are sometimes averse. This is dueling.
A story well illustrating this fact has recently come to us.

A certain Irishman, having been challenged to fight a duel, accepted the conditions after much persuasion on the part of his friends, who felt confident of his success. His antagonist, a lame man, walked on crutches.

When the place for the shooting had been reached the lame man's seconds asked that he be allowed to lean against a milestone which happened to stand there. The privilege was allowed, and the lame man took his stand.

The Irishman and his seconds drew off to the distance agreed upon, one hundred feet. Here Pat's courage suddenly failed him and he shouted to the lame man:

"I've a small favor to ask of ye, son!"
"What is it?" asked the cripple.

Pat answered: "I could ye that ye might lean ag'in the milepost, and now I would like the privilege of leanin' ag'in the next one."

The laugh that followed spoiled everybody's desire for a fight, and the whole party went home without a shot having been fired.—Youth's Companion.

GENTLEMEN: Having suffered a great deal from headache for years and being unable to get relief until it would wear away of itself, I saw Krause's Headache Capsules advertised. I tried them, and now am never without them, finding it the only remedy that will give relief. When I now find a headache coming on I take a capsule and always find the relief instantaneous. Respectfully yours, G. H. WILSON, Boston, Mass.
The above letter is only one of the many which go to prove the remarkable benefits received from the use of Krause's Headache Capsules. Any person suffering from headache should procure these capsules at once. Beware of imitations.

MARKET REPORT.

The Outlook the Same as for Some Weeks.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 12.—The late rains which have been copious, have had a very demoralizing effect on all kinds of traffic. The quietness in business circles continues, and nothing above a hand to mouth trade has been had by our merchants for the last few days.
Some dealers are already replenishing their depleted stocks in anticipation of more activity in the near future.

Prices in all general lines of dry goods are unchanged, while in groceries there are some slight changes noticeable.

Country produce is in the usual supply at unchanged quotations, and it can be said that the market is quite sluggish in movement.

The wheat situation is very unsatisfactory. The markets are unsettled and with the shortage of product reported, there may be hopes for better prices in the future. At least there is a stiffen-ing of the markets abroad as well as in the east.

The wool situation continues unchanged. Mr. Rice, of Denny Rice & Co., of Boston, Mass., says the market will continue to be depressed until congress gives some assurance that the tariff laws will not be molested, or any radical change take place under the present administration.

In finances, while there is a general tightness, there seems to be an easier tone prevailing, and it can be said that the past depressing influences are letting up measurably.

DULL AND CONTENTED.

Graphic Sketch of the People in a Well-Governed French-Canadian Village.

In the quiet village, where the good cure's word is law, there is likely to be little brawling and less drinking, for the French-Canadians are neither quarrelsome nor intemperate. There may be a tavern, or perhaps two taverns, where not only guests are received, but where liquor is sold, but the cure sees to it that they are closed very early in the evening. Long before midnight the streets of the place are deserted, and a late wanderer need have no fear of drunken hoodlums. A well-governed French-Canadian village, where the cure is thoroughly respected because of his wisdom and piety, affords a decided contrast to many rural communities in English Canada and on our own side of the border.

The people are not enterprising. At least this seems to be true of all but a few exceptions. They are content to take what comes in their way, with the happy faith that the morrow will bring with it its daily bread. They are averse to breaking in new lands, and, as the families are large, the division of the farm generation after generation finally results in such small portions that some of the children must seek employment elsewhere if all are to live. Very few of them are willing to go to the new lands of Manitoba and the northwest, but they find congenial occupation in the cities.
They are admirable mechanics and are most loyal and devoted servants, says Henry Loomis Nelson in Harper's Magazine.

The Scotchman or Englishman who is at the head of a great establishment prefers the French-Canadians to his own countrymen as subordinates. He will tell you that the Frenchmen will remain with him all their lives; that no such thought as seeking new employment or leaving the old for the purpose of engaging in ventures for himself will ever enter a French-Canadian's head. He will stay by his old employer all his life, and his son will succeed to his own or a better place in the service of the house. On the other hand, the Englishman or Scotchman will take the first opportunity to go into business for himself, and will use his employment as a stepping-stone to something better.

PORTLAND, OR., Dec. 6, 1892.

O. W. R. Mfg. Co., 315 Front st., city: Gentlemen: I recently sustained a bad fall while carrying two heavy cans, and my back was severely strained. A friend handed me a part of a bottle of Hatter's Congo Oil, and three applications gave me permanent relief. I heartily recommend it. Yours truly,
