ODD WEDDINGS.

Frecks Who Have Been Joined Together in Wedlock.

One Couple Married by Proxy While Thousands of Miles Apart—Some of the Queer Pranks of Cupid.

The conventional idea of a wedding does not agree with the tastes of some people, and occasionally very eccentric and sometimes romantic marriage ceremonies are solemnized. Men and women entirely opposite in disposition and character frequently unite in the holy bonds of matrimony—sometimes much to their mutual regret. This peculiar fact, it would seem, also applies to oddities of human nature. In many of the traveling shows the freaks who help to draw money from the public intermarry, and it is not an unusual thing to find the fat man wedded to the skeleton woman, and the tattooed man to the bearded lady.

Mrs. Hannah Battersby, who at one time toured the country as a fat woman, was married to a Pennsylvania man, and it is stated as a curious fact that no sooner were they married than she began to lose flesh and he to gain it. His weight increased rapidly, that he soon took to exhibiting himself as a fat man. An exception to this rule of contract, however, was Col. Glover, the giant, who stood six feet seven inches. He was wedded to Martha Peabody, the American giantess. Several years ago, when they appeared in public together, they used to receive as much as $750 a week.

The Italian consular agent at Cincinnati performed the most peculiar marriage ceremony on record. The groom was a well-to-do resident of the Ohio city and his bride lived in Italy. The contracting parties were thousands of miles apart when the wedding was performed, the marriage being by proxy. The consul filled in a blank certificate, which he forwarded to authorities in Italy, who in the presence of the parish priest exhibited it before the bride, who affixed her signature, accepting it as her action. The marriage was perfectly binding.

A very similar ceremony was performed some time ago. The affair took place by proxy, and Miss Maple was married by a clergyman in New York to a man who at the time of the marriage lay dying in a Texas town. The bridegroom was represented in the ceremony by the bride's cousin, who made the necessary responses and signatures as his proxy. The two lovers had been engaged for a long time, and Miss Maple wished to learn the name of her betrothed even though she could do so only as a widow.

The all-important ring is sometimes forgotten, and in more than one case the door-keeper of the church has had to do duty, but it is not often that portions of the marriage service are omitted. In a southern town, however, a little while ago, after the party had left the church it was discovered that the clergyman had forgotten the words, "with this ring I thee wed," etc., thus relieving the bridegroom of the most serious part of his obligations, and the fair bride was minus a wedding ring. Instead of sitting down to a breakfast the party hurried back to the church and were thus practically married twice in one day.

Cupid ran amuck some time ago among the old folk of a Georgia town. An old soldier, 75 years of age, led to his altar an aged damsel who had been 75 summers. There were three brides maides, whose ages respectively were 60, 68 and 70. They were all spinsters. The best man, who was 75, brought the combined ages up to 423 years.

An unusual kind of marriage was celebrated in New York recently. This was between a couple both deaf and dumb. They held prayer books which a friend pointed out the different passages in the service as they were spoken by the clergyman, and the made the customary responses in their deaf and dumb alphabet.

An ingenious couple once conceived the idea of being married by phonograph. In the place where the bridegroom resided he and the minister went over the marriage service, and he recited the proper responses into the instrument. The phonograph was sent to the lady, she willingly supplying the requisite "I will" and "I do" in the presence of her pastor, who then pronounced the pair united in matrimony. No explanation is given of how they got over the difficulty of the ring.

A well-known anthropologist, in describing various marriage customs, refers to a strange sort of symbolical marriage which is supposed to have originated in India. It is a marriage with trees, plants, animals and inanimate objects. If anyone proposes to enter upon a union which is not in accordance with traditional ideas, it is believed that ill luck, which is sure to follow may be averted by a marriage of this kind, the evil consequences being borne by the object chosen. In various regions a girl must marry before her eldest sister, but the difficulty is overcome by the eldest daughter marrying the branch of a tree. When the wedding of the younger daughter may safely be celebrated.—Buffalo Express.

Only One Sale.

There is a pleasant little story about a party of drummers sitting in the smoking-room of a sleeper talking about trade. One after another had told about what sort of trade he'd been having, and they'd all been doing well; but the last man of all, when it came his turn, said he'd made only one sale in six weeks. The rest started in to sympathize with him a little on this, but when they came to ask him what business he was in and learned that he traveled for a bridge-building establishment, and that his last sale was a steel bridge something less than a mile long for about $500,000, they agreed that he wasn't doing so poorly after all.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
