WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The county clerk is engaged in mapping and recording the road districts of the county as they exist at the present time.

Two hoboes were before the recorder this morning. They said nothing, and are now sawing wood to settle a bill of $5 each.

There will be a business meeting of the Epworth League this evening in the lecture room of the M. E. church at 8:30. All members are requested to be present.

The city council met last evening, but on the roll being called it was found Jonathan Bourne's tactics had been adopted and there was no quorum present. The meeting was adjourned to Friday evening.

The senate at noon today adjourned over until Monday. It is thought that by that time the lower house may get together. Until it does, it can only adjourn from day to day. After tomorrow the members can draw no pay until the organization.

Chris. Meier is agent for the Excelsior Burglar Alarm. It is a compact little affair that can be carried in ones pocket and can be applied instantly to any door or window. The opening of the door or raising of the window at once sets the alarm going. It is a neat device and never hangs fire.

The sun came out beautiful this morning, tinting the snow-clad hills of Klickitat with a pink blush like a Dalles girl's first effort in the line, and introducing the Dalles people to long lost shadows. As the weather clerk has promised us fair weather tomorrow, we may get used to this sort of thing, but it is decidedly strange to see the sun in all shine as it was a while today.

Mr. Story Was First.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:
In your article of Tuesday I think you have done an unintentional injustice to Mr. Story in relation to the matter of the case of King vs. The Eastern Oregon Land Co. It is true that I was interested in the case of White and Ward against Higenbotham and Powell, which involved the same question; but those cases have not, as far as I know, as yet been decided by the secretary of the interior. The commissioner of the general land office decided against us in the Higenbotham case, as he did against Mr. Story in the King case, and we appealed to the secretary of the interior. I do not know in what order the cases were appealed, but I presume they were taken up about the same time. I presume the ground taken in the brief was about the same in all the cases, although I have not seen Mr. Story's brief.

Mr. Story is entitled to the credit of having obtained the first decision from the secretary of the interior favorable to our contention in these cases. I am not entitled to any credit for the decision in the King case. I write this out of a spirit of simple justice.

Very Respectfully,

A. S. BENNETT.

Concerning a Dog.

"Think naught a trifle, though it small appear, sands make the mountain; moments make the year, And trifles life."

So said the poet, and history indorses his statement. Bologna went to war over a bucket; Troy fell on account of a woman; Grecian mythology tells how heaven was upset by an apple inscribed "To the Most Beautiful," which, by the way, was the first cause of the siege of Troy, and sacred history records the stupendous effects caused by plucking one small apple. Why, then, should we turn up our cultured noses because someone comes to the front with a half column of private woe on account of a dog. A dog is larger than a bucket, much larger than an apple. This being true, we gladly give space to the subjoined letter, which is presumably the simple, unvarnished tale of a dog. THE CHRONICLE said the dog was a cur dog the trouble arose over, but it seems it was mistaken. It didn't occur that way. Mr. Jackel's letter, hereto appended, speaks for itself, also for the dog:

CENTREVILLE, Jan. 11, 1897.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

SIR:—In reply to an article published in THE CHRONICLE of Jan. 9th, and headed "All About a Common Cur Dog," I wish to make the following correction: The said canine was a well trained sheep dog, and had been in my possession for four years past last November. About the 18th of December, 1896, Henry Yeackel and Henry Ritackke came to my sheep herder and took forcible possession of the dog, claiming they had bought the dog from young Wheelhouse. The statement claiming that Con. Yeackel had possession prior to this time is a lie. In regard to the suit to replevin and possession of the dog, the actual owners, as per evidence, disclaimed the dog in controversy, his testimony proving that it was a different dog altogether than the one in dispute. But the Justice of Centerville court decided the case against me, on the grounds that Mr. Wheelhouse was too good a man, that he couldn't discountenance his testimony.

U. P. SAM.

His Fiddle and His Songs. Recall the Old Mining Days.

U. P. Sam came in from his winter quarters at Dufur yesterday, and amused an idle crowd with his music last night. Sam is a character, a relic of by-gone days, and his strident voice and not always harmonious fiddle, recall the visions of other days. As the soulful strains of "Sweet Betsy from Pike," leap from the tortured catgut and pulsate the shuddering East Oregon ozone, one recalls the bearded miner, the long trains of patient pack animals following the giddy old gray bell-mare, the covered wagons, the big teams, and the swearing machines that drove them. One can again hear the hurdy house music, and the swish and thud of booted feet as they whirled the hand-painted damels of those days in the worldly waltz, and the clink of glasses as the music ceased and they all slid up to the bar to get their three fingers of coffin varnish straight. But those days are gone, only to be recalled in memory, when such as U. P. Sam lift the curtain that hides the long ago.

Sam is on his way to Salem, he says, to assist in organizing the lower house of the legislature. "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," and Mayhap Sam may prove exactly what is needed. At least he cannot make things worse than they are.

THE CHRONICLE suggests that he be employed as amusement committee for the unorganized. For $5 per day Sam will show each side up to the other in doggerel verse and hog-coral music, that will make both sides sorry they are alive. We look for a successful organization of the lower house in less than six hours after Sam gets in the crowd.

C. F. BAKER ARRESTED.

In Jail for Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses.

This morning's Oregonian has the following account of the misdoings of a young man formerly of this city. He was arrested here for conducting a fake bicycle raffle, but never brought to trial. His father resides here and is a most estimable man and citizen, who will have the sympathy of all in the worse than death of his son. The story of the crime is as follows:

C. F. Baker, who claims to be a real estate and insurance agent, was arrested in the Hotel Imperial by Detectives Welsh and McGuire at 8 o'clock last night. The charge against Baker is obtaining money under false pretenses, preferred by A. B. Steinbach & Co., but it will probably be changed to one of forgery today.

Yesterday afternoon Baker entered Steinbach's store and bought clothing, amounting to $58. He offered in payment a check for $200, made in favor of Rosa Jones, and bearing the signature of T. A. Seufert, of The Dalles. The check was indorsed with a lead pencil by a well-known business man of the city as follows: "This is C. F. Baker. R. W.—" After some hesitation the salesman who sold Baker the clothes took the check and returned him $50, promising to pay the rest when the check was cashed. Baker left the store, and when he had gone, some one learned that Seufert was in town, and was stopping at the Hotel Imperial. He was hunted up at once, and denied having issued any check to Baker. Last evening the alleged real estate agent was traced by the clothing men to the Hotel Imperial, and they immediately telephoned to the police station for an arresting officer. Captain Barry sent up Detectives Welsh and McGuire, who arrested Baker and took him to the police station, notwithstanding his protestations of innocence and threats to make monkeys out of them if they did not let him go.

When he was searched, three notes, each for $200, were found on his person, all three signed by Rosa Jones, and a warranty deed conveying some property from Baker to Rosa Jones for the consideration of $800.

There was also a mortgage on the property given to Baker by Miss Jones.

The detectives started out on a search for Miss Jones, having a clew to her whereabouts from some of the papers in Baker's possession. They soon found her in a room in the Marquam lodging house, where Baker and his sick wife were also rooming. They at once knew her as Rosa Lovelace, who is very well known in Portland. The detectives took the woman to the police station, and she told them how the checks happened to be made out in her name. She said that she and Baker went together to a lawyer's office and had the deed, mortgage and three notes made out, which were afterward found on his person. Then, in the presence of the lawyer, she indorsed the check and gave him the three notes. The object of the whole transaction was to shield Baker in case he was detected in passing the check, and the Lovelace woman was to receive a slice of the money he got from it. After hearing her story, the detectives sent her upstairs, and she will be held as a witness against Baker.

Mr. Seufert came to the police station last night and informed the detectives that Baker is wanted at The Dalles for obtaining money under false pretenses there.

Baker is a man of about 35, smooth-shaven, and has an intelligent countenance. He has been about the city for three weeks and has a wife lying ill in room 47, Marquam lodging-house.

A few days ago Detective McGuire saw him trying to borrow $20 on the same check from a storekeeper, but as he did not know whether or not the check was genuine, he paid little attention to the circumstances.

We all know that any tired muscle can be restored by rest. Your stomach is a muscle. Dyspepsia is its manner of saying "I am tired. Give me rest." To rest the stomach you must do its work outside of the body.

This is the Shaker's method of curing indigestion, and its success is best attested by the fact that these people are practically free from what is without doubt the most prevalent of all diseases. The Shaker Digestive Cordial not only contains digested food which is promptly absorbed without taxing the tired digestive organs, but it is likewise an aid to the digestion of other foods in the stomach. A 10 cent trial bottle will convince you of its merit, and those you can obtain through all druggists. (3)

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by the use of two bottles. For past three years has been at tendin to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottle free at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug store. (2)

Notice Special School Meeting.

Notice is hereby given to the legal voters of school district No. 12, of Wasco county, state of Oregon, that a special school meeting of the said district will be held at the brick school house on court street, on the 30th day of January, 1897, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day for the following objects:

To determine what action said district will take relative to voting a special school tax for the support of the public school of said district; also to determine what action the district will take relative to voting a tax to be used in paying a part or all of the debt of said district; also what action the district will take for the erection or rental of additional school buildings and providing funds for the payment of the same. Dated this 14th day of January, 1897.
