A GALLANT RESCUE.

Frank Baker and Joe Mays rescued Their Comrades at Risk of Death.

Ed Mays and James Muir, who work for the Winans Bros., while crossing the river at Winans' place, got too near the whirlpools and their boat was swamped. They and the boat were both sucked down by the whirling water, and it is only owing to the heroic action of two other young men, working for Winans, that their corpses are not now at the bottom of the river. Frank Baker and Joe Mays saw the accident, and without stopping to consider the danger, leaped into a small boat and went to the rescue. They fortunately saved both men, though it was a scratch, as they had been drawn under by the whirlpools a dozen times.

The miraculousness of the escape and the risk the boys ran can be judged from the fact that the first boat was wrecked by a whirl starting under it that turned it over and took it to the bottom.

The rescuers followed the drowning men through the rapids where it was almost a miracle that their boat was not swamped, and their heroic act was rewarded with a glorious victory, for verily between the whole party and death there was not a hair.

On and after July 1, 1897, costs will be added for the collection of all taxes due Wasco county on all delinquent rolls now in the hands of the sheriff. This is an imperative order from the county court, and the sheriff has no option but to collect such taxes by levy on property if not paid voluntarily by property owners. All parties concerned are hereby notified that no leniency will be shown in the collection of taxes after July 1, and that levy will be made on all property delinquent after that date.

T. J. DRIVER, Sheriff of Wasco County.

Mr. Robert Dietrick came up from Mt. Hood, that is from the upper part of Hood River valley, where the postoffice of that name is located. He is one of settlers inside of the forest reserve and is having trouble about his homestead. His health is poor and he is compelled to leave his place at times on that account and some good people and a special agent of the government seem disposed to take advantage of his misfortunes to beat him out of his ranch. He has expended more than a thousand dollars on the place, and does not feel like giving it up without a struggle.

See that it is there!

TRAVELS OF A DIAMOND.

Story of a Paris Jeweler's Experience with a Very Fine Stone.

Some years ago a Paris jeweler told a story of one diamond which had passed over his counter no less than 11 times. It was a beautiful stone of nearly four carats, of perfect color and luster, but easily identified by means of a small "feather" in the tip of the lowest part. He bought it from an East India dealer and had it set in a ring. It was sold to a countess in 1866, just before the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war. The countess died in a few weeks, and the ring was worn by her husband. He was killed in the siege of Paris, and a few days after his death the ring was brought in the ring and sold to the mon soldier. He was arrested, and the ring was sent to the family of the dead count. Before the siege ended they brought in the ring and sold it to the dealer in order to procure money to buy food. Directly after the siege it passed into the hands of an English tourist who visited the city to get a look at the ruin wrought by the communists, and a year later back came the stone from the Indian buyer of the firm, who, on being written to and desired to tell how he got it, stated that it had been the property of an English tourist hunter who was killed by a tiger, and his friends sold the ring to get means to send the body home. The stone was reset, and soon found a purchaser in a prominent member of the demi-monde, who not long afterward was murdered in her room. Among the articles taken by the murderer was the ring, and the firm began to wonder how soon it would turn up. They had not long to wait, for all their people had by this time learned about the stone, and were on the lookout for it. After six months it was found in the showcase of a jeweler in London, who had bought it from a firm in Amsterdam. It was bought by the Paris agent, and sent back to be started afresh on its travels. It was purchased again by a woman of the town, who, six weeks later, was drawn out of the Seine with the gem on her finger, and, by a strange coincidence, it was offered to the firm that sold it by the police agents, the court having jurisdiction having ordered it to be sold. And so it went from hand to hand, attended with misfortune at every change and usually bringing death to the possessor. Laborers in the Goleonda mines used to say that when a stone was baptized in blood when first taken from the earth it caused the shedding of blood wherever it went, and the story of one such ill-omened gem goes far to confirm belief in such a superstition.—Jeweler's Review.

On the occasion of the meeting of the grand lodge of Elks at Minneapolis, the O. R. & N. will sell round trip tickets July 24, good to return until July 31st, for $60.50. At that point, tickets will have to be purchased to Milwaukee, costing for the round trip $12.30.

STARVELING COLLEGES.

Early Struggles for Existence of Our Schools and Universities.

The American college of the middle of this century, like its English original, existed for the work of the church. If the college dies the church dies was the basis of its appeal for money and influence. Its duty, says David Starr Jordan in the Popular Science Monthly, was to form a class of educated men in whose hands should lie the preservation of the creed. In the mouths of ignorant men the truths of the church would be clouded. Each wise church would see that its wisdom be not marred by human folly.

The needs of one church indicated the needs of others. So it came about that each of the many organizations called churches in America established its colleges here and there about the country, all based on the same general plan.

And as the little towns on the rivers and prairies grew with the progress of the country into cities, so it was thought, by some mysterious virtue of inward expansion, these little schools in time would grow to be great universities. And in this optimistic spirit the future was forestalled and the schools were called universities from the beginning. As time went on it appeared that a university could not be made without money, and the source of money must be outside the schools. And so has ensued a long struggle between the American college and the wolf at the door—a tedious, belittling conflict, which has done much to lower the name and dignity of higher education.

To this educational planting without watering, repeated again and again, east and west, north and south, must be ascribed the unnaturally severe struggle for existence through which our colleges have been forced to pass, the poor work, low salaries and humiliating economies of the American college professor, the natural end of whom, according to Dr. Holmes, is starvation.

WONDERS OF PHOTOGRAPHY.

Soap Bubbles Photographed in the Act of Bursting.

Electricity has been doing some pretty work in the photographing of drops of water, and Prof. C. V. Boys in a recent lecture gave illustrations of what had been accomplished, says the Detroit Free Press. He first showed photographs taken by the electric spark of soap bubbles in the act of bursting, and explained the process by which it is possible to ascertain the respective speed at which different soap bubbles burst. One photograph showed an issue of liquid from a very small pipe, which to the naked eye appeared to be a perfect stream, but which, on an electric photograph being taken, was resolved into a beautiful and regular series of drops. In connection with this Prof. Boys remarked that the science of liquids and of the forces involved in the phenomena of the surface of liquids was one of the most interesting branches of physical science. The effect on a fountain of playing or singing was to change its appearance into one, two or three apparently separate, clear streams of liquid, but a photograph taken as a tuning fork was struck demonstrated that the water was disposed in drops in perfect regularity. A picture of a rifle bullet, passing through the air at the rate of two thousand feet a second, was also exhibited. Prof. Boys, however, showed that if it were wished to investigate what was really happening when a rifle bullet was being projected through the air at the maximum possible speed, it would be necessary to have recourse to a method of illumination infinitely more rapid than the electric spark. For this purpose a mirror of steel, about the size of a twenty-five cent piece, is now used. It is so mounted as to revolve with ease without getting hot at the enormous speed of one thousand times a second, and the end of the beam of light given off from this mirror passes across the screen at such a rate that it enables photographs to be taken in about one ten-millionth of a second.
