WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Special meeting of the Elks tonight for initiation.

Sheriff Driver's big dog got a dose of poison some place today.

The Regulator will not make a trip to Vancouver tomorrow as stated, but will probably do so at a not remote date.

The city recorder's office this morning was as quiet as the grave, and much more quiet than the New York "tombs."

Another shower visited this section this morning, the rain beginning to fall about 5 o'clock. It was not heavy, but just what was needed.

The militia boys are pretty busy getting matters in shape for the coming encampment near Hood River. They go down on the 8:30 train Monday.

Mrs. Inez Filloon will visit Goldendale June 29th, and on that occasion address the citizens of our neighboring town on the subject of Woodcraft.

And now the farmer, who has his hay cut, looks beseechingly skyward and prays for it to clear up. What this country needs is a weather clerk that can make it rain in spots, and the right spots at that.

An individual who had imbibed too freely at the fountain of trouble, reached the conclusion this afternoon that he was a scrapper. Marshal Lauer threw him in just as though he was an ordinary mortal.

Fen Batty received word last night that his father was dangerously ill, and with his brother Frank he left last night for Wamic. Mr. Batty was probably stricken with paralysis, as the note stated that he was speechless.

School Superintendent Gilbert brought a lot of fine corn cob pipes back with him and this will explain Judge Bradshaw's and the printers' seeming extravagance. They all smoke an imported Gilbert pipe fresh from the factory.

The excursion last night on the Fupville & Frolictown railroad, was a great success and was thoroughly enjoyed. The conductor proved to be an old hand at ticket punching, and the things she didn't know about railroading would not make a two line local.

Joe Howard, one of Crook county's leading stockmen, is in the city, coming down from Huntington Thursday. He delivered with others a big band of cattle at that point, finding it much cheaper on account of there being an abundance of grass, than driving to this point.

The editor of this paper goes to Baker City tomorrow for a week's vacation, and THE CHRONICLE readers will be pleased to know that the paper's former editor, Mr. F. W. Wilson, will fill its columns for a week or more. In the meanwhile we shall probably have something to say concerning the Baker City mines.

Turner Oliver, grand chancellor of the grand domain of Oregon, Knights of Pythias, will pay a visit to Friendship Lodge, No. 9, on Monday evening, at which time a large attendance is earnestly desired. After the regular session of the lodge, a lunch will be served by ladies of the Knights, and a general social time will be had.

Miss Taylor took her kindergarten class out to the Taylor farm yesterday. The little folks rode out in a big wagon, the bed being filled with them. At the farm they climbed the trees and ate cherries until they could eat no more, and then they had a nice little picnic dinner and the very nicest of times possible. The day will be one that they will all remember all their lives.

A. M. Williams & Co., our little city's most progressive merchants, have for some weeks past gloried in a first-class dress and skirt-making department, and have the facilities for doing such work in short order—a dress made in a day. Their large stock of dress stuffs offer you an endless variety for selection, and the lining and trimming departments are replete with the latest. Estimates on the cost of skirts or suits of any style or of any goods desired, cheerfully given.

A singular accident happened to a 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Leloh, near Crook, in Sherman county, last Saturday, says the Arlington Record. The little fellow was playing near a well, and fell in. It is supposed that the 20-foot fall knocked all the breath out of the child, as he was under water fully ten minutes before rescued by his mother, who, supposing him dead, carried him to the house and laid him on the bed by the side of his father, who was suffering from a broken leg. With the help of J. F. Smith, Mrs. Leloh succeeded, after an hour, in restoring the child to consciousness, and in a few hours he was well as ever.

A number of the friends of Miss Edith Randall spent last evening most pleasantly at her home, the occasion being her 19th birthday. She had invited about a half dozen of her very intimate friends to call during the evening, but was greatly surprised to be greeted by so large a number, and immediately began to wonder how they were to be entertained, having made but slight preparation. However she soon found arrangements had been perfected to so thoroughly celebrate her birthday that in after years try as she may to persuade her friends that she is "sweet sixteen," the following will at least remember the night she passed the nineteenth milestone: Misses Lola Eubank, Nelle Sylvester, Ethel and Mabel Ridell, Ethel Deming, Hilda Beck, Lizzie dell, Messrs. F. Saunders, F. Wood, Schooling, Messrs. M. Murchie, E. Michell, H. D. Parkins, M. Murchie, C. Bunker, W. S. Chipp.

A TERRIFIC HAIL STORM.

Several People Killed at Topeka By Falling Ice.

While here the gentle rain falls dispensing heaven's blessings, back in Kansas it came down Thursday in different shape. At Topeka one of the worst hail storms on record occurred, which the dispatches describe as follows:

"The worst hail storm known in this section of Kansas struck this city shortly after 6 o'clock tonight. The shower of hail was terrific. Hailstones weighing twelve to sixteen ounces stripped the trees of their foliage, smashed windows on every hand, including the finest plate-glass store fronts; cut down telegraph and telephone wires, riddled awnings, injured many persons and inflicted unprecedented damage throughout the city. So great was the weight of the falling hail that when it struck the asphalt pavement many of the hailstones rebounded to the height of twenty and thirty feet. Dogs were struck in the streets and instantly killed. Horses were knocked to their knees, to rise again and dash away in mad fright. Many runaways occurred throughout the city. When the fury of the storm passed, those who ventured out saw dead birds everywhere, and on every hand was the scene of the wreckage of the storm.

"The storm came from the southwest. Dense, greenish clouds gave warning of disaster, and as the day had been extremely hot and close, many foresaw a cyclone, and sought shelter in their cellars. The storm came on with a heavy wind and terrific lightning, and then came rain, together with a deafening crash of hail that was paralyzing to the senses. So great was the damage to telegraph wires that the city was cut off from the outside world for several hours. "Topeka tonight looks like a city that has withstood a siege of war guns. There are not a dozen buildings in town that are not almost windowless, and many roofs were caved in. The roofs of many structures, also, were pierced. The damage can be imagined when it is known that the hailstones ranged in size from that of a hen's egg to that of an ostrich egg, and that thirty minutes after the storm, one hailstone was picked up which measured fourteen inches in circumference.

Notice to Taxpayers.

On and after July 1, 1897, costs will be added for the collection of all taxes due Wasco county on all delinquent rolls now in the hands of the sheriff. This is an imperative order from the county court, and the sheriff has no option but to collect such taxes by levy on property if not paid voluntarily by property owners. All parties concerned are hereby notified that no leniency will be shown in the collection of taxes after July 1, and that levy will be made on all property delinquent after that date.

Salmon Run Very Good.

A gentleman who returned yesterday from a trip down the Columbia and a visit to some of the canneries, says the fish now being taken are remarkably fine. He saw one fisherman come in from a night's fishing with a fare of twelve salmon, which averaged thirty-nine pounds each, or 468 pounds, which, at 4 cents per pound, netted him $18.72, not bad pay for one night's work. The takes of other boats were almost as good, some having more fish, but none averaging so much in weight. The seines are doing well, and at most canneries the force is kept busy full hours.

A large business in beer is done on the lower river by a man who cruises up and down in a gasoline launch loaded with beer and ice. He leaves his kegs of beer and takes away the empty kegs, and, as there are no freight charges, he has the control of the business. He supplies the scow saloons, some of which use thirty to forty kegs of beer per day. The fishermen are pretty regularly wet outside, especially the seiners, who are up to their knees in the icy water, and some of them up to their armpits, most of the time, and they have to drink a lot of beer, or something stronger, to keep up the equilibrium.

The cannerymen would be happy, were it not for the very depressed condition of the market for canned salmon. The fishermen are now very well content to get 4 cents a pound for their fish, and there is no talk of striking for more. In fact, it is quite probable that some of them are shading this price a little.—Oregonian.

A Tick in His Ear.

The Oregon Scout of the 24th instant says:

Mr. Darling, father of Mrs. C. S. Miller, of this city, arrived here a few days ago from his home in Echo, Umatilla county. He has been suffering intensely for about six weeks with an affection of his ear, which baffled the skill of physicians there and at La Grande. Upon his arrival here Dr. Phy was called, and it did not take him but a few minutes, with the aid of his mirror and instruments, to ascertain that a wood tick had securely fastened itself on the drum of the suffering man's ear. The tick was removed and appeared to be as lively as a cricket. Its career is ended, however, and it is now on exhibition in a vial of alcohol in the doctor's office. The operation of removing it was a delicate one and reflects credit on the skillful young physician.

Club Meeting.

There will be a special meeting of the Commercial Club Wednesday evening, to consider some very important matters. It is urged that every member be present on that occasion. j26-tf
