Mr. Sargeant is a brother of the late Otis F. Sargeant, and his last visit here was in '93. They arrived here Saturday night. Mrs. Hall, of Chicago, a sister of Mrs. Sargeant, is also a guest at the same home. A grand-daughter, Miss Katherine, is with them on their trip, which is an extended one. Farmers are already beginning to figure on the yield per acre of their wheat and although their estimate is apparently high, there is little doubt that it will reach their highest estimation. In one field of 300 acres, near Dntur, belonging to Andrew Dufur, many are ready to wager that it will produce at least forty bushels. Johnston Bros. have a piece about the same size adjoining Mr. Dufur's, while equally good grain is to be found in all parts of the county. The grain crop of 1898 will not only fill the farmer's purse, but be a cause of raising the price of farm lands in this section.

Just before the train bearing the Bonneville excursionists pulled out of the union depot at Portland Sunday morning, A. F. Burton, a painter by occupation, was arrested for having picked the pocket of Mrs. F. Gilbert. Burton had mingled with the crowd of picnickers, and during the crush through the platform gates, Mrs. Gilbert's daughter says she saw him put his hand in her pocket and extract the purse. Miss Gilbert promptly gave the alarm and Burton was arrested. The purse was found on the sidewalk at his feet. He asserts his innocence of the charge. Burton formerly lived in this city, and had been in Portland only a few weeks. His friends say that he is a hard-working man and has always born a good reputation.

It has long been known that there are rich coal deposits near Astoria and much prospecting has been done, although with indifferent success. A valuable discovery was made Saturday morning, inside the city limits. Gordin & Nelson, the contractors, who are opening up a street over the hill to connect with the proposed Young's bay bridge, while grading on Eighth street, near Madison avenue, unearthed several large pieces of coal. The coal proved to be of very good quality, and it is undoubtedly the outcropping of a ledge several feet below. The hole in which it was found is about twenty feet deep, and the graders are determined to further investigate the deposit. A quantity of the coal was thrown upon a fire and burned freely.
