Four Spanish cannon will be sent to Portland and placed around the stone raised to commemorate the dead volunteers.

Who ever before thought of asking what is so rare as a day in August? But June certainly will have to yield the palm this year.

Mrs. Ben. Wilson has returned from her camping trip and is now ready to take photographs at her gallery on Second street. Prices from $1 to $5 per dozen.

Several families arrived in The Dalles overland from Oklahoma yesterday. They are on their way to Clackamas county, and proceeded on their journey this morning.

"Got on your husband's cravat, haven't you?" asked a Dalles lady of her neighbor, Mrs. Vain. "Yes," replied Mrs. V. sadly, "and it's the only 'tis' there is between us now."

A small boy who was out shooting above the city yesterday killed three pigeons, among which was a curiosity—a pigeon with but one leg. There was no sign of its ever possessing more than one, either, so that its wings must have been compelled to do double service.

Mr. Case, of Albany, now an octogenarian, has been studying the moon for a good many years and has discovered that the face in it has been changing until it is like that of the new moon.

Dispatches from New York announce that Jos Jefferson's health has been completely restored, and that he will inaugurate a tour of the country with "Rip Van Winkle," September 4th.

The weekly weather report for Eastern Oregon says: "The mean temperature for the week, 58°, is 3° lower than for the preceding week and 12° lower than for the corresponding week last year. The maximum temperatures ranged from 64° to 80°, and the minimum from 48° to 56°, except over the Plateau region, where it ranged from 38° to 46°."

"This only when Dalles people have spent a few months in a city where shade trees are unknown that they appreciate the beauty of our trees. Coming from the valley their verdure is not so noticeable, but, perhaps with the exception of Walla Walla, none of the cities and towns east of us can boast of such lawns and trees surrounding them.

The Oregonian and Telegram are both speaking in the highest terms of "A Midnight Bell" company, which is now playing there and will be at the Vogue next Monday evening. Were it not, however, that we had already heard of its reputation we should scarcely care to trust the Oregonian's opinion as to its merit, judging from the notices the minstrels received.

A heavy rain and hail storm passed through the country some three miles west of town Thursday evening of last week. The storm was about a mile in width and swooped down off Fox mountain, passing north with almost the velocity of a hurricane. The rain fell in torrents and in places the hail was four inches deep after the storm was over.—Long Creek Eagle.

Last evening about 5 o'clock, while running his wood saw, Wm. Cates accidentally ran his right thumb onto the saw and tore the inside of that member very badly, almost severing it from the hand. It required seven stitches to replace it, and he will be unable to work for several weeks. This is particularly unfortunate as Mr. Cates is just recovering from an accident wherein his foot was badly mashed.

The prune crop is beginning to come in lively, and quite a force of packers are at work preparing them for shipment. The season being late, however, is not yet at its height as is usual at this time of the year. While the crop is not quite up to the usual standard, the yield is at any rate a good one, and 'tis said Judge Bennett's will exceed that of other years. Wm. Taylor, of Dry Hollow, also has a fine crop.

At a special meeting of the deacons of the Congregational church and the superintendent of the Sunday school, which was held last night at the pastor's home, it was decided to hold an anniversary service on the 17th of next month, that being the fortieth anniversary of their organization here, the 17th occurring on Sunday in '59. As the Sunday school was organized a month later, it was thought best to celebrate both events at that time, which will no doubt be made an enjoyable occasion.

It is now discovered that the man Gillis, who was arrested at Wamic and taken to Portland on a charge of seduction, was not the person they were looking for, but it was a mistaken identity. Seeing his name as having returned with the volunteers, and the description tallying with the fellow who has been wanted in Hillsboro since '97, they telegraphed to the officers here to go to Wamic and arrest him. Although he protested his innocence, there seemed to be no doubt as to his identity. Arriving at Portland, the mistake was discovered and he returned last night.

When Rev. DeForest left the city to visit his family in Denver, it was his intention to return to his charge by the first of September, leaving again the latter part of October to attend a convention in St. Louis. Since his arrival in Denver he has made different arrangements, whereby Rev. Leslie, rector of a parish in that city, and who was desirous of visiting the coast, will exchange places with him for the following two months, giving Rev. DeForest a longer time with his family and Rev. Leslie an opportunity to visit our state. The latter is expected to arrive this week and occupy the pulpit of the Episcopal church next Sunday.

SHEEP ON THE RESERVES.

What Binger Hermann's Views Are on the Subject.

Hon. Binger Hermann, U. S. land commissioner, who has spent his vacation at his home in Roseburg, left Portland last night for Washington, D. C., where he is due Saturday night. In talking with a Telegram reporter, he said:

"While at home on this trip I have been giving more than usual attention to the subject of sheep grazing on the timber reserves in this state. I have studied this question for many years, but in view of the position taken by the secretary of agriculture recently, I have given the matter still further consideration, and I must say that I differ with Secretary Wilson.

"Now, I am in favor of taking the sheep off of the reserves in certain localities. For instance, in New Mexico, Arizona and other states where it is very dry, it is highly necessary that the sheep should be kept off, and they are. But here in Oregon, where there is so much rain, and where the forests are nearly all of fir, the removal of the sheep is not necessary. There is plenty of grass and there is absolutely no danger of sheep injuring the growth of fir.

"The latest statistics show that Oregon is at the head of the list in the wool business. Why should we cripple this very great industry by restricting the grazing privileges when such restriction cannot possibly benefit the forest.

"The reports of the deputies who are right in the forests, and who see what is going on, do not indicate that in any way the sheep are detrimental to the forest or to the young growth there.

"Now, I contend as I have in the past that so long as the sheep do not hurt the reserves, that they should be allowed to graze there and thus help to foster one of our great industries.

"It is possible to prevent any injury whatever arising from sheep grazing on the reserves. All that is necessary is to limit the number of sheep allowed on them to so many head, and limit the number of months in each year that sheep shall run at large on them.

There, with one or two other restrictions, will be a safeguard against any possible damage that could arise.

It will be remembered that Secretary Wilson, after his recent visit to this state, recommends that the grazing of sheep on timber reserves be stopped, and there is said to be danger of the secretary of interior adopting Secretary Wilson's suggestions unless the people of Oregon make it known at Washington that they do not desire such a change.

As is well known, Commissioner Hermann has always recommended that sheep be allowed to graze on these lands, and from the opinions expressed believe it is clear that he means to continue to fight in the interest of the great sheep and wool industry of Oregon.

Oregon Is Becoming Famous.

Never has Oregon experienced so much tourist travel as during the present summer, particularly along the Columbia river. Every day parties come up at least as far as the Cascades; but many of them make the trip on the upper river, and by so doing gain a pretty fair knowledge of The Dalles and its resources. While the rains this year have cleared the atmosphere and made the scenery more beautiful to the eye, our snow-capped peaks have somehow chosen to bide their heads behind the clouds, and many of the sight-seers have been compelled to return with but a faint idea of their grandeur. However, the view which can be obtained directly along the river banks has been sufficient to repay them for the trip. Oregonians who are traveling in other states are continually reminded of the wide spread fame of our own scenery. But a few weeks ago, in company with a party, Miss Georgia Sampson was taking a cruise around Lake Huron, when to her delight a gentleman from Michigan, upon learning that she was from Oregon, began to enlighten his companions regarding the grandeur of Columbia river scenery and gave it such a send-off as would make the heart of any Oregonian swell with pride. He also said Portland was the finest city of its size in the United States, and, although he traveled much, he had not found a better managed hotel than the Portland.

We can imagine Miss Georgia was not slow in showing her loyalty to her native state.
