County Treasurer.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Found—On Union street, a package of clean clothes, which the owner can find at this office. m19-2tdaw

The "West Point" is the latest spring style in Stetson hats. A. M. Williams & Co. just opened the first shipment this morning.

No fabric that was ever made excels the blue serge for summer wear. Men's youths' and boys' suits of this popular material, in newest spring styles, now on display at A. M. Williams & Co's.

The demand for Oregon game birds from eastern and southern states is increasing, and Game Warden Quimby does not believe that the supply will meet the demand during the coming summer, says the Portland Telegram.

Nelson Patterson, a pioneer settler of Wasco county, died at 9 o'clock yesterday (Monday) morning at his home on Fifteen Mile, a couple of miles above Dufur. The cause of death was hernia, from which he had been a constant sufferer for many years.

It is probable that another play will be given soon after Easter under Mr. Levin's direction. If so, the play selected will be the howling, funny comedy, "The Henrietta," written by Bronson Howard for Stuart Robson and William H. Crane. It is one of the strongest plays of this author, and next to "Shenandoah" is his most successful piece of work.

The revival meetings at the Methodist church are continued this week and the interest is constantly increasing. A large congregation was in attendance last evening and every one present was greatly elated over the excellent spirit that was prevalent in the meeting. The religious zeal of the church is being greatly revived and the members are delighted in seeing their friends and neighbors converted to Christ. The services begin at 7:30 p. m. This will probably be the last week of the special meetings.

Over 60 head of horses were shipped on this morning's boat for sale in the Portland market. Besides a number of saddle horses, Jim Brown of Victor and Frank Fleming of Dead Dog had 38 head; C. W. McClain of Burns had 14 head, and R. C. Walls of Rufus had six head. They were mostly range horses and unbroken. It is said that 60 head are on the way from Prineville bound for the same market. They are expected to arrive here about Thursday.

Jacob Wetle's residence, west of the Fourth street bridge, was entered by a thief early Sunday morning and robbed of a suit of clothes, a number of other pieces of men's clothing and several loaves of bread. The front door had been left unlocked to admit some members of the family who were off at a dance. Mr. Wetle heard the noise made by the thief, but supposing it to have been made by members of his own family on their return home, he again went to sleep. The discovery of the loss of the goods was not made till morning and no trace of the thief has been found.

The movement that has been on foot for the past three or four weeks to bring power from Hood River to drive the new flouring mill and other plants has fallen through, on account of the inability of the parties interested to come to terms. The projectors of the flouring mill are therefore looking for power in other directions, and this morning a company of six started in the Ward & Robertson wagonette for White river falls and the Deschutes, for the purpose of ascertaining what prospects there are for obtaining power from that direction. The party consisted of B. F. Laughlin, Smith French, J. C. Hostetler, J. C. Yager, E. F. Sharp and a prominent civil engineer from Portland.

The gold watch awarded by J. E. Adcox & Co. to the person who made the best guess on the number of stones contained in a fruit jar was awarded to F. W. L. Skibbe Saturday night. When the tickets were examined it was found that three persons were a tie, and strange to say a tie on the exact number of stones in the jar, namely a hundred. These were Mrs. M. T. Nolan, Miss Edna Glenn and Mr. Skibbe. The three were phoned for and on arriving at the store agreed to settle the destiny of the watch by another guess, after about a third in bulk of the stones had been taken out of the jar. The number left in the jar proved to be 66. Mrs. Nolan guessed 35, Miss Glenn 59 and Mr. Skibbe 69.

A good congregation gathered in the Christian church last night to listen to Evangelist Harding. His subject was "The Marks of the Lord Jesus;" Gal. vi:17. The marks of Christ, the hand marks of Paul as a slave of Christ, the marks that Christians should bear, were referred to in order. The speaker declared that we needed today the same spirit that animated the early Christians, many of whom died as martyrs. The world is swamping the church, and Christian men need to realize the responsibility resting upon them. Hold up Christ, not churches. God is our Father, all we are brethren. The sermon was listened to with great interest from beginning to end. Preaching again this evening.

At an early hour last Sunday morning an unknown man, presumably a thief, attempted to enter a room on the second floor of the Michelbach building at the western boundary of the city. The man gained access to the roof of the porch by means of a ladder; but the act of raising a window to gain access to a bed-room awakened William Michelbach, who occupied the room, and the noise that he made in turn as he reached for a loaded shot-gun, frightened the burglar so that he was out of sight and hearing in a moment.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Ed Michell, of Stevenson, is in the city visiting friends.

Robert Carr, a prominent Skamania county rancher, was in town today.

Mr. Percy H. Levin left today for Dufur, where he will produce "A Summer's Fancy" with Dufur talent.

Mrs. Lowndale and Mrs. Roger Sinnott left on the noon train for a few days' visit with friends in Portland.

Mrs. W. A. Maxwell, wife of Editor Maxwell, late of North Yakima, is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. H. Erwin, of this city.

Senator J. N. Williamson left on the noon train for his home in Prineville, expecting to return here in about a month.

Elmer Green Defended.

THE DALLES, March 16, 1901.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

Will you permit me to say a word in reply to the bitter attack recently made in The Chronicle by Senator T. H. Johnston on Elmer Green because Mr. Green saw fit to accuse Mr. Johnston of going back on his word in the matter of voting for United States senator. Let me say that I have known both Green and Johnston since they came to Wasco county, for I was here before either of them, and knowing both, I avow that I would take Green's word for a thousand dollars where I would not take Johnston's for ten cents. And I may add that I have had dealings with both of them.

Since Green refuses, as it would appear, to answer Johnston's most slanderous attack upon him, I will answer that attack on behalf of one I know to be an honest man. I never knew Elmer Green to take advantage of any man in his dealings with him, but I have known and can name whole families that this man Johnston has turned out on the roadside. I cannot say from my own personal knowledge that Johnston promised not to vote for Old Man Corbett, but if Elmer Green says he did I will take his word for it every time rather than Johnston's.

QUIZ.

Didn't Mean What They Thought.

A colonel of a British regiment in South Africa who was repairing a railroad after one of General De Wet's many breakages, discovered a fine empty house, which he proceeded to occupy as headquarters.

When the news of the colonel's comfortable quarters reached Bloemfontein he received a telegram which read:

"G. T. M. wants house."

The colonel was unable to make out what "G. T. M." meant, and inquired of officers, who translated it "General Traffic Manager."

"All right," said the colonel. "If he can use hieroglyphics so can I."

So he wired back:

"G. T. M. can G. T. H."

Two days later he received a dispatch from Bloemfontein ordering him to attend a board of inquiry. On appearing in due course he was asked what he meant by sending such an insulting message to a superior officer.

"Insulting," repeated the colonel, innocently; "it was nothing of the kind." "But what do you mean," demanded the superior. "By telling me I can 'G. T. H.'?"

"It was simply an abbreviation," replied the colonel. "G. T. M. (general traffic manager) can G. T. H. (get the house)."
