NEWS NOTES

Psychology Club Meets—The Dalles Psychology club met last evening in the office of Mrs. Lulu D. Crandall. An interesting meeting was held. The subjects for discussion were, "Belief," and "Knowledge."

Held For Sanity Test—Believed to be mentally unbalanced, Ed Hartman of Dufur was arrested yesterday by Sheriff Levi Christman and Deputy Sheriff Guy Elton. He is held in the county jail pending examination by the county court.

Reception Planned—The Dalles high school alumni association met Monday night with a good attendance. The members planned an alumni-senior reception, honoring the graduates, for Monday night at the Elks' temple. Another meeting will be held Thursday night to further the plans.

Irrigators Go To Portland—Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Chapman of Prineville were in the city yesterday, enroute to Portland, where they will be in the Crook county irrigators' parade. Eight automobiles of Prineville people passed through the city for this event which will be a feature of one of the Rose Festival parades.

Struck By Pulley—Ralph Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson, had a narrow escape yesterday, in unloading wheat at the Emerson elevator when a pulley fell. He was struck on the head and knocked unconscious. He was rushed to the city for medical attention. The injury was not serious and he is about the house today.

Mammoth "Shot" Prepared—More than 15,000 pounds of black powder and dynamite will be exploded this evening in a gigantic "shot" on the Columbia River highway near Rowena. The explosion is designed to loose approximately 30,000 yards of rock for use on the highway. The "shot" is being made by the Harse construction company, which has the contract for surfacing that section of the road.

Weed Burners Here—A weed burner, a queer contraption somewhat resembling some of H. G. Wells' fanciful descriptions of battle machine in his wars of the world, arrived in The Dalles this morning via the O. W. R. & N. tracks. The burner, which is followed by a tank car filled with oil, is hauled along weed-infested railroad tracks while the weeds are yet green. It blows blasts of fire upon these troublesome growths, causing them to wilt and die. The burner will be used upon branch lines around The Dalles for the next several days.

Union Religious Services—The June meeting of the ministerial association of The Dalles and Wasco county was held yesterday in the public library. In addition to the city pastors, Rev. Thomas Ford and Rev. John Robertson of the Dufur churches were present. Plans were made for the regular summer Sunday evening union services. The meetings will commence the first Sunday evening in July and will be held in the city park. A new and unusual feature for an outdoor meeting will be the showing some time during the summer of the film, "The Stream of Life."

Sick Man Causes Excitement—Court house employees were thrown into a high state of excitement this morning when the alarm bell, used for summoning assistance in case of a jail break or trouble among the prisoners, sounded. Sheriff Christman chanced to be out of the office at the time, so Deputy Sheriff George Scherer, pistol drawn, cautiously descended the stairs to the jail cells. In the meantime, other male employees in the court house had taken up positions at all exits of the building to prevent escape of any prisoners. The excitement was caused by a false alarm, however. A prisoner with a weak heart had suddenly been stricken on with an attack and had rung the bell in order to get assistance. A doctor was called.

Several new styles in growing girls' one strap pumps and oxfords in brown color have just been received by Edw. C. Pease company.

Tons of Mud Must Be Excavated To Recover All of Pueblo Dead

GIGANTIC TASK IN STRICKEN COLORADO CITY NOW UNDERWAY; SANITARY CONDITIONS GREATLY IMPROVED; ELECTRIC LIGHT AND WATER SERVICES RESTORED.

By Sam I. Freed (United News Staff Correspondent)

PUEBLO, Colo., June 8.—The gigantic task of removing millions of tons of mud and uncovering dead bodies went on together in Pueblo today.

The corpse count in the city morgues was 40 while from Arkansas river towns in the vicinity reports of bodies recovered from the still swollen stream was:

At Boone, 3; Vineland, 1; Known drowned at Baxter, but bodies unrecovered, 7.

The complete toll of 51 dead in the valley is very likely to be increased materially when communications are restored and the river and mud give up their dead.

As the business men probed deeper into their wrecked establishments the estimate of property losses in Pueblo rose tonight to $25,000,000. A committee of 20 was formed to take counsel with the city and county commissioners, military and Red Cross officials to work out Pueblo's salvation. Federal and state aid is still emphasized by the city fathers as the only means of rebuilding the dike along the Arkansas and staving off enormous and unbearable taxes to pay for the city's and county's restoration.

Under a typical, brilliant Colorado sun the cleaning up of streets, rail road yards and buildings went forward Tuesday. Steam cranes toso box cars and passenger coaches out of the way and laid down material for track repairs in the yards. From both the north and the east the rail road lines have made progress toward the city. The Denver and Rio Grande was repaired on the north as far as Canyon Junction, a suburb. A train left for Denver today from that point.

The Santa Fe and the Missouri Pacific expected to furnish some traffic tomorrow. Living conditions in the city were greatly alleviated by restoration of electric, water and telephone service, although not yet normal. The limitation of return of the domestic gas supply resulted in a proclamation warning householders not to leave their jets open.

Proclamations followed each other from many sources in bewildering confusion. The strictest sanitary rules were formulated in a general order today. The still relative shortage of pure water in the city's mains brought another warning against its use for other than cooking and drinking purposes "after thoroughly boiling."

The 7 o'clock curfew law was still in effect in the business district, although many worked at clearing away debris.

The transfer of ruined goods from inside of stores to sidewalks served temporarily to increase the desolation in the flooded area. Crews in a department store placed thousands of bolts of ruined silks, linens and other goods in enormous piles outside.

Garage men towed out strings of automobiles and trucks. Three undertakers paraded forth fancy caskets and plain boxes, all thoroughly encrusted and soaked in a form of mud that defied cleansing them.

Stacks of mucky mattresses iron basements of furniture houses were piled outside.

There seemed little worth salvaging in most instances, only the goods had to be gotten out of the way.

Occasionally a low hung cart carried off dead horses and cows. These are being burned on one edge of the city.

The Arkansas was running fast within its own bank limits again, six feet below the downtown street bridges that survived the flood's fierce buffeting.

J. L. Pieser, manager of the southern western division of the American Red cross, arrived from St. Louis this afternoon and took general charge of the organization's relief activities. He will decide whether an appeal for a national popular subscription relief fund shall be issued.

Some of the thousands of homeless refugees housed in high schools, the court house and tents on corner lots will be sent tomorrow to the military constructed concentration camp in the city. It was rapidly nearing completion tonight.

and Miss Violet Duché sang "Creator." These, with Mrs. E. C. Blunt, composed the choir.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. J. Fleck. Mr. and Mrs. Korte will be at home to their friends at Mr. Korte's fifth east of the city.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS ELECTING CHAIRMAN
By Robert J. Bender (United News Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Republican national committee meets here today to select probably John T. Adams, of Iowa, as its chairman, succeeding Postmaster General Will Hays and to lay the foundations of its future policy.

Adams, now vice-chairman of the committee, is to be succeeded by Ralph Williams, of Oregon, according to present plans.

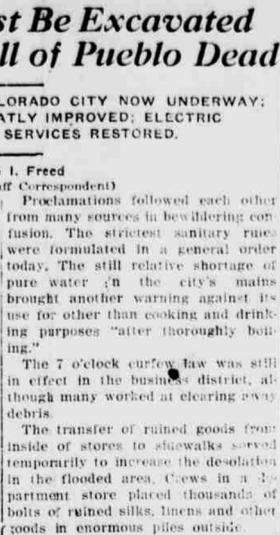

Hays resigns as chairman of the committee after over four years of constructive work, but will continue in an advisory capacity "to assist in arranging the future policies of the party." He has retained his office this long merely because he wished to have several problems adequately disposed of before he relinquished his post. It may be stated that these problems have been, or will be, disposed as follows:

First, as regards the great deficit facing the committee at the end of the last campaign. The policy of seeking small contributions from all Republican voters is working to the satisfaction of the leaders and it is assured, they say that the entire deficit will be liquidated by the end of the year.

Second, the problem of southern representation has been settled with a decision to permit no district to have a representative in the 1924 presidential convention that does not have a bonafide candidate for congress in the congressional elections of next year.

It is made clear by the party that this is not designed in any way to cut down the southern representation in presidential conventions, but rather to afford the stimulus for building up the Republican organization in the south.

FALL BATTLES WITH INVADERS OF PARKS

(Chronicle's Washington Bureau)
WASHINGTON, June 8.—Crater Lake park, and in fact all the other great playgrounds of the country, will be free from the water power grabbers who for a long time have been trying to secure a foothold in the national parks for the use of water power and the sale of such in outlying territory.

The interior department has at all times frustrated any such attempt, and at present Senator Walsh of Montana has been making an effort to enter the opening wedge for power and irrigation companies. He introduced a bill for the erection of a dam in Yellowstone park, the water impounded to be used in a private irrigation scheme outside of the park. Several hearings have been held and the idea has been opposed by all people interested in the future of the national parks. It is probable that the bill would have had a rocky road to travel through both houses of congress, but Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall has put the finishing touches on the effort to grasp the water power in the parks in the following letter to Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, chairman of the senate committee on irrigation.

"I cannot favor the enactment of the measure. I do not believe it would be advisable for congress to permit private interests to develop irrigation power or sites within the limits of existing national parks. The parks were created by congress for the preservation of the scenery, forests and other objects of beauty and interest in their natural condition and they are created and maintained for general and national purposes as contradistinguished from local development."

A Series of Human Interest Talks on Insurance

What is Legal Reserve Life Insurance?

I have been asked this question many times.
Some think Legal Reserve life insurance is a gamble where you must die if you are to win.
What is your aim in life? To create an estate for yourself and family, isn't it?
When you buy a policy from Oregon Life you buy an interest in a group of mortgages and bonds on the installment plan.
Mortality tables scientifically foretell how many are going to die and how many are going to live.
This enables Oregon Life to know exactly how much each must pay in order to set aside the funds—invested in bonds and mortgages—to pay a given contract. These funds are protected by state laws and must be held in reserve to mature your policy.
Only by dealing with groups are we able to do this. We have always paid in full.
Think it over and talk with F. W. WOOLLEY
