At Albany, Thursday, Phil Walker, a man 20 years of age, was sitting on a stool, handling a loaded shotgun. Another young man was standing near looking another way. When a loud report of the gun at his back caused him to turn instantly, he was horrified to see his companion fall over, blood flowing from his head. The load of shot had struck the victim fairly in the head, going upward and shattering it in a horrible manner. A surgeon was sent for, but the young man was dead in a few moments. It is supposed that while he was resting the butt of the gun on the floor the hammer struck against something, causing the discharge.

Salem Statesman: The $15-a-bushel wheat swindlers have again bobbed up with their notes obtained from the Linn county farmers, on which they demand payment. These notes, given by about a dozen of substantial farmers of the county who were swindled, aggregated about $3000. It is understood that these men will defend the case. They certainly ought to do so, as the whole transaction was one of the worst swindles ever perpetrated. Several Marion county farmers are also on the anxious seat in regard to their notes of hand given to the same sharpers.

The fund of $16,000 appropriated by the last legislature for conveying insane and idiotic persons to the asylum has all been expended, with the exception of about forty dollars. Deficiency certificates will be issued by the Secretary of State for claims on this fund after it is entirely gone, until the new appropriation is made. There is a balance of $2627.78 in the fund for conveying convicts to the penitentiary, so there is no danger of its running out before the Legislature meets.

Jacksonville Times: Alexis Carron of Minnesota has been in the valley for some days in the interests of a projected colony from the northwest to this valley. He is looking for a body of not less than six or seven thousand acres of agricultural land susceptible of division into small holdings. He was very favorably impressed with an extensive tract of land north of the river, and will report accordingly to the blizzard-bound Minnesotans.

A. G. Ankeny and William Wells returned this morning from their trip to the Columbia on a goose-hunting expedition. Thirteen splendid specimens were brought back as an evidence of their skill, which were shot in the neighborhood of Switzer's Island. These were soon disposed of, and several Pendleton citizens will have a wild-geese Sunday dinner tomorrow.

It is with great difficulty that a passenger can squeeze in or out of the waiting room at train time. It is then chock full of a promiscuous mixture of valises, baggage and struggling humanity. If it could by some means be enlarged, the traveling public generally would rise up as one man and call the railroad company blessed.

A splendid-looking deer, graced by four-point antlers, was brought to town last night by Sam Walker, who shot the animal at Laka. It was taken to Houser's butcher shop, and at nine o'clock this morning nothing but the pelt and antlers remained, while many a Pendleton family man had venison for breakfast.

Mrs. N. E. Despain and James Howard left on this morning's train for Walla Walla, the former on a visit to her daughter, Miss Bernice, who is attending school at that place, and the latter to his parents, who now reside in the Garden City.

A proposition is on foot among members of the fire department to cut the old hose carriage in two, making two hose carts of the separate sections. The idea is viewed with favor by many, and would doubtless be a good one.

Jacksonville Times: M. L. Fix, who arrived in Trail creek precinct last September, is making preparations to engage in dairying on a large scale. He thoroughly understands the business and will no doubt succeed well.

G. W. Hunt has settled his claim against the Oregon Pacific for $60,000. The company last spring sued Mr. Hunt for $150,000 for breach of contract. He defended and counter-claimed, and got a judgment for $78,000.

The ladies of the M. E. Church, South, will give a Thanksgiving dinner and supper at the building on the corner of Court and Thompson streets. Thanksgiving turkey with all its accompaniments will be plentiful.

Two fifteen-dollar notes, drawn in favor of Dr. G. W. King, were lost by that gentleman on the streets to-day. The finder will please return to this office and receive reward.

The event of the season will be the grand Thanksgiving ball at the opera house November 29th. Music by the Walla Walla Garrison Orchestra.

Close of the Fair.
The fair is now over, most of the articles remaining being disposed of last evening at auction. It has proved a success in every particular, and the worthy Sisters of St. Francis are therefore to be congratulated. A full and complete list of the articles won could not be obtained, but those especially worthy of mention are given as follows: Miss Lola Howard obtained a handsome wax wreath by reason of being the most popular young lady in Pendleton, as decided by an election in Pendleton, in which she held the lead during the fair. Katie Reith, who held during the fair, and is taking the beautiful large doll, and is deservedly happy in its possession. The disdled bride was not so appropriately disposed of, as it was raffled off and won by Frank McIntyre, a sheep man and bachelor. The fancy banner, which was one to have been voted to either Mrs. Cleveland, or Mrs. Harrison, will be kept by the Sisters, as no interest in the election could be aroused. Many other beautiful prizes were also secured by fortunate individuals.

Notice to Debtors.
Notice is hereby given to all persons indebted to me that I have this day assigned all sheriff's accounts due me to G. P. Rosenberg, who is authorized to collect and receive for the same.

GRANT COUNTY NEWS.

Pat McGinnis Convicted of the Murder of Sheriff Lockwood, and Sentenced to be Hanged—Other Notes.
From the Grant County News.

Tom Keeton, who passed through here a few weeks since on his way to California or South America, only reached the residence of his brother Lou Keeton, at Mountain creek, where he took sick and died the other day.

The case of the State vs. Buccaroo Jim, the Indian, for the murder of Jas. Bright, is on trial Wednesday afternoon as we go to press. S. S. Denning, of Long creek, and J. Nat Hudson, of Burns, are attorneys for the defense.

Grant county's November term of circuit court is not over yet, and will not end with November. So long as petty crime goes unpunished just so long will we be compelled to have lengthy sessions of circuit court, and be taxed for the maintenance of the court.

Tuesday afternoon the court room was packed with an anxious assembly congregated to hear the sentence of death pronounced upon Pat McGinnis, who on the night of July 6th, 1888, in cold blood murdered the deputy sheriff while in the discharge of his duties as jailer. The proceedings of the trial were watched with much interest by the citizens of our county, and long before the examination ceased almost every person, outside the twelve jurors in the box, had expressed themselves as satisfied that the evidence adduced, though partly circumstantial, was conclusive, and therefore the verdict of the jury—guilty as charged in the indictment—occasioned no surprise.

After retiring to deliberate, the jury on the second ballot agreed upon their verdict, the first ballot standing for murder in the first degree, eleven against one. While on the stand the evidence of McGinnis was conflicting, and would not hold together. His admissions or rather confession to Frank Ward, a young man of previous good character who was confined in jail on a charge of assault while under the influence of liquor, were conclusive, and had it not been for the fact that he was a prisoner, this in itself would have been sufficient to prove the guilt of McGinnis. But other evidence was before the jury, who could not have found a verdict other than the one which they returned.

The prisoner being brought before His Hon. Judge Isen, to receive the sentence which the verdict called for, stood firm and nerved for the words, with not a tremor or a faltering look. His face bore that sullen, brutish expression which characterizes a soulless, unfeeling nature. When questioned as to whether or not he had anything to say, McGinnis protested his innocence. Judge Isen in a firm and solemn tone pronounced the sentence of death by hanging on January 18, 1889, to which the prisoner listened with seeming indifference, at the end of which making the assertion that "those who swore his life away would some day rue it."

COUNCIL MEETING.

Claims Allowed—A Smallpox Ordinance—Judges and Clerks appointed.

At a regular meeting of the common council of the town of Pendleton, held at the council room on the 22d day of November, 1888, there were present W. F. Matlock, mayor, in the chair, and Councilmen Young, Sargent and Rothchild.

Committee on claims reported correct on the following bills: City Electric Light Co. $66, same $66, T. J. Blair $4, French restaurant $2, P. McBrien $245, A. D. Earhart $30. On motion, the recorder was authorized to draw warrants in payment of same.

On motion the recorder was authorized to draw warrants in favor of E. A. Smith in the sum of $75 for repairs on the levee as per contract.

Ordinance No. —, providing for the protection of the public health, and to prevent the spread of dangerous and contagious diseases was read for the first time, and referred to the committee on ordinances.

On motion the minutes of the meeting of the 18th October, 1888, were amended so that it would show that the warrants in favor of Reed are $50 instead of $7.

On motion the recorder was authorized to draw a warrant in favor of Unatilla county for the sum of $150.29, as first payment of the lot purchased of the said county by the town.

On motion of J. N. Young, the following judges and clerks were appointed to act at the next regular town election, to be held December 17, 1888: As clerks, A. D. Stillman and G. C. Green; as judges, John Hexter, J. B. Despain, and H. Fleckinger.

Trip to Canyon City.

E. R. Wheeler returned Thursday evening from a trip to Canyon City. He don't desire to encounter the same experience a second time. A ninety-mile stage ride over the mountains from Baker City, with the thermometer nearly zero, is not the most pleasant thing in the world. Circuit court was in session in Canyon, and the town was in a fever heat over the trial of the murderer McGinnis. The people celebrated the verdict of guilty, and if it had been different, the prisoner would probably have figured conspicuously in a neck-tie party, presided over by Judge Lynch. McGinnis is kept in a dark cell, and chained to the floor. He presents a ferocious aspect; has a bullet head, a large neck, and very long hair and beard. Buccaroo Jim, who escaped with McGinnis, may escape conviction, as the evidence against him is not so strong.

The Hotel of Salem.

The Chemekete Hotel at Salem has lately come under the management of C. H. Monroe and J. E. S. Bell and has furnished and thoroughly changed from top to bottom, the kitchen having been entirely rebuilt and the lobby and rooms overhauled and put in first class order for the coming session of the legislature. The prices of accommodation will average from $6 to $15 per week according to room and location. The patronage of the public is solicited.

The Umbria, on her last voyage, crossed the Atlantic from New York to Queenstown in 6 days, 2 hours and 22 minutes, the best time yet made.

MORROW COUNTY.

Heppner and Lexington News Released From Exchanges.
From the Heppner Gazette.

Heppner has a good school, but it is overcrowded.

A young man became lonesome down the street yesterday, and was fined $20.

Johnny Maddock has been laid up for the past two weeks with the mumps and rheumatism.

Flour wagons are still coming from Long Creek occasionally. J. B. Sperry is doing an immense business in that line.

The town authorities are wide awake. Needed improvements are going on all the time, and the people's money is well spent.

Heppner now has four churches—M. E., South M. E., Catholic and Baptist. Three years ago there was one, the Baptist church.

The Methodist Episcopal Church is finished, and will be dedicated next Sabbath morning at the regular preaching hour. This edifice is a neat, substantial structure throughout, and is of the Queen Ann style of architecture.

Yesterday Mayor Blackman, City Treasurer McDougal, Hon. T. W. Ayers, President of the Heppner and Castle Rock telegraph line, and the Gazette man went down to the end of the track in one of Jim Jones' choicest rigs. They found it on Steve Leland's place, three miles below here, and coming this way rapidly. The clang of the iron and the whistle of the locomotive were strange though welcome sounds to the quartette, but to the jack rabbit that we saw pulling out for the hills back of Heppner, where there is more solitude and less civilization, it must have been a decidedly strange proceeding.

P. A. Worthington, of Weston, came down yesterday. Mr. Worthington has a fine ranch about four miles north of Lexington, where he is putting in about 500 acres of wheat, besides making preparations for seeding a considerable area to oats and barley in the spring.

The omnivorous jack rabbits eat grain, watermelons, miscellaneous vegetables and bark, and last summer a Budget man was surprised to find them making serious inroads upon his onion patch. But now comes neighbor Cypert, who says the rabbits actually dug up and ate the greater portion of his potatoes.

There was quite a butchering bee at Wm. Penland's place last Monday and Tuesday, when fifty-nine fat hogs were converted into pork. Forty of them belonged to Mr. Penland, fifteen to J. S. Boothby, two to Charles Carter, one to S. B. Hope and one to W. W. Kirk. Those of Mr. Boothby were the finest that have been seen here for some time, twelve of them aggregating 3,512 pounds, and one weighing 450.

John McGarry Heard From.

John McGarry, the erstwhile Pendletonian who is now elsewhere to the sorrow of many creditors, has been heard from. He was followed as far as Denver, but when his pursuer arrived at that place, the bird had flown. It was learned that Mr. McGarry was supposed to have been in collusion with bunco steerers there, and was passing counterfeit money. One of his confederates who had a grudge against him put the police on his tracks, and McGarry was arrested and thrown in jail, not for showing the queer but for carrying concealed weapons, the latter charge having been preferred as a blind. McGarry is "slick," however, and when he was searched by the police, not a single questionable article could be found. As nothing could be brought against him he was released, and when his follower arrived in town John was very scarce, as a thorough search of the place showed. Where he is now is a question.
