"SKELETON" SCARES AN EDITOR.

He Thinks the Methodist Episcopal Church South Wants $20,000 Blood Money.

The presence of Bishop Hargrove in the State seems to work up the Salem Statesman editor to a terrible pitch of excitement. He chants as follows in his excitement. He chants as follows in his paper:

"It is understood that Bishop Hargrove, of the Methodist Church South, from Nashville. Tennessee, is in the State. That is all right; he has as much right here as anybody else; but it is now understood that he comes here for the purpose of lobbying in the legislature to get some $20,000 blood money out of the State for the Methodist Church South on account of the Corvallis college, now the account of the Corvallis college, now the property of the State.

"The State stood and delivered to this Church for twenty years, paying out about $100,000, furnishing the money for the salaries of the Southern Methodist teachers, and during much of the time paying the paster of that church in Corvallis $1400 to $1600 a year, he receipting for the same as a teacher' in the school. The State owes the Southern Methodist church nothing whatever, and Bishop Hargrove will find out that the represen-tatives of Oregon's voters have but little patience with the claims of this relie of human slavery, this skeleton of the lost

"Legislators should be on their guard for the blandishments of the Southern Methodist lob y.

The Salem Statesman should know that there is not enough 'blandishment' of the right kind in the Southern Mondist church to influence the majority of the legislators. They have been spoiled by the generosity of the corporations.

On the Right Truck

From the Boise City Statesman An article appeared in the Walla Walla Journal a few days ago from a gentleman Journal a few days ago from a gentieman of that city, showing that a woolen mill could be erected there for a reasonable sum. The Pendleton Easy Onemonias copied the article, and stated editorially that if the gentleman wanted to start a woolen mill like the one mentioned, and would come to Pendleton, the citizens of that place would raise $10,000 towards that place would raise $10,000 towards the enterprise. The East Oastoonax is on the right track, and the citizens of Pendleton are sure to make a first-class town of it if this is an indication of their spirit. Such a disposition is sure to win.
