The forthcoming edition of the New York Medical Journal will discuss the case of the late President McKinley in a lengthy article. It will say in part: "It is a melancholy consolation to know that the fatal termination of President McKinley's case was not in the slightest degree due to any omission to give him the full benefit of all the present resources of our art and there is nothing humiliating in the fact that a favorable prognosis which for five or six days seemed justified should have finally proved fallacious."

HIGGINSON ON SCHLEY CONTROVERSY

He Was on the Ground at the Time.

SOME STATEMENTS UNFAVORABLE

Yet He Says the Rear-Admiral Acted Like a Commander-in-Chief—The Court Guarded by a Squad of Marines.

These are the questions to be passed upon by the navy board of inquiry appointed by Secretary Long upon the demand of Rear-Admiral Schley, which will convene in Washington, today:

1. The conduct of Rear-Admiral Schley in connection with the events of the Santiago campaign.
2. Why was the flying squadron delayed off Cienfuegos?
3. What caused the slow progress from Cienfuegos to Santiago?
4. The reasons for the retrograde movement from Santiago.
5. The justification for the disobedience of orders of the navy department of May 25, 1898.
6. What was the condition of the coal supply of the squadron, the facilities for coaling, and the necessity, if any, for going to Key West to coal, and were the reports of Schley relative to this subject accurate?
7. Did Schley make proper effort to capture or destroy the Colon when that ship was first sighted in the entrance to Santiago harbor, and was the attack on the batteries at the entrance of the harbor and the Spanish vessels lying inside the entrance made at proper ranges?
8. Was the blockade of Santiago harbor, as maintained by Schley, adequate?
9. Was the turn or loop made by the Brooklyn during the battle of July 3 a proper movement?
10. The propriety of Schley's conduct in the controversy with Lieut. Rodgers in relation to the loop of the Brooklyn during the battle, in the ensuing colloquy and in the subsequent correspondence on the subject.
11. During the sessions of the court, any other matters having a bearing on the controversy come up, the court must investigate them also. The inquiry is restricted to the ten main heads mentioned.

Marines Were on Guard.
Washington, Sept. 20.—Hearing of testimony by the Schley court of inquiry being this morning. Rear Admiral Higginson being the first witness called. When the court convened, it was apparent a new tone of formality had crept into the proceedings. Marines were on guard at the railing, before the court opened, barred out all save the court and the witnesses. Later, representatives of the press associations were allowed within the railing.

When Rear Admiral Schley entered there was subdued hand clapping by the audience. The marines, however, quickly suppressed it. So soon as the court had taken seats, Judge Advocate Lemley read the order appointing Admiral Ramsey as a member of the court, and asked Schley if he had any objections to him. Schley said he had not. After a few routine matters were disposed of, Judge Lemley called Rear-Admiral Higginson to the stand.

Higginson's Testimony Unfavorable.
Before Higginson was called, Judge Lemley introduced as evidence the copy of a senate document relating to the Sampson-Schley controversy, together with hydrographic office charts showing the scene of the Santiago campaign. Then he spread before the court charts showing the position of the vessels at Santiago. Schley's counsel objected to its introduction as evidence, on the ground of its gross incorrectness. Lemley then said it was introduced for reference and does not prove anything. Higginson then took the stand. He commanded the Massachusetts during the Santiago campaign. When asked what was done by Schley to discover the Spanish fleet, he said: "Nothing, to my knowledge. I understood he received information from Capt. McCalla of the Marblehead." He said McCalla obtained the news on shore and communicated it to Schley on May 2, so near as he could remember. "Nothing had been done to destroy the shore batteries and that the fleet had no engagement."

Higginson said he did not know what caused the return of the fleet toward Key West. The weather, he declared, was not in impossible condition for coaling. It will be remembered that Schley claimed the sea was too rough to coal at the time mentioned, therefore the trip to Key West.

Schley Acted Like a Commander.
He said that on the return of the fleet he went within two or three miles of Santiago harbor and could see within perfectly. The Colon was anchored within plain sight. On May 30, the witness stated, Schley ordered four vessels of the fleet to fire on the Colon. The orders were carried out, but all the shots fell short. He believed the Colon could have been destroyed if the ships had been ordered to go to closer range. When asked what was Schley's manner during the firing, Higginson said it was that of a commander-in-chief. The only orders Schley had given him in the event of battle were for close action and for each ship to attack the vessel nearest it.

Major Lord on the Stand.
Capt. Chester of the cruiser Cincinnati, testified as to coaling matters. Major Lord of the marine corps on the Massachusetts, heard Schley on May 31, say he was going to fire on the Colon, but not go near enough to endanger our fleet.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO THE WHITE HOUSE

He Begins His Career of Chief Magistrate.

TELLS WHO WILL BE COMPTROLLER

Arrival of the Special Train From Canton Was the Occasion for Quiet Occupancy of the Executive Mansion.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The first official act of the new president was signing the commission of Brigadier General James Bell, of elevating Col. Bell to a brigadier generalship. President Roosevelt gives the first pledge of his announced intention to carry out the wishes of his predecessor. The cabinet this morning discussed the electrical law formulated by the Cuban constitutional convention of which it is said the president's advisors expressed their approval.

When President Roosevelt arrived at the White House he was announced and without display the president immediately repaired to the cabinet room where Secretary Long was awaiting him. They talked for a few minutes about public matters, and then Senators Cullom and Proctor were introduced. He told Cullom he would appoint Ridgeley comptroller of the currency. Roosevelt and Long discussed the Schley matter.

Roosevelt Returned to Washington.
Washington, Sept. 20.—The train bearing President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet arrived this morning. A large force of policemen kept the crowds far away from the president who immediately was driven to the White House.

Russian Opinion of Roosevelt.
St. Petersburg, Sept. 20.—The Rossya says: "President Roosevelt is a genuine fanatic for imperialism and Pan-Americanism. He will retouch all President McKinley's accomplishments in foreign policy. With President Roosevelt will begin an era of Pan-Americanism."

After quoting an inaccurate version of President Roosevelt's last speech, the Rossya declares the Germans will be taught that the Monroe doctrine is no joke and that the United States is supreme throughout America.

THE W. & C. R. R. ELECTION

C. S. Melien President, Jos. McCabe Vice-President and Manager.

Walla Walla, Sept. 20.—These are the general officers elected at the meeting of the stockholders of the Washington & Columbia River railway, held in this city yesterday:

President, C. S. Melien, St. Paul.
Vice president and general manager, Joseph McCabe, Walla Walla.
Secretary and assistant treasurer, George H. Earl, New York.
Assistant secretary, R. H. Reif, St. Paul.

Treasurer and chief engineer, Joseph G. Cutler, Walla Walla.
Auditor, Roland Smith, Walla Walla.

The annual meeting was held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the general office of that company at the depot in east Main street. F. W. Paine, J. R. Burford, J. L. Sharpstein and Roland Smith, directors of the road, were present and the proxies for 29,995 shares of stock were there in the possession of General Manager Joseph McCabe, vice president of the system.

The following trustees were elected for the coming year, being the same as those serving in the past: C. S. Melien, St. Paul; D. S. Lamont, New York; E. H. Gay, New York; G. H. Earl, New York; Joseph McCabe, Walla Walla; A. R. Burford, Walla Walla; F. W. Paine, Walla Walla; John L. Sharpstein, Walla Walla; Roland Smith, Walla Walla.

"Should J. J. Hill come into control of the entire system," said General Manager McCabe to a reporter for The Union, "there might be some alteration and a departure from the line which has been laid down in the past. While the officers have been elected on for the coming year the directors have it in their power to alter them at any time. Of course, it does not seem reasonable they would elect a man to an office if they intended to remove him, and for that reason it would seem safe to announce that during the coming year there will be no change either in the officers or the policy of the Washington & Columbia river railway."

Dr. W. G. Cole to Read Paper on "Caesarian Section."
The Oregon State Medical society will meet at Portland, on October 25, 26 and 27. A remarkably large number of distinguished professional men are scheduled to take part in the approaching meeting.

Among them is Dr. W. G. Cole of Pendleton, who will contribute a paper on the "Caesarian Section." Dr. Cole has gained distinction in that particular line of surgery, and stands high among the surgeons of the coast. Such men as Drs. Jos. C. Bloodgood, follow in John Hopkins university, A. Abrahamson of San Francisco, Colonel and A. E. Halstead of Chicago, and many other noted physicians and surgeons will be present.

Buffalo, Sept. 20.—Judge Lewis and Titus, counsel appointed to defend Czolgosz, conferred on the case this morning. They declare they have not had time to outline their defense. A Play, "The Steam Laundry" Tonight.
The Wiedenman company are playing in crowded houses every evening at the Frazer, and deserve the fine patronage given them. Last night it was large comedy, "The Major's Daughter," and tonight it will be "A Steam Laundry," not Jack Robinson's steam laundry, but one of the stage and just for the fun of it. A lot of people will attend. Tomorrow afternoon a matinee will be given at 2 o'clock, when one of Bronson Howard's pieces will be produced. Saturday night the "standing room only" matinee will be out about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, if one may venture a prediction, it will be good policy to buy seats early. The house will be too small to hold the people who want to go.

A Ragging, Roaring Flood.
Washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis of Lisbon, Ia., had to repair. "It raged and waded deep in my water," he writes, "gave me a terrible cold and cough. It grew worse daily.
