Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets
the remedy that cures a cold in one day.

Mrs. N. J. Gilliam and family extend thanks to those who so kindly tendered their sympathy and services during their recent bereavement.

This afternoon occurred the funeral of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stimant, who died last night. The parents reside at 616 Sycamore street, Mr. Stimant being employed in the O. R. & N. yards in the town.

R. S. Bryson has been appointed on petition from himself, as administrator of the estate of Jerry Blythe, who died in Walla Walla during the first of the year 1901. The petition sets forth that Blythe died intestate and that he left no heirs at law except one sister, Mrs. Mary F. Cooper, of Newark, Mo., and two brothers, S. D. Blythe, living at Durham, Mo., and Alonzo Blythe, of Wallace, Idaho. It states that Jerry Blythe left real estate in Umatilla county to the value of $1500.

Winding a Watch.

When a watch is wound at night it has only the weakened spring to offer as resistance to the jerks and jolts of daytime. The morning winding, if so, lessens the danger of breaking the main spring, which, being no longer at full tension at night, can stand the cold better. All watches keep better time as the result of regular habits. Don't lay your watch down one night and hang it up the next. Keep it in the same position as nearly as circumstances will permit. In second-class watches the difference between the horizontal and vertical position is often quite significant. Nor should you hang a watch on a nail where it can swing to and fro like a pendulum. It will either gain or lose a great deal while in that position. The difference in temperature between your breast or a man's waist coat pocket and a wall, that may be nearly at a freezing point, is about 77 to 88 degrees Fahrenheit and a watch should, therefore, never be suspended or laid against a cold surface.

Vegetables For Hens.

Hens deprived of green foods will not lay as well as when their needs in this direction are attended to. All the turnips, beets, carrots and roots of all kinds, large and small, should be saved and given them. These vegetables and herbs are good for poultry, cows and hogs. They are a good substitute for green food for hens. Peelings of potatoes, turnips and vegetables of all kinds, including apple peelings, should be saved for the poultry. Cut up fine and boiled and mixed with mash feed for the fowls, this furnishes them a splendid food. Such savings will be worth a dollar a bushel this winter and will do the hens more good than they could do the hogs if fed to them.—Eastern Shore Farmer.

Nature's Compensations.

Nature is full of compensations, evils balanced with good, favorable and with unfavorable conditions. When market poultry is bringing good prices, it costs more to produce them. When eggs are high, it is expensive to produce them. This latter condition prevails now. We know people who are feeding and caring for forty hens for an output of three or four eggs per day. We can't as individuals regulate these things to suit ourselves, otherwise eggs would be much dearer in May than November if we had eggs to sell, and vice versa if we wanted to buy.

Genesis of the Horseshoe.

It is known that the hoofs of horses were protected by boots of leather at a very early period in the world's history—at a time which at least antedates Pliny and Aristotle, both of whom make mention of the fact. These leather boots were sometimes studded with metal nails, but more usually worn without extra trimming, the cheapness of that commodity making it possible for the owner of the steed to "reboot" him at any time.

Curiosity.

"I wish I could hit on some scheme," said the merchant, "to make people stop in front of my store as they pass, if only for a moment. I think it would help business."
"I've got it," put in his friend. "Put up a sign 'Look Out For Paint,' and I'll bet my salary against a penny cruller ninety-nine men out of a hundred will stop to see if it's dry."—Baltimore News.

What Worried Her.

Mrs. O'Brien—Good mornin', Mrs. McCabe. Au' phwat makes yez look so bad?
Mrs. McCabe—Shure, Dennis was sint to the penitentiary fer six months.
Mrs. O'Brien—Well! Shure, don't worry. Six months will soon pass.
Mrs. McCabe—Shure, that's what's worries me.—Leslie's Weekly.

All in the Family.

Adams—Do you believe it is a sign of good luck to find a horseshoe on the road?
Johnson—Of course. It is a sign of good luck for some blacksmith.—Detroit Free Press.

The first shell was used in warfare by the sultan of Gujerat, India, in 1480.

"Let me take your check" is the most popular after dinner speech.

CLIPPING HORSES.

An Advocate Gives Reasons Why It Is the Proper Thing to Do.

Those who say that clipping the horse is a wrong practice because contrary to nature might take ground with an old physician who would not have his horse groomed in the winter for the same reason, says a writer in American Cultivator. As the horse was one of those with hair about six inches long, he certainly did not look very neat when on the street. He might also have objected to the harness, as the colts were not born with any arrangement for attaching to the carriage, or to wearing clothing himself because babies were not clothed when born. In fact, our whole life is a struggle to improve upon the processes of nature both in raising the natural savage to a civilized human being and the wild beast to the domestic animal, useful because subjected to the will of his master.

The clipped horse does not perspire as freely when working as the long haired animal, or, if he does, it quickly evaporates and does not leave him with a thick coat saturated with moisture to get cold and chill him before the heat of his body can dry it out. When he has to stop for a time on the street in a cold wind, the driver is more apt to remember to put a blanket over him than if he had the long hair on him, and yet he would scarcely feel the cold as much as if the coat was there and he was heated by his drive. When he returns to the stable, he can be quickly rubbed dry and warm, and in a warm stable he is all right.

Of course we do not mean to apply this to the horse that is driven slowly with a load and then must stand thirty minutes or an hour for loading or unloading. It might be better for him also if care was taken to blanket him well at every stop, but the majority of teamsters do not do this, and some of them do not drive fast enough to keep a clipped horse warm when moving or to sweat a long haired horse. But the driving horse we would have clipped in winter if not in summer.

Considerate.

A tender hearted youth was once present at an Oxford supper, where the fathers of those assembled were being roundly abused for their parsimony in supplying the demands of their sons. At last, after having long kept silence, he lifted up his voice in mild protest. "After all, gentlemen," he said, "let us remember that they are our fellow creatures."

A little poker now and then is apt to break the best of men.
