FOR INDIAN VETERANS.

Blanks of Pension Applications Will Soon be Here.

Advices have been received by Major T. G. Halley, from Congressman Moody, at Washington, D. C., stating that blank applications for pensions under the Indian War Veteran bill, recently passed, would be forwarded to him at once. These will be printed and forwarded to Mr. Halley, at whose office, all who come in for pensions under this new law can obtain them and have them filled out.

Scratched Off.

"If it please your honor," said a lank individual who had been summoned for jury duty, "I'd like to be excused on account of illness. I'm suffering from something that might prove embarrassing to the other jurors and is certainly embarrassing to me."

"What is the nature of your illness?" asked the judge.

"Well," said the young man hesitatingly, "I'd prefer to tell you in private. I'm somewhat delicate about speaking of it in public."

"I cannot hear anything in private," responded the judge impatiently. "If you want to be excused, you must tell me here and now what is the matter with you?"

"Well, if I must tell it here—I have the itch."

"The itch?" echoed the judge, and, turning to the clerk, without marking how apropos his observation was, said, "Mr. Jones, scratch the juror off."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Story of Lincoln.

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says The Literary Digest.

He rarely went down street that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the species of tyranny they exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by with the boys, both of whom were wailing aloud. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Wind as a Destroyer.

The ravages wrought upon sea bluffs during great storms are often due to the wind as much as to the ocean waves. Sand and salt spray driven for hours before a violent wind act like a gigantic sand blast, eating away with surprising rapidity the layers of gravel and sand of which many projecting headlands are composed. The surfaces of bodies exposed to such a wind are soon pitted. In a great gale in 1899 a single night sufficed to convert the window panes of the life saving station at Truro into ground glass.

A Sure Sign.

A physician driving past a place where stonemasons were at work on some monuments called out:

"Hard at work, I see. You finish your gravestones as far as 'In memory' and then you wait, I suppose, to see who wants a monument next."

"Why, yes," was the answer, "unless somebody is ill and you are treating him, and then I know just how to go on."

"Now is the Appointed Time." The O. R. & N. Company has just issued a handsomely illustrated pamphlet entitled "Oregon, Washington & Idaho and Their Resources." People in the east are anxious for information about the Pacific Northwest. If you will give the O. R. & N. Company agent a list of names of eastern people who are likely to be interested, the booklet will be mailed free to such persons.

The grass burning in the vicinity of the O. R. & N. railroad tracks, west of the depot this forenoon, caused a fire alarm to be turned in, but the fire department did not turn out as the cause of the alarm was discovered before they were at their posts. The fire is supposed to have caught from a passing freight engine.

A Light Heart Under Failure.

A light heart under failure is a condition of success which may be written down as an essential. No one should need to be warned against the deleterious effects of the blues. Nothing deters the heart of enterprise or unstrings the nerves of action like a fit of the blues. In one of those beautiful prayers which Robert Louis Stevenson wrote for us in his Samoan household he prayed for "courage and gayety and a quiet mind." A man who backs up his brains with these three gifts has all the odds in his favor. It is next to impossible that he should fall in what he undertakes to accomplish. Gayety is the essence of power. What is there in a failure or two to cry about or in a dozen failures when you know you are bound to get there?—Richard Le Gallienne in Success.

Cats Among the Egyptians.

The tutelar deity of cats was Diana, and, according to Plutarch, the cat was not only sacred to the moon, but was an emblem of it. Hence cats were treated with peculiar consideration in the land of the pharaohs, the death of one being regarded as a great family misfortune. Egyptian cat funerals were celebrated with the greatest pomp and ceremony, their late owners showing respect by shaving off their eyebrows and wearing sackcloth for nine days. In the time of Moses it was a capital crime to kill a cat, and we are told by Diodorus how a Roman soldier who killed one was tried, sentenced and finally put to death.
