Wheat Market.

Portland, Nov. 6 .- The wheat mar ket during the past week has been except butter. Fresh creamery but-ter is a thing almost impossible to get, and instead of being sold at 70 hands. The great activity in wheat is only noted on this coast, as the crops House and 7 lots, with nice orchard House and 7 lots, with nice orchard get, and instead of being sold at to cents a roll, as it was last week, it is now quoted at 80 cents. This is a very high figure although it is no very high very high figure although if is no more than it usually brings during the fall and winter months. The sup-ply of creamery butter cannot be found at home and much of that used now is brought from Spokane and there is more is more is more in the constant of the second other places where there is more than local demand requires. This would indicate that there is need of hands of the growers, who are well

Not since 1898 has the market been mains at 50 cents a roll. Of this, there is as much as the demand re-quires and no shortage is looked for. The local meat market is at a standatil and has been for several standstill and has been for several reached soc to sic per bushel. The months. The regular fall raise has has been the chief factor of the pres-not come yet. This is just the time ent rise in prices and has caused ent rise in prices and has caused of year at which the demand is being South Africa to become a heavy buyer on the coast, as usually Australia supplies that country. It is rather unfortunate that our crop should have fallen off 15 million bushels from last year, as there is no doubt we soar upward and the man who eats could have supplied all the grain necessary without that country calling on the eastern seaboard for supplies. Prices for club wheat are now 70@

71c per bushel, bluestem 75c and val-ley 71c per bushel, with a firmer ten dency.

San Francisco, Nov. 6 .- The past week in the wheat macket has been quite an exciting one and prices have advanced quite materially. Trading was quite active and sellers realized very handsomely by waiting to lis-pose of their crop. The chief call is from Australia and South Africa, and there is no doubt that exporters are short of wheat to fill the requirements demanded. The wheat crop in this state has been greatly overestimated and from conservative sources will probably reach 650,000 tons, instead of 900,000 tons early estimates.

Newspapers are City Gazetteeers.

"The newspapers may always be taken as indexes of the city in which they are published. Every paragraph conveys some information to strang ers visiting a city. They read the daily papers to find out about the morals of the place. The court re-ports give the litigation, divorce trials and other important items, showing certain phases of life. The advertise-ments indicate the volume of business and the opportunities for develop ment. For instance, if some particu lar line of industry or commercial enterprise is not represented on the advertising pages the visitor once that there is something in that business and is ready to jump in and fill the field. By reading the papers one keeps track of the lodges and social organizations and is enabled to form some conclusions of the city in those lines. Some people say, 'Show me what you eat and I will tell you what you are,' but I say, tell me what papers you read and I will give you a diagram of your knowledge. The newspaper sare the barometers."
