TELLS OF UMATILLA

SALEM PAPER REVIEWS FARMING PROSPECTS HERE.

Traveling Correspondent Tells of Excellent Resources of Umatilla—Outlook for Dairying—Sees His First Barbed Wire 'Phone—Dry Land Alfalfa—Income From Milk Cows at Milton.

The Pacific Homestead, of Salem, the leading agricultural paper published in Oregon, prints the following interesting observations from M. S. Shrock, a traveling correspondent who recently visited Umatilla county.

The East Oregonian takes pleasure in republishing these extracts from the correspondence, as they give an outsider's estimate of Umatilla county and some few of her resources. Mr. Shrock says:

Dairying in a favored locality like this would surely mean thousands of dollars to the farmers as well as merchants. The distance from Echo to Pendleton by wagon road over the hills is 25 miles. You can count all the houses along this road on the fingers of one hand.

This might seem to some of the readers a lonesome journey, but it is nothing compared with the journey from Arlington to Irrigon; 40 miles, 35 of which has not even a growing crop in sight.

Along the road from Echo to Pendleton are the nicest wheat fields I ever saw anywhere.

It is a common thing for a grain of wheat when sown in this soil to germinate, stool out, and form 25 to 30 stalks, each of which bears a head of golden grain.

Most of the grain farmers say that wheat is the only crop that will grow on up-land, hence they try no other. I passed a place yesterday about two miles east of Adams where two nice patches of alfalfa can be seen growing on hill land. One field of about two acres is used for hog pasture, the other is let grow to be cut for hay, and was from 10 to 12 inches in height.

I find a much better class of work horses as well as driving horses in Umatilla county than in the counties visited before. More attention is given to breeding pure-bred sires. Better care is also given the growing stock.

At Weston I had my first introduction to a barb-wire telephone line. I talked to a man in Milton, 10 miles away, and I was surprised to note that the ragged edge usually left by a barb-wire was entirely absent. The man on the other end could be heard distinctly.

At times I fancied I heard some one along the line mumble something about a torn coat or trouser leg, yet I would not be certain that this was not imaginary.

It is true that this whole country is connected by telephones run on barb-wire fences. At cross roads and gates the current is carried overhead by a light wire on poles. No insulators are used on this line, but the barb-wire is stapled to the posts in the ordinary way.

Ten 'phones are used on a line and it gives fully as good service as our "high" line at home. I am told that in wet weather it causes some trouble as the moisture on the posts is a better conductor than the dry wood.

Near Milton I met a very interesting man in L. B. Zell, a prominent poultryman and dairyman. He breeds Buff Leghorns, Buff Cochins, White Wyandottes, Japanese Pearl guineas, Indian Runner ducks, and White Holland turkeys. He has a number of blue ribbons that he captured at the Walla Walla poultry show and at the Portland show.

Dairying in this vicinity is yet in its infancy. Not many hand separators are used, but the Hazelwood Company has a skimming station at Milton and the milk is hauled there and the skim milk returned.

Mr. Zell's cows netted him last year $60 each. During the month of March, this year, his cows netted $7.50 each. They were fed on alfalfa hay and five pounds of mill feed each per day. This means 50 per cent profit on feed cost.

PLANTERS' COMPRESS CASES.

Fight With Railroads for a Differential Rate.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—The interstate commerce commission met in Memphis today for the purpose of continuing the hearing of the case of the Planters' Compress Co., in which a number of the largest railroad corporations in the United States are the defendants. Included among the defendant roads are the Pennsylvania, Michigan Central, Southern, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Missouri Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central, Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, Yazoo & Mississippi Valley, and Big Four.

The suit was instituted some time ago and originated in a demand of the compress company on the defendant railroads for a differential of 10 cents a bale in favor of the round bale as against the rectangular bale. The railroads, it is understood, recognized the demand of the compress company to the extent of making an allowance of 10 cents a bale, or the cost of compressing a rectangular bale, but a further reduction is insisted upon.

The outcome of the issues involved are awaited with much interest, not solely because of the money directly involved, but because of the rivalry existing between the round bale and the square bale compress companies.

We Shall Spend $500,000 To Give Ligozone Away.

This Company, after testing Ligozone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $500,000 for the American rights. That is the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We are now spending $500,000 to give the product away—one bottle to each of a million sick ones. We are doing this so that every sick one may let Ligozone itself prove what it can do.

Kills Inside Germs The greatest value of Ligozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues.

Acts Like Oxygen Ligozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.
