Highway to Serve as Connective Link

Few Oregonians have ever traveled this new Oregon highway, State 78, that is to serve as connecting link between the ION cutoff and the Central Oregon route. This picture was taken west of Follyfarm, at a point where the highway sweeps into the lower country after crossing a northerly extension of the Steens mountain country.

Hunters

A three-point, 125 pound buck, and Lloyd Reed, who bagged a 100 pound two pointer in the Lava Butte area.
Another of the successful bend hunters was Mrs. P. W. Chernenkoff, who got a 138 pound buck in the Century Drive area west of Bend.
Up until noon today, no casualties were reported from the crowded woodlands. The area was also without fires at that hour.
Because of the closure of practically all woodlands west of the mountains, hunters moved into eastern Oregon this week and in caravan formation. Some 180,000 hunters were licensed to bag deer this fall, and it was estimated that more than 100,000 of them were in the pine country east of the Cascades.

Hospital News

Mrs. Arthur Craft, Eugene, was admitted to St. Charles Memorial Hospital this morning for treatment of burns on her arms, suffered while cooking over a fire, at a hunting camp.
Other new patients at the hospital, admitted Friday are: Daniel McLennan, 626 Delaware; Mrs. Elva Varco, Route 2; John Lanzetta, 538 Glenwood.
Mrs. John Diehl, 501 Hill street, and Mrs. William LaClaire, 1128 Hill, and their baby boys, were dismissed today from the maternity floor.

MEETING SET
REDMOND, Oct. 4 — Women of the Community Presbyterian church are reminded of the all-day meeting scheduled for Monday, Oct. 6 in Westminster hall at which time they will sew and prepare articles to be sold at the annual November bazaar. The committee for the rummage sale, Mrs. Justin King chairman, are also collecting items for the rummage sale which will be held in the hall Friday and Saturday, Oct. 10 and 11.

from Steens mountain. The new highway eliminates the old, rugged grade just southeast of Follyfarm, then sweeps southeast, again over long tangents, one 13 miles in length, to a junction with the ION cutoff near Scotts Butte.
Will Have Choice
From the junction, tourists and Oregon sightseers will have a choice of directions. They can either go east through the Basque community of Rome and up to Jordan Valley, or they can continue south into the McDermitt region, just over the Oregon line in Nevada. In either direction, the highway is paved. Oregonians seeing the southeastern part of their state will have an opportunity of making a loop trip north from Jordan Valley to Caldwell, Ida., and Ontario, then back into the heart of Oregon over U.S. 20 or the John Day or Oregon Trail routes.
Recently, this writer, on a geologically trip into the Basque country, headed east from Bend at noon. Fearful that night would overtake him in the "wild" country southeast of Burns, he took his bad roll along, expecting to camp in the Follyfarm area. The September sun was still high when the party reached Follyfarm. The "explorers" continued into the southeast, and reached Jordan Valley, near the Idaho line, at sunset.
On the entire trip, only 10.17 miles of unsurfaced road was encountered—and on that unsurfaced strip it was possible to drive 50 miles an hour.

Hohnstein Rites Held on Friday

Funeral services for John Hohnstein, a resident of the Bend area for 33 years, were held Friday afternoon at the Niswonger-Winslow chapel. He died Monday following a brief illness, at the age of 75.
The Rev. D. L. Penhollow officiated. Pallbearers were Carl B. Livesley, O. M. Benson, Albert L. Shultz, Robert Anderson, Frank Tatti and McKinley Stoffel.
Mr. Hohnstein was a native of Russia. He had farmed on Route 1 for a number of years, and was a charter member and past master of the Alifata Grange. He leaves his wife, Emma, and four children, including Peter Hohnstein of Bend and Mrs. Jack Shumway of Powell Butte. There are nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery.

STILL ALARM

Bend firemen answered a still alarm Thursday at 2:28 p. m. and checked on an overheated oil stove at the home of Mrs. W. D. Schutt, 1451 Albany. There was no damage.

Military Accused Of Putting Frills Before Economy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (UP)—Congressional investigators criticized the armed services Saturday for putting speed and "frills" ahead of economy in construction of military bases in this country.
In a report on a 12-day inspection tour of 15 military bases in eight states, the House subcommittee on government operations said the armed services "were not as economy-minded as they might have been" in their zeal to finish U. S. military bases.
Chairman Porter Hardy (D-Va.) said the group found "progress and accomplishments as well as deficiencies" in its survey. He also praised the speed with which some projects were completed.

Chamber Studies Delinquent List

Delinquent memberships in the Bend Chamber of Commerce were discussed at the luncheon meeting of directors Friday, and names of delinquent members were appointed to board members for collection.
Chamber memberships are $25 per year for individuals, with many firms buying more than one membership, Manager Marion E. Cady explained.
Directors signified approval of a proposed civil aeronautics board ruling to permit public bodies, such as chambers of commerce, to intervene on the last day prior to any CAB hearing which might affect the community. The chamber had received a letter from Charles R. Stark, manager of the Idaho Falls chamber, urging support of the proposed ruling.
It was announced that reservations would be necessary for the October 17 chamber forum luncheon, when Glenn Hardy, radio newscaster, will be the speaker.
An invitation to attend a discussion meeting on water fluoridation, to be sponsored by the Bend Business and Professional Women's club Oct. 8, was read at the chamber directors' meeting. The discussion is scheduled at 8 p. m., at the Deschutes County Library auditorium.

Open Rift Noted In Wafd Party

CAIRO, Oct. 4 (UP)—An open rift developed Saturday in the powerful Wafd party over the issue of compliance with "strong man" Premier Gen. Mohammed Naguib's demands for political reform in Egypt.
Fifty members of the party's parliamentary group revolted against the Wafd executive committee and announced they would bow to Naguib's orders to reorganize the party.
Last week the party came out in open defiance of Naguib.
The rebels included former Wafd deputies and senators. Their spokesman, former Deputy Hamed Taha Sakr, said they hoped to save the party from threatened disbandment over the executive committee's attitude.
The revolt spelled the end of the leadership of former Premier Mustapha el Nahas, who has controlled the party for 25 years. It was rumored that the committee rallied unanimously to defy Naguib's demands, which included his ouster.

Sabrejets Shoot Down Two MIG's, Damage 5 More

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 4 (UP)—United Nations Sabrejets shot down two Communist MIG-15 jet planes and damaged five more Saturday while protecting Allied fighter-bombers in an attack on a North Korean military academy.
Fifth Air Force headquarters reported "good results" in the F-84 Thunderjet attack on the school 25 miles southeast of Pyongyang, North Korean capital.
However, pilots said dense smoke billowing from the target prevented a full assessment of damage.
At least F-88 pilots said they sighted about 35 MIGs over Northwest Korea during the day. Their claims came in four separate battles and brought the October total to six MIGs destroyed and 11 damaged.
Retake Hill
The 8th Army announced that Allied troops reoccupied Big Nori Hill on the Western Front after a "bitter fight" with two enemy squads. Earlier, the 8th Army said U. N. soldiers found the peak abandoned.
Elsewhere in the air enemy MIGs ranged far outside their usual haunts over MIG Alley to attack U. S. propeller-driven planes off Korea's East Coast.
Lt. Col. Ralph E. Keyes of Roadhouse, Ill., knocked down one of the MIGs. He cut the enemy fighter off as it tried to flee back to the Yalu River.
Rear Admiral Robert F. Hickey, commander of Task Force 77, did not disclose what damage was inflicted by either side or how long the unusual aerial fight lasted.

Church Planning Sunday Program

A full-length sound film, "Messenger of Peace," will be shown Sunday, Oct. 5, at 7:30 p. m. at First Lutheran church. It was announced by the Rev. Stanley Gunsten, who said that the public will be welcome to attend.
The film tells the story of the heart-warming adventures of Pastor Armin Ritter in the hills where God was only a name," the Rev. Mr. Gunsten said. "There are tense scenes which will never be forgotten by anyone who sees the picture," he added.
The picture was made by Roland Reed Productions, Inc., and was filmed at the RKO-Pathé Studios. It was produced by the Lutheran Laymen's League.
There will be no admission charge, but a free will offering will be received.

Mixed Reaction Greet's McCarthy

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 4 (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) received a mixed reaction of applause and catcalls Friday night when he spoke before Dwight D. Eisenhower's address at the Milwaukee Arena.
"I'll continue to call 'em as I see them regardless of who happens to be President," he said.
At one point during the speech police ejected a group of teenagers who were being raucous in the back of the hall. An Eisenhower supporter who said he was Ronald Dake, a Milwaukee businessman, objected to the removal of the youngsters and started to boo.
"Yes, I booed," Dake told newsmen, "because I don't like this guy McCarthy's methods."
"Don't worry about trouble-makers in this crowd," McCarthy said from the platform. "I'm used to trouble-makers."
McCarthy mentioned his meeting with Eisenhower at Peoria, Ill., Thursday night before the Wisconsin senator boarded the Republican presidential candidate's train.
"I can't report that we agreed on everything entirely, but I left that meeting with the same feeling that I went in—that he's a great American and will make a great President. . . ."
The catcalls were virtually drowned out by explosive applause. Then police rushed the teenagers out of the hall.

Virus Suspected Of Hurting Dates
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UP)—Scientists at the University of California experiment station here are investigating a virus suspected of causing root rot of Coachella Valley date palms.
The date malady, known to growers as "rapid decline," has destroyed about 700 trees in the valley, said Dr. Ellis F. Darley, plant pathologist.
He said testing for the virus was difficult because it is impossible to bud on graft from one palm to another. However, most viruses have a carrier, said Dr. Darley, and insects found on infected palms are being tested.
