

HOME INTELLIGENCE.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN DALLAS.

Methodist Episcopal Church (South).—A. E. Sears, pastor. Services the first Sabbath in each month at the Baptist Church, southwest corner Jefferson and Court streets.

M. E. Church.—Rev. G. W. Rook, pastor. Services at their church, north side of Mill street between Main and Jefferson, as follows: First Sabbath (in each month) in the evening; 2d Sabbath, at 11 o'clock a. m.; 3d Sabbath, in the evening. Regular prayer meeting each Wednesday evening. Sunday School every Sabbath at 9 o'clock a. m.

Baptist Church.—J. W. Osborn, pastor. Services at their church, corner Court and Jefferson streets, the Third Sabbath in each month.

Christian Church.—H. M. Waller, pastor. Services at the Baptist Church second Saturday and Sunday in each month.

DALLAS, SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1899.

THE CELEBRATION.—Elsewhere will be found a report of the proceedings of the Fourth of July meeting held at the Court House last Thursday. As will be perceived, the working committee have been wisely selected from among the citizens who reside at the seat of operations, so as to avoid delay and inconvenience in communicating with each other. We now want to see every individual member of each of the committees do his or her level best to make the affair a perfect success. If we see a disposition to shirk from duty on the part of either of them we shall not hesitate to give publicity to the fact. The committee on general arrangements will appoint sub-committees in each precinct. It is intended to be a "basket party," and as many visitors will doubtless be present from Salem and other localities adjacent, it would be well to make timely preparations for the comfort of our guests. As the celebration at Independence comes off on Saturday and the one here on the following Monday, nothing remains to prevent the majority of our citizens from attending both. Let each of them be such as will reflect credit on the patriotism and unanimity of purpose of the citizens of "Old Polk."

A BACHELOR'S BLISS.—Who can imagine it on his receiving, anonymously, magnificent bouquets that have a world of subtle meaning in their silent language? We don't know exactly what they say, but then we are weak enough to believe that no one would go to the trouble of conveying their opinions in so sweetly sentimental a manner if they hated us so very bitterly. Ah! well! "where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise," for if we knew it might sadly interfere with our peace of mind and the interests of our patrons. But still we were anxious to find out the fair donor, and called the services of our little Mercury into requisition, who in a twinkling made this report:

"T'other eve, as day was glom'ing,
Rode a maiden young and fair;
In her hand she bore, fresh blooming,
Richest bouquet, culled with care.
"Whither now?" quoth I to maiden,
As she cantored o'er the lea;
And she answered that, full laden,
All her butthen was for thee!"

But the mischievous little elf forgot to ask whether the fair one in question was acting as principal or proxy in the matter; so we still remain in tantalizing uncertainty.

READ AND LEARN.—Some say that it is no use for them to advertise, say an exchange, that they have been in the place in business all their lives, and everybody knows them. Such people seem to forget to take in consideration that our country is increasing in population nearly 40 per cent. every ten years, and no matter how old the place may be, there are constant changes taking place; some move to other parts, and strangers fill their places. In this age of the world, unless the name of a business firm is kept constantly before the public, some new firms may start up, and, by liberally advertising, in a very short time take the place of the older ones, and the latter rust out, as it were, and be forgotten. No man ever lost money by judicious advertising.

COTTAGE HOME.—Our enterprising fellow-townsmen, Sam C. Stiles, the saddler, is engaged in erecting a substantial and commodious cottage residence, which for architectural design and finish will excel anything in Dallas. It is located on the south side of Church street, between Main and Jefferson. Sam is doing a rushing business and making lots of money here, and, like a good citizen, does not bury his talent in the earth, but invests and keeps his money in circulation at home. Such men deserve to succeed, as they not only give employment to our mechanics, but also enhance the value of their neighbor's property by their enterprise.

A NOVELTY.—Our friend James, the photographic artist at this place, has laid on our table a finely executed photograph of the first page of the Times, of the ordinary carte de visite size. The reading matter is so fine as to be barely legible to the naked eye; but Mr. James promises us one double the size, which will make quite a difference, and which persons with good optics will be able to decipher. He has also favored us with some fine views of local interests, copies of which he has for sale. Mr. James is an artist in the fullest sense of the word.

ROLLING STONES, ETC.—We learn that several families from the neighborhood of Bethel, in this county, are about to emigrate to Bitter Root Valley, Montana. We are sorry to learn that anybody is so foolish as to leave fertile, salubrious Oregon for any such place. A realization of the old fable of the substance and the shadow. We will wager two to one they will repent the step inside of 1899.

SPECIAL SERVICE.—It is generally understood that divine service will be held at the Baptist church this evening and to-morrow morning, Rev. Mr. Baxter officiating. To-morrow afternoon service will also be held at the same place, on which occasion Rev. A. W. Sweeney, late of Umatilla, will officiate. The public are cordially invited.

2-40.—Tem. Richmond is sporting a very fine gelding about town, so sulky, that steps as though it knew something about time. We don't know what he calls the "critter," but suppose it knows enough to go without being called. Quoted by?

FOURTH OF JULY MEETING AT DALLAS.

Pursuant to call published, the citizens of Dallas and vicinity met at the Court House on Thursday P. M. to take the preliminary steps towards the appropriate celebration of the anniversary of our national birthday in or near Dallas.

The meeting organized by the election of Mr. J. W. Crawford, Chairman, and F. R. Stuart, Secretary.

On motion, it was resolved to celebrate on Monday, July 5th.

On motion, Messrs. J. H. Lewis, D. F. Nichols and J. W. Smith were appointed a committee on Order of Business. The committee reported forthwith; the report was adopted, and the following standing committees were appointed and business transacted in accordance therewith:

Committee of Finance.—Messrs. Jas. Liggett, B. F. Nichols, J. H. Lewis, T. G. Richmond and John Baldwin.

On Grounds.—Messrs. John Phy, G. B. Stiles, T. G. Richmond, T. F. Hover and Dr. J. R. Sites.

On Orator, Reader and Music.—Messrs. S. C. Stiles, Wm. Fraker, J. A. Applegate, Dr. Sites and W. C. Whitsom.

On Order of Exercises.—Messrs. J. H. Turner, F. R. Stuart and J. W. Lewis.

On General Arrangements.—Messrs. R. M. May, John Wayne, Isaac Lewis, J. H. Lewis and J. B. Riggs, Sr.

On motion, Messrs. P. C. Sullivan, J. W. Smith, W. C. Brown, T. M. Thompson and Joseph D. Lee, were appointed a special committee to procure the erection of a suitable public liberty pole in Court House Square.

On motion, a general invitation was extended to the citizens of neighboring counties to participate.

On motion, it was ordered that a copy of the proceedings of the meeting be furnished the Polk County Times and American Unionist, with a request that the same be published.

On motion, adjourned.

J. W. CRAWFORD, Chairman.
Frank R. Stuart, Secretary.

Communicated.

DALLAS, May 25th, 1899.
Editor Polk County Times.—Conduct at the M. E. Church during the preaching of Father Waller on last Sunday should be condemned. Two "professional gentlemen" who sat on the left of the stove conducted themselves unbecomingly—one continued thumping his boots upon the floor, keeping time; while the other every few minutes squirted his tobacco juice upon the warm stove to hear it "sizzle," to the disgust of men and women, and to the amusement of bad boys who were taking lessons of them. Three women with babies which kept up a continual squalling remained in the house during the whole time of service, to the infinite annoyance of all who wished to hear the discourse. It has always been a mystery to me, that a woman would remain in church with a child which she continually tossed, whirled over, thumped on the back, fed with cake, apple, etc., and it continually squalling, distracting everybody, the mother included, by turning the attention of the audience to them instead of the preacher. Again, I could never see the necessity of taking two or three ugly, woolly, ill-bred dogs to church, to have them follow you into the house and then go snuffing around, etc. A stranger comes to our town to preach, and the audience, or rather individuals in the audience, conduct themselves so badly that he goes away prejudiced against us. Speak out, Mr. Editor, and you will have the approbation of every good citizen of Dallas.

ORDER.
The abuses referred to by our correspondent are of the most aggravating character, as our experience on two or three occasions has proven. We hesitated to notice them, thinking the cases we refer to were exceptional; but as our correspondent has brought the matter up we propose to speak plainly. We have seen young fellows (who, of course, claim to be gentlemen) leap or vault from one pew to another while divine service was being administered, others keeping up an incessant chatter in a subdued tone to the infinite annoyance of their more respectable neighbors, while some seemed to come to church for no other purpose than to ogle the ladies, pass indecent remarks in relation to them, and retail the town scandal of the past week. We state nothing but fact when we assert that, having lived in communities notorious for their general immorality and recklessness, we have never seen such gross misconduct and total disregard of the sacredness of the house of God during divine service as in the quiet, pastoral town of Dallas. We are loath to make this admission, but do so hoping the moral sensibilities of the young people referred to are not so dead as to make them totally devoid of self-respect if they are heedless of the opinions of others.

The other abuses referred to—the nuisance of squalling babies at public meetings, and particularly at divine service—has long been a mystery to us, and is unquestionably and literally a crying evil. Mothers will no doubt call us a "brute" for assuming this position; but we have been called worse things for telling the truth, and in the long run justice has prevailed, and we have received our reward. Some mothers will ask: "Are we to be deprived of the blessing of attending public worship at all times merely because we have no one to care for our baby at home?" We answer most decidedly—yes! for a squalling baby destroys whatever good effects might result to the congregation from the preaching of the truth, by distracting their attention from the minister, and making attendance at church a severe penance instead of a pious pleasure; besides, it is impossible for the mother herself to reap any benefit whatever from the ministrations, her whole time and attention being occupied in attempting to soothe and quiet her turbulent offspring.

If you would serve God, and do unto your neighbor your duty as a Christian, do not take your baby to the House of Worship. This is a subject that much may and ought to be said upon, but we hope there will be no further necessity for censuring the good people of Dallas on this score.

"STILL THEY COME!"—We've got another, and such a duck of a nosegay—but our descriptive powers are not equal to the task. Fortunately the charming donor on this occasion left her card (we wish it had been her photograph). Young gentlemen about town need not feel at all jealous; but then she's young, beautiful, accomplished, sensible, lovable, sylph-like—Godness gracious! we are forgetting the dignity of the tripod; so we'll reserve the balance for a different occasion.

OREGON NEWS.

The students of the Willamette University gave an exhibition last week from which they realized $130.

The teamsters of Eugene have formed a protective association, fixing rates for freighting and hauling about town. Freight from Eugene to Portland 1 1/2 cents per pound, Portland to Eugene, 2 cents.

Cattle and sheep are reported as becoming exceedingly scarce in Lane and other counties to the south of us, from the immense drain of the California and Nevada markets.

Ripe cherries have been selling in Portland for a week back—fifty cents per pint.

Jacksonville has been reveling in the luxury of "cherry-ripe" for two weeks at a considerably lower tariff.

Gold diggings have been discovered on the Molalla river which are said to pay $3 to $5 per day to the hand. The mines are fifty-eight miles directly east from Oregon City, in the Cascade range. The pay streak is said to extend for a distance of eight miles.

P. G. M. Silas J. Day was presented with a magnificent gold watch of the value of $225 by the members of the Grand Lodge recently in session at Salem, as a token of the esteem of his brother Odd Fellows. Few presentations of the kind take place in which the recipient is so worthy of the honor as our old friend Silas Day. Long may he live to consult the tale it tells, and may each fleeting hour add to his happiness.

Judge Deady is making the tour of the State for recreation.

Not less than ten thousand head of sheep passed through Roseburg last week on their way south.

Encouraging reports are continually received from the newly discovered gold mines on Myrtle creek, in Douglas county. Experienced miners predict that the diggings will prove extensive and permanent.

The Eurys says of the Bohemia mines: "A vigor attempt will be made this season to develop the various quartz ledges in that district, and that one or two mills will be taken in. The assays of rock made since the work was abandoned last fall, leave no doubt that it is one of the richest quartz districts on the coast, not excepting White Pine."

Soused salmon, put up on the Columbia, it seems, is getting to be quite an article of traffic, and is pronounced by those who have used it as nice as anything in the way of fish could be.

A dwelling house belonging to O. Leonardson, in East Portland, was burned to the ground. The house was unoccupied, and the fire must have been the work of an incendiary. Loss, $1,000.

A goose belonging to Thomas Mountain of Portland has lately died, aged 20 years. Its mate is still living, at the venerable age of 22 years.

Green peas made their appearance on the tables of Jacksonville ten days ago—rather ahead of Dallas.

The Farmer says: In this county (Marion) the price of milt cows ranges from $23 to $50; two year old cattle, $14 to $18; yearlings, $3 to $12 per head. Horses, $50 to $200. A good work horse can be had for $100. Sheep are selling at $1 25 to $2 per head. Hogs sell at from 2c to 3 1/2c per pound.

Our friend Ireland, of the Enterprise, has recovered a fine canoe which he lost overboard from one of the up-river steamers over a year ago. Lucky dog.

Three small boys living in Astoria, took a can of powder into the woods back of town a week ago last Sunday, and, endeavoring to load and discharge an old shot-gun barrel, the can, which was nearly full of powder, exploded while in the hands of one of the archons. His hands and face were terribly burned, and his hair nearly all singed off his head.

We are informed that Gen. Palmer, of Dayton is employing Chinamen to do his farm work.

The Corvallis Gazette says: Mr. R. R. Rounds some weeks since lost a large amount of bacon and wheat by the burning of his smoke-house and granary. His loss, we understand, was about $2,500; no insurance. Mr. R. was a heavy loser in the flood of 1862, and was just getting in comfortable circumstances again, when this last misfortune overtook him.

The O. C. Enterprise says: On Sunday last, something quite unusual occurred amongst the fish of the Clackamas, by which whole schools of salmon were stampeded, so to speak. They were observed to leap over the milldam, headed down stream, in perfect swarms; and boys, living along the banks, waded into the water killing large numbers with stones. The stream was literally alive with salmon. It is said that the stream, which is always clear and pure, was considerably muddied next day, and it is not at all unlikely that that high up the river a land slide may have occurred.

Nine or ten families have left Douglas county in the last two weeks for the Pitt River country, California.

Last week, James Harvey, employed by the Dixon brothers in their steam saw mill in Cole's Valley, Douglas county, had his hand badly mangled, and narrowly escaped death, by being caught by the saw.

Seventeen years ago, says the Guard, the house of Geo. Armitage was robbed of several hundred dollars and two watches. No clue was obtained to the thief or property. Whilst a piece of land that had never been cultivated was being plowed this spring, two watches were turned up, which were recognized by Mr. A. as being the ones which were stolen in 1852. One of them is said to be in good condition, and with cleaning will keep time.

The Willamette Valley and Cascade Mountain wagon road, leaving from Lebanon, Linn county, across the mountains, is now open for travel. Sheep and stock of all kinds can now pass over without any difficulty. The trails leading around many of the folds, are in a good state of repair. The road over the mountains as far as Fish Lake, is in remarkably good keeping, considering the period of the season. An abundance of fine grass and water abound all along the route.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows for Oregon, Washington and Idaho completed the business before it last Saturday and adjourned. The officers for the ensuing year are J. M. Bacon, Oregon City, Grand Master; Wm. Dierdorff, Portland, Deputy Grand Master; Joel Palmer, Dayton, Grand Warden; C. N. Terry, Salem, Grand Secretary; I. R. Moores, Salem, Grand Treasurer; A. L. Stinson, Salem, Grand Representative. The appointive officers are P. S. Knight, Salem, Grand Chaplain; F. S. Ostheim, Portland, Grand Marshal; D. M. Thompson, Albany, Grand Conductor; — Shelton, Walla Walla, Grand Guardian; R. C. Geer, Silverton, Herald. The District Deputies are District 1, I. W. Miller, 2, Archie Fuqua, 3, A. Holden, 4, J. L. Argner, 5, N. Fisher, 6, D. M. Thompson, 7, P. Metcass, 8, A. Honner, 9, J. Lyman, 10, —, 11, C. C. Hewitt, 12, W. M. Shelton, 13, E. Schatz, 14, D. S. Kinsey, 15, F. S. Ostheim, 16, James Riley, 17, A. J. Apperson, 18, —.

The Corvallis Gazette of Saturday last contains the following: The house of Mr. J. W. McBea was consumed by fire the first of the week; origin of the fire unknown. The family barely escaped with their lives, losing everything in the shape of clothing, furniture, etc.

The Esquis of the 15th says catpillars are more plenty in that vicinity than they have ever been known. Mr. Thomas Smith, of Winchester, has a large, fine orchard that is entirely stripped of leaves and fruit by these pests, and many other orchards are eaten to a less extent.

Hon. Wm. Greenwood died at the family residence in Howell Prairie, on the 17th, from the effects of injuries received from a falling timber.

The Guard says a ball of twine was found under Mr. Stevenson's house, which was evidently the instrument by which fire was communicated to the building.

The Herald learns that a man named James Nolan accidentally killed himself, a short time since, near Taylor's Ferry. He had been out hunting, and, after killing a deer, put his gun in the bottom of the wagon. He threw the deer on the gun, which caused the cap to explode, and the entire charge of the gun went into his body. He died in a short time afterwards.

Dr. W. C. Gray, surgeon at Warm Springs Reservation, while out hunting, on Saturday, May 15th, accidentally shot himself through the arm, and having such a long distance to travel before he could get assistance, and no surgeon nearer than the Dalles—60 miles distant—before the hemorrhage could be stopped, he died to death. Dr. Gray was 27 years of age, and graduated at the Medical Department of the Willamette University last summer. His remains were taken to Albany for burial.

The Jacksonville News says: Owing to the light fall of snow in the mountains during the past winter, the streams having their sources of supply in the snow ranges will undoubtedly be very low. Such is sure to be the case with Rogue river, and we would call the attention of our mining population to this stream. The present season promises to be one of the best for river mining that we have had for many years; and when we call attention to the fact, that sixteen years ago the low bars on the stream paid a half ounce to twenty dollars a day, working a rocker, with but little if any work since, it seems no idle boast to promise a rich thing to any one willing to try the adventure.

Lightning is reported to have played some strange pranks at the Dalles last week, but no one was seriously injured.

Over three thousand head of horned cattle have been driven from Josephine county this Spring.

In anticipation of early railroad communication through those sections, the emigration to Goose Lake and Pitt river continues unabated.

The Scouriel says 15,000 head of beaves, averaging $20 a head, have been taken out of Douglas, Jackson and Josephine counties this Spring, and the demand is steadily increasing.

The Jacksonville News says: The prospecting party in search of the "lost cabin" diggings returned home during the week, minus diggings, cabin, grub and whisky. Boys try your luck nearer home; there are plenty of good diggings this side of the lost cabin.

A Chinaman was caught in the act of robbing the sluces of Mr. Lew. Zigler, at Jacksonville, one night last week, and received a heavy load of duck shot in his corpus for his pains. He still lives, but his recovery is doubtful.

The Roseburg Esquis says: On Friday the 11th instant, about 3 o'clock, P. M., as the stage driven by Montgomery, approached Ester's station in this county, a man named James Ross, armed with a Mainard carbine, came deliberately up to the stage and addressed Montgomery with an oath stating that he intended to kill him then and there. He then took deliberate aim at the driver and fired, but the cap exploded without discharging the gun. Montgomery released himself from the apron which was buckled in front of him and sprang to the ground on the opposite side of the coach, and seized a pistol which was lying inside when Ross came around with his rifle. Several shots were fired in quick succession by Montgomery, one bullet taking effect in Ross' leg, who immediately exclaimed, "I surrender." Montgomery requested a passenger to take the gun, which he did. Ross afterward declared that he would kill Montgomery on the first opportunity. Dr. M. N. North, and H. C. Leonard of Portland, were passengers on the stage at the time of the assault. Ross was taken into custody, pled guilty to the crime of assault with a dangerous weapon, and was sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary.

On Monday, May 17th, Edwin Larkin was shot and killed by Frank Vaughn, on Molalla Prairie. The Herald gives the following version of the affair: It appears that there had been some difficulty relative to the opening of a highway through the claim of Mr. Vaughn, Sr., and that the Road Supervisor, Harrison Wright, had procured, on some ground, a warrant for the arrest of the elder Vaughn. This warrant had been placed in the hands of a person deputized, who took along with him three other men, among whom was Larkin, and all of whom were personal enemies of the Vaughns, there being quite a strong local feud in the section. The elder Vaughn seeing the men coming, and presuming their object, left the house. Frank Vaughn immediately closed the door, remaining within. The party came up and demanded that the door be opened, which was refused. The deputized person then said that it would be necessary to have a search warrant to open the door, and immediately left to procure one, leaving the three others there. After he had left Larkin remained out by the roadside, and the other two near the door commenced conversation with Vaughn. They assured him that neither of them had arms except Larkin. Young Vaughn then came out, and after some talk with them he approached Larkin and ordered him to leave the premises. Larkin then made a motion as though he would draw a pistol, when Vaughn drew his pistol and shot him. Vaughn then came to town and gave himself up to the authorities. He is a young man about twenty-one years of age.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]
SUPPORT THE PRESS.—A great statesman has said, and truthfully too, "that the individual who never reads the public press, was at least a half century in the rear of the present age." Newspapers, says an exchange, are the elevators, refiners and moulders of public taste. Their influence pervades all the avenues of life, and as arbiters, their decisions are universally heeded in the great arena of the political, social and religious world. As such, do they not deserve the favor and patronage of that public to whose interests they have devoted their energies? Newspapers, by enhancing the value of property in their neighborhood, and giving the locality in which they are published a reputation abroad, benefit all, particularly if they are merchants or real estate owners, thrice the amount yearly of the sum they pay for their support. Besides, every spirited citizen has a laudable pride of having a paper of which he is not ashamed, even though he should pick it up in New York or Washington. A good-looking, thriving, live newspaper helps to sell property, gives character to the locality, and in all respects is a desirable public convenience. If, from any cause, the matter in the local or editorial columns should not be quite up to your standard, do not cast it aside and pronounce it of no account, until you are satisfied that there has been no more labor bestowed upon it than is paid for. If you want a good readable sheet, it must be supported. The local press is the "power that moves the people."
