BULLY .- The Commercial states that the work on the West-side-our-railroad will be carried on all winter. Let the most natural impulses of freemen her come; we aint afraid.

FARMERS who go to market to sell produce are decided to be brokers, and must pay special tax. Those who only sell at home are exempt. Another fine illustration of the workings of Radical protective legislation.

squint-eyed, toothless, knock-kneed, strange infatuation could have possessed the fellow to desert a young, comely, an old harridan, is a mystery to the their recognized rights in the common neighbors.

ANOTHER FEATURE OF THE CASE .-A correspondent of the Oregonian, writing from Salem to that paper under date Nov. 13, has the following in reference to the Jenny Boice murder. We publish it for what it is worth:

"Your readers will remember concerning this case that Miss Jennie Boice, of Polk county, was found dead calculated to awaken suspicion that poison had been administered. Certain physicians having pretended to make a chemical examination of the stomach and contents, and having declared that no trace of poison could be found, suswho is a good practical chemist, had also received a portion of the contents of the stomach, in a sealed vial, for analysis, and he found poison in sufficient case is felt among the people."

HOPE 'TIS So .-- We are credibly in formed that the recommendations of Postal Agent Underwood for increased mail facilities on the West side of the Willamette, and which were returned to him from Washington, the bids for the service for the next year having been already advertised, have again been sent on to the Department, accompanied by pressing letters from the Agent, and also from Senator Williams, setting forth our necessities and urging immediate action in the premises. If old Flaxbrake has written in good faith, without dropping a line sub rosa to Postmaster Cresswell to neutralize the only good thing we ever knew him to do, the probability is that by next July we shall have a daily mail stage line running through from Portland to Corvallis, via Dallas, and a tri-weekly service from Salem to Buena Vista, vis Eola, Independence and Monmouth. At any rate these are among the recommendations, according to our informant. As Flaxbrake played the West side such a scurvy trick in the railroad business, in view of the approaching senatorial contest, he may put this mail matter through to conciljate the Radical element on this side the river. We hope so, at any rate.

The Oregonian, some time since, in a lengthy leader, oracularly pronounced the assertion that the late civil war was the legitimate sequence of the promulgation of the doctrines embodied in the Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798-9. In the whole course of our reading we never recollect of our noticing but one asseveration which had an equally stable foundation, and that was the one which Æsop declares the wolf At the last Democratic County Con- made against the lamb down stream, charging it with soiling the water he was quaffing. The editor of the Oregonian and Æsop's wolf stand alone in of the Constitution as of no effect against the will of Congress, and the reserved rights of the States as but negations before the assumptions of the Federal Government.

MONMOUTH, POLK Co. EDITOR TIMES :- In "times of peace prepare for war" is an old adage, and one that at the present time the Democracy would do well to heed. Now, it is comparatively a time of peace; some months ago under circumstances but the time is fast approaching when the battle of a fierce political contest will be upon us; when the sounds of strife will be heard from one end of the valley to another. What preparation is the Democracy making for picion was therefore naturally allayed; successful fight in that contest? Is every voter in our ranks willing to lay aside all personal feeling and prejudice, and work for the best interests of the party, the people, and the principles we profess? If not, then the time has arrived to begin the necessary preparation for the accomplish. ment of those results. We have an enemy to contend with, dishonest in its warfare, unscrupulous in all its actions, and regardless of pecuniary cost in the accomplishment of its nefarious pursuccessfully combat this incendiary foe? This is necessary: that we present an undivided and harmonious front to the enemy; that we be guided by principles, not by men; that we fight for Democracy, and not-for spoils. Let us have no this man's Democracy, or that man's Democracy; but let us have the Democracy which successfully and to the best interests of the people, administered the affairs of Government for sixty years, and until the present Radical Destruction party came into power by reason of a division in the Democratic ranks. The Democracy, united, can always successfully wage a political contest, and come out of it with victory perched upon our banners : but divided, failure is sure to result.
