SAFE TO TRUST IT.

It is now impossible to mistake the attitude of the republican party touching the great questions before the people. No trickery, no juggling of words, no misrepresentation on the part of the opposition can cast a shadow of doubt upon the purposes of the party concerning the tariff and trusts. They stand out clear, clean-cut and salient, and are expressed by party conventions, the party leaders and the republican press in all sections of the country in language having but one meaning, susceptible of but one interpretation.

Tariff revision will not be influenced by anti-trust legislation. The two questions will be dealt with separately, each upon its own merits. There will be no surrender nor drawing back on the doctrine of protection to American labor and industries. The only substitute for protection is democratic free trade. The people do not desire this. They believe in protection and rightfully look to the republican party for its preservation. While carefully doing this the tariff schedules will be modified in such manner as shall be found necessary and just to conform them to existing industrial conditions. There has never been any different purpose held by protectionists.

The party will calmly, promptly and efficiently deal with trusts. There will be no mad indiscriminate assault upon these. Naturally they divide into two classes—those which are inimical to the welfare of the people or which may easily become so, and those which are made necessary by changed industrial conditions and that neither work nor contemplate working any sort of public mischief. The republican party is pledged to governmental control of trusts and will employ every requisite means to place them under righteous and legal restraint.

It is quite probable that there are multitudes of men who, could they form any just conception of the velocity at which the earth moves through its annual orbit, would frantically jump off into measureless space. In some such measure there are men who seem to have lost their heads in view of the mighty pace we have attained in our national and material development. To these latter the republican party say: "Keep calm gentlemen, our policies and purposes are absolutely safe." The people rightfully feel it is so and therefore trust the solution of these questions to it, and they will be safely solved by that party.

A Resident Abroad.

Editor GAZETTE—It has been one and a half years since I have been in Eugene, and when I arrived here and took a survey of the young and beautiful city, I was surprised at the rapidity of its growth, the beauty and taste manifested in its improvement, and the extent of its business. The city is certainly making a very fast and permanent growth. I notice quite a number of new business structures here, that would not be a discredit to the great city of Portland. The merchants in all lines appear to be loaded up with heavy stocks, and their places are dressed up in a tasty and inviting manner, holding out to the public all the inducements they can for their patronage.

In passing through the court house, I notice that a large amount of realty is changing hands, and they report that a large number of Eastern people, mostly from Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota, are drifting into this country and investing in farms and town property. The Real estate agents are reaping their harvest and rubbing their hands with great satisfaction as they count up the profits.

The university has opened in what they term good shape. They report some thirty more new students this year than last, but they also report a large number of the old students have not returned. I have made frequent inquiries as to the number enrolled up to the present time, but have been unable to find out; some tell me over three hundred others about 250, but some of the professors told me this evening that he thought there were a very few over 200. All that I have spoken to in regard to President Campbell speak very highly of him and think he is the right man for the place.

While I am not much interested in athletics, I made some inquiries in regard to this work in that direction and the following are the conclusions that I have drawn: Firstly, many of the citizens and some of the enthusiastic students in that line deplore the lack of enthusiasm in that important field of work, not only in the student body, but also among the citizens. You will see in the Guard an account of a meeting held by students and professors on the 7th inst. to pump life in the supporters and workers, that the meeting was a failure, and that discouragement was written on the face of the enthusiast. But they don't fool yourself, they are not dead, but will be very much alive in a week or two or I will miss my guess, for if nothing else will bring them to the front there will be a time of tail twisting, then they will start forward with a rush.

The hop fever is here. Local dealers are out scurrying over the country trying to capture all in sight while outside dealers have good representatives on the ground looking after their interest—but the local agent to have the inside track.

How local interest changes in a short distance. Here you can hear more talk about mines, timber and sawmills in one day than you would hear in Corvallis in three months. Quite a number of rustling men living here have interests in these branches; talk is a part of the stock in trade. That starts others talking, and pretty soon these branches of business become town talk and make the mare go, when she is fed from the profits.

Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine
I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.
J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cared by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it is possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, heat and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.
