

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

F. H. L. Holmes, of Albany, is in the city as juror in the circuit court. Mr. Holmes is at the Occidental.

Hay is selling in this city at $12.50 to $13 per ton, baled. Better prices are offered for car load lots.

Save your eyes and nervous energy by wearing Dr. Lowe's glasses. They are the best by all tests.

J. R. Wyatt, a lawyer of Albany, now in attendance at the fall term of the circuit court, is registered at the Occidental.

Clarence Irwin and Roy Henkle, of Philomath, filed on homesteads at the county clerk's office in Corvallis on Wednesday.

In the case known as the Polk County Bank case, action brought to replevin small flock of sheep, the jury returned a verdict awarding $39.

Joseph Mustoe filed his intention for naturalization papers with the county clerk this week, and also filed on a homestead in the Alsea country.

The river was so high on Wednesday that the ferry boat could not run. It looks as if this state of affairs would continue for a day or two more.

W. P. Small, of Albany, a member of the G. A. R. and a soldier of Co. D, 19th Indiana, during the civil war, is in the city in attendance on the circuit court as juror.

Corvallis Lodge A. F. & A. M. is receiving so many accessions to its membership that special meetings have to be called every week in addition to the two regular meetings each month.

Lon Lock, who lives about three miles east of the ferry, in Linn county brought a dressed hog to town on Tuesday, that weighed 814 pounds. It was purchased by Hout Co. It netted the producer $380 cash.

Smith & Boulden have shipped to Portland for Thanksgiving 3000 pounds of turkeys and six dozen of geese, all dressed. If every town in the state sent in to Portland in the same proportion, there was no danger of a famine there yesterday.

Stick a hatpin in your calendar on date of November the 30th to noon of the next day. Dr. Lowe will be in Corvallis then. He won't send out any circulars announcing his arrival, so don't forget the days and dates.

The novel party, announced in a recent number of this paper, to come off at the residence of Mrs. F. L. Miller, was a pronounced success. Some of the costumes were unique and the guessing was a laughable feature. The rooms were prettily decorated.

Preparations for a roller skating rink, at the corner of Monroe and Third Sts. are completed. The new building, erected for the purpose by Marshal Miller, is now ready for painting, and the opening announcement is expected soon. Skating is now going on.

The ladies of the Eastern Star must not forget the annual election next meeting, Tuesday, December 1st. There will be work, in addition to the election, and refreshments after. Chapter will be opened promptly at 7:30, so be there early.

Don't let so-called opticians and peddlers fit glasses to your eyes. Take no chances with your eyes. Consult Dr. Lowe. He has been coming to Corvallis for over 13 years and has had over 17 years experience as an eye specialist.

The city council passed the ordinance making it an offense to ride bicycles on the sidewalks around the two school house blocks. This will meet the approval of everybody interested in the welfare of our school children. The penalty for violation is a fine of $3 to $10.

The matter of the electric lighting for this city for the next ten years stands pretty much as stated in our last issue. The Monday night meeting made no progress in the affair, but it is hoped that the special meeting of the council, called for Friday evening, Nov. 27th, will settle it for good and all.

Have Dr. Lowe cure your head and eye ache by removing the cause with a pair of his superior glasses.

Several of our prominent citizens are manifesting interest in poultry raising that is very commendable. F. L. Miller is the latest accession to the ranks of the chicken enthusiasts. Doctor Lester's Wyandottes hold their own, however, and refuse to be beaten by any foreign importations. If the chickens want to crow they have a right to, and no one has a right to throw stones at them. The great American Hen is the boss of the ranch for sure. Her annual output is worth more than all the gold mines, silver mines and copper mines of the country. During the last year the market value of the poultry sold was $136,000,000 and of eggs $14,000,000, or a total of $280,000,000. Keep on crowing, biddy, if you want to.

Put Through Nevada's Line For Three Touchdowns.

In the last game on the home grounds this season, the Oregon Agricultural College team yesterday afternoon defeated the University of Nevada, of Reno, by a score of 15 to 0. Although after the first ten minutes of play, the game was considerably one-sided, was nevertheless brimful of pretty and spectacular plays. Nevada did all her brilliant playing during the first ten minutes but the magnificent showing they made in that short time was enough to leave the game in doubt until the home team succeeded in making its second touchdown.

O. A. C. won the toss and kicked to Nevada's 15 yd line. On the next play C. Hart, U. of N. got around the end for the longest run made on the local grounds this season—55 yards. After a few plays the ball was worked to O. A. C.'s 15-yd line, but the locals took a wonderful brace and succeeded in getting the ball on downs. The next several plays were of minor importance, Nevada failing in an attempt to make place kick from O. A. C.'s 25-yd line. The ball was then worked back and forth with honors about even, until a Nevada man again got clear and on a fake punt made a 40-yd run to Corvallis' 15-yd line. Here again O. A. C. held the visitors and by superb punting by Capt. Pilkington with perfect support, Nevada could not make yardage and before the spectators knew what had happened the home team had carried the ball to the opponents 25-yd line.

It was here that Corvallis worked like Trojans and by terrific line bucking, using Williams for a battering ram, Nevada was powerless to stay the onslaughts and the ball was worked to U. of N.'s 5-yard line. Now came the prettiest fake play of the season. By a false pass Nevada was completely outwitted, and as a result Williams went around the end for a touchdown. The remainder of the first half was played in the visitors territory and ended with the ball 16 yards from Nevada's goal.

In the second half Nevada kicked to our 25-yard line. Failing to make yardage the ball is O. A. C.'s. "Pilk" next makes a good punt of 40 yards, and again Nevada is held for downs. O. A. C. punts forty yards but Nevada advances ball 25 yards. At this point U. of N. tries a fake play but Pilkington did not feel inclined to let the visitors play that way and as a result Nevada lost yardage. U. of N. is then forced to punt. On the next play Williams wanted to show his sprinting ability and after making a 40-yard run, a Nevada man kindly stopped him lest he didn't know enough to quit running. Ball was then on U. of N.'s 20-yard line. Here O. A. C. was penalized 5 yards. Pilk then tries drop kick but fails. After a succession of plays during which Nevada makes some gains, Williams gets scared again and runs 30 yards to Nevada's 5-yard line before called upon to halt. After a couple of plays Pilk goes over the line, but by accident the ball slips from his grasp and what should have been another touchdown was lost by the fumble.

After several minutes of play Williams is wound up and turned loose again and with the assistance of Pilkington this time they stopped for nothing, as a Nevada man found out when they hit him, and they made a 40-yard run for a touchdown—Pilkington again fails at goal.

Pilk kicks off to Nevada's 10-yard line, who advance ball 25 yards. Nevada loses ball on downs and Williams goes through for 20 yards, and ball was finally worked to visitors' 5-yard line. Here Nevada stole the ball from Bowers and punts 30 yards. Abraham goes through the line for 15 yards. On the next play Williams severs his connection with the rest and trots behind Nevada's goal for the third time. Pilkington made the third failure for a goal.

Nevada made fair gains during the remainder of the game, but darkness made it difficult to watch the ball. The visitors failed in a place kick and the local football season was ended for 1903.

In justice to the Nevada boys we will say that they were completely worn out from the last ten days travel and playing, although from the showing that O. A. C. made it would have worried them to have won had they been in fine shape. The Nevada boys have played three games within a week besides traveling hundreds of miles by rail, which is a strain no team can stand and play winning ball. Their excellent showing with Stanford and Berkeley will vouch for the statement that they are a team hard to excel when in good condition. They are gentlemen in every respect and Corvallis is proud to have had the honor of entertaining such a manly lot of young men as the Reno players prove themselves to be.

Reign of Terror in Blodgett Valley

The citizens of that part of Benton county known as Blodgett Valley, on the road leading from the Arnold farm and running by the Isaac Norton place, have been experiencing a miniature reign of terror for the last four months.

A certain road was laid out by the highway officers, and declared a county road by the county court. On this road a bridge was built, over a ravine or creek. For some unknown reason this bridge failed to be appreciated as it should have been. A threshing machine crew passing that way was warned of danger, and told to examine the bridge before passing over it. Examination showed that some of the timbers had been sawn across. The thrasher was taken through the fields in a round-about way to its destination. The road supervisor cheerfully repaired the bridge. The next incident was the burning of the bridge, so that it was not passable. Then the officers made a fill of logs and brush. This was torn out. Then the county again repaired the bridge. For the second time the bridge was burned. This made the fourth "accident," and the bridge is still impassible. Steps are now being taken, it is said, to have the matter thoroughly investigated.
