AT THE COLLEGE.

Feronians Win Gatch Cup—Baccalaureate Sermon, Etc.

A. C. Sterkle has been secured as football coach for next year. He is considered one of the best in the country. Last year he coached the team at the University of Nevada and did some excellent work. Arrangements are being made to send the team south next winter to play Berkeley and Stanford. This will be a great incentive to work on the part of every man who cares anything for football or the success of the O. A. C. on the gridiron.

Everyone should have a copy of the souvenir Barometer. It contains several dollars worth of pictures, and is well worth the price, 25 cents.

This afternoon at two o'clock, the senior class day exercises will take place on the college campus. Everybody is invited to come out and see the closing out of the senior class work.

Tonight in the Opera House will occur the senior play, "The Rivals." It is a regular thing for the class to give a play at commencement time, and this one will be given by the seniors alone. G. L. Paul has been coaching them and says they are doing splendid work.

Prof. E. R. Lake and wife went to Eugene last Friday.

Saturday afternoon on the old football field in front of Agricultural Hall was played the long-talked-of baseball game between the seniors and faculty. It was quite comical to see some of the dignified professors "limber up" when a "twister" came their way. But the hitch that Prof. Hayward gave his "hind leg" when delivering the ball for a senior to strike at was enough to scare anyone but an '04 man. We all felt sorry for Ellsworth as he stood trembling at the bat with Cate in the pitcher's box. But we all had to laugh when the only case of real, genuine fright in the whole game was exhibited by "Brother" Beaver, who stood petrified with fear and held his hands before his face when a big fly came his way. Up to that time he had been giving commands with a stentorian voice, but afterwards became as meek as a little lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall are visiting at Cauthorn Hall and attending graduation exercises.

The senior pharmacy students took the state examination yesterday. It was the most important event of the year with some of them for they had positions promised them on condition that they passed this examination.

Hon. Geo. H. Durham, of Grant's Pass, will deliver the class address in the Armory Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

FERONIANS WIN GATCH CUP.

The question, Resolved, "That every American boy should receive a military training," was very warmly debated last Saturday evening by the Feronians and Jeffersonians. Florence Adams, Alice Jones and Louise Gilbert composed the Feronian team and Guy E. Moore, R. H. Selleck and A. S. Hall the Jeffersonian team. The Jeffersonians having the affirmative argued that "should" did not mean that every boy would be compelled to take a military training, but that it would be better for him, just as every man should be temperate but all men are not. They said that it did not mean that every man should simply learn how to handle a gun but it included also setting up exercises, etc., and that it would not be necessary to leave home but the boys could gather at some convenient place and drill. They showed how, under the present condition of affairs the nation needed thousands of trained men. They then showed how the personal benefit to each boy was sufficient cause for giving him a thorough military training, for it will give him a square build, a healthy body which can ward off disease, will learn him to obey, and it is the best, cheapest and has the fewest objections of any system of physical development known.

The Feronians argued that the question meant that every boy would be compelled to take a military training and that would be unconstitutional, because it would rob him of his liberty. They said that the United States has a better system of government than the Old World where military training is required, and that it would cost $11,000,000,000 per year to equip and drill the boys of America today. They compared the United States to a boy forming his habits and said that if we formed military habits, like the military nations of old we would reap a military destiny, and that such training as could be given would have to be done over again before the boys would be fit for service.

The decision was given to the Feronians, and they will hold the president's cup for the coming year.

BACCALAUREATE SUNDAY.

Services began Sunday at 10:45 a. m. with an anthem, "Holv, Holy, Lord God Almighty," by a chorus of ladies, followed by the invocation by Rev. A. Carrick. Then came a song by the congregation, scripture reading by Rev. Green, and "I waited for the Lord," a chorus of six ladies. The sermon was delivered by Rev. W. H. Heppie, D. D. of Salem. He took for his text Col. 1:18, and as his theme, "Christ and the New Age." He preached one of the finest sermons ever delivered in Corvallis. After the singing of "Coronation," Rev. Deck pronounced the benediction.

NORMAL SCHOOL,
EUGENE, OREGON
This school will open June 27 and continue for a term of six weeks to August 5. The object of the school is to furnish teachers—and those preparing to teach—an opportunity to study methods and to raise their grade of scholarship. Mr. Dixon has devoted many years to the study of the needs of the grades. He has conducted three summer schools in Wisconsin and is well prepared to help teachers in just what they need in their daily work. Mr. Haroun is president of the Eugene Business College. His work there during the past year has been highly successful. Two other men have been employed to help in the work. Write to F. S. Maroun, Eugene, or W. W. Dixon, Albany, Or., for a circular. Board and tuition reasonable.
