RETALIATION.

"You can lead a horse to wapresent conditions it seems to ments at OAC, the state has to apply to railroad companies. For years the people of various sections of the country complained great that the federal governregulate so nearly as possible the held by the board May 2nd. rates of transportation over the various lines.

As should have been expected, the railroad companies combatted the formation of this commission. But it went into effect just the same. Next we learn from the railroad companies that rendered it almost impossible for their system which they might desire to make. Probably there was some truth in this statement.

The general sentiment of the public against the railroad companies was the outgrowth of the charge that they favored some s uppers at the expense of others, that they aid not, in other words, treat all alike. One man's money is as good as another's and the public took a firm stand against the system of rebates. Passes were also looked upon as practices of bribery, pure and simple. So much for the general public side of the question.

The railroad companies main tained their right to conduct their business as occasion might require. They contended that their method of business was the only proper way and was the outgrowth of years' of experience in their especial line. However, in spite of all they could do the railroad commission came into existance.

Now, as the result of the passare of certain and sundry laws throughout the land we find the ra lroad companies resorting to drastic measures and the temper in evidence indicates retaliation on the public rather than any thing else. On certain lines down and trimming closely every item of expense. There also is a policy against extension of lines where the company is not compelled for business reasons to make such extension. This policy will work a hardship on a large laboring class who followed railroading for a living. It will, likewise, prove detrimental ed 11 games in the league series to the interests of such countries and has won ten of them by large as are yet to be developed and scores. A tour of the whole Midrequire railroads to assist in the lile West next, year is contemwork. In fact, it is within the plated by the team, when some power of the railroad companies to retard the development of new countries.

For the general good there must be regulation of all business -there must be law. The right States. law is the one respected by all better classes of citizens. The contention is not made that the present laws are not fair, but the prediction is made that the time will come when we shall have in effect laws for the regulation of our transportation companies which shall prove satisfactory tor all.

Stole a Gun.

Since the details of the theft of Henry Leibner's team of horses were written up for publication, the information has been obtained that probably the same thief stole a new rifle and two boxes of cartridges from William Wagner, Friday.

Mr. Wagner keeps "batch" on a place belonging to Mrs. James McBee, four miles south of Corvallis and adjoining the Off Wilson place. The house occupied by Mr. Wagner is a mile and a stands back quite a distance from the main road.

A stranger appeared at Mr. Wagner's Friday morning about ten o'clock and asked for breakfast, which was given him. In reply to questions the traveler stated that he hailed from down near Portland and was going out have been looking forward to a to the "mills" to try for a posi-

He says that he is no respector of persons and every owner of an orchard, whether it be large or small, shall have a square deal, but it is necessary for him to see that the law is enforced and have the old orchards cleaned up or destroyed. The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbets was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomack punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stemach, he'd have laughed at him the stemach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the somach is the most vulnerable organ out of he prive ring as well as in it. We protect bur heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the words of the termination of the prive ring as well as in it. We protect bur heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the words of the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Go'den Medical Discovery, and you protect, yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery cures "wesk stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the orpure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.
