"IT HAS MADE A NEW MAN OF HIM." So writes the wife of the Rev. Dr. Staples, of New Canaan, Conn., in a communication to the Methodist Protestant, Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Staples says: "My husband had for the last year and a half been afflicted with that troublesome disease, Malaria, attended also with Catarrh, which was rapidly growing upon him. He was so feeble at the session of our last 'Conference' that he thought a week or two previous he would not be able to attend. He commenced inhaling Compound Oxygen and made his earnest request, the week before 'Conference,' and it is astonishing to see its vitalizing effects. It was almost immediately manifest in an increase of appetite, which had been scarce sufficient to sustain him. He is gradually increasing in strength and vitality. In fact it has made a new man of him."

Our "Treatise on Compound Oxygen," containing a history of the discovery and mode of action of this remarkable curative agent, and a large record of surprising cures in Consumption, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., and a wide range of chronic diseases, will be sent free. Address Dr. J. R. Staples, 1109 and 1111 Girard street, Philadelphia.

All orders for the Compound Oxygen Home Treatment directed to H. E. Mathews, 606 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, will be filled on the same terms as if sent directly to us in Philadelphia.

GERMAN VOTING.

How They Exercise the Elective Franchise in Germany.

A striking feature of the German municipal system is its entire independence of national politics. No issues but those arising out of municipal questions are allowed to influence the city elections. Every male inhabitant twenty-four years old has the right to vote on municipal questions, provided that he has his household and is not dependent on father or mother; that he has not received alms from the public funds within twelve years; that he occupies a house or pursues a trade with two employees; that he pays an income tax or a class tax. Under one or another of these five conditions all industrious persons in the city are included. That he votes should count equally is regarded as unbusiness like. The arrangement adopted to meet this point of view is this: Voters are divided into three classes, each of which elects one-third of the City Council. To the first class are assigned so many of the largest taxpayers as pay one-third of the taxes assessed; to the second as many as in the aggregate pay the second third of the taxes assessed; to the third class belong all not included in the first and second. Each of the three classes elects forty-two members of the Council, its influence upon questions of finance being kept in strict equality with its tax payments. The City Council of Berlin has long been conspicuous for the educational and financial standing of its members. Election to it is accounted an honor to which the ablest men in the city aspire.—Northern Budget.

How Webster Stopped a Leak.

The Cabinet meetings are, you know, always secret. Just off the Cabinet room is the library, and when Webster was Secretary of State it was noticed that the Cabinet meetings were reported in full in certain of the newspapers. Various means were taken to find out who was the leaky member of the Cabinet, but each denied that he had told anything to any one. One day Webster excused himself, and went out into the library, while the others talked as usual. He found he could hear every word uttered within. He came back and said he thought the secrets must have gotten out through a correspondent listening in the library. After this the library was locked during Cabinet sessions, and the reports immediately ceased.—"Carp," in Cleveland Leader.

IT SHOULD BE GENERALLY KNOWN That the multitude of diseases of a scrofulous nature generally proceed from a torpid condition of the liver. The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and work off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blottches, pimples, eruptions, swellings, ulcers, pleurisies, and various afflictions, or sometimes upon the lungs and poisoning their delicate tissues, until ulceration, breaking down, and consumption is established. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will, by acting upon the liver and purifying the blood, cure all these diseases.

THE GAMBLER.

How His Presence in a Community Devastates It.

The gamblers of New York have led a precarious and on the whole a wretched existence for two or three years past. These places have been raided by both the public and private police, and whenever the attitude of the law is decided toward them they read the handwriting on the wall and take a holiday. Perhaps the least self-satisfied countenances to be seen around our hotels and public resorts are the old gamblers who long had complete immunity, and to this day preserve a little hold on the police and even the police justices. Cases are not infrequent of gamblers sitting on our minor benches or being clerks in the courts. Hence a certain latent sympathy in the prosecution of these men and even on their being surprised. The best thing the gambler can do to satisfy himself is to get out of the business altogether. The occasional funds of money he raises by his dangerous and outlawed trade hardly ever stay by him, and a good deal of it goes to the police and lawyers and other parasites who hold vice to be their natural banker and side patron. Our hotels are also often indifferent to the presence of the gambling community right among their guests, and it seems to me to be a poor thing to do with a guest who comes to town with money which he might otherwise spend in the proper office of hospitality, to allow him to be taken in hand by some gambler's ringer-in and escorted to some place in the neighborhood where he can be picked clean and has to draw his check, more or less uncertain, to pay his bill and get speedily out of town.

A sufficient number of gamblers will devastate any territory on the globe. Long Island City, though it is the capital of a county and with the seat of justice, has been kept back notwithstanding long-winded men like Elihu Root. It then began using Warner's SAFE Cure and in a short time passed large stone and a number of smaller ones. Dec. 10th, 1884, Mr. Plympton wrote, "I have no recurrence of my old trouble since Warner's SAFE Cure cured me."
