DEIFIC FORCE.

One eve as I sat pouring o'er,

An ancient tome of mystic lore;

(The Genesis of time to tell)

Into a trance some how I fell.

My soul rose upward in the air.

A breathing pulsate body lay;

That form lay silent as in death.

(A mystery I could not solve)

In perfect harmony to join

Liquids and solids all unite

The acme of a perfect plan-

Oblivious to sentient thought,

I on the wings of fancy flew

To learn the why of all we view

I saw the wonders of the frame

I saw the vital currents dart

And with new impulse start

I saw the pulses quickly beat

And fly with force to every part

Called to the heart to tarry there.

I saw a smile-echo of thought-

I saw the placidness of love,

The pleasing apothegm; and so

I was delighted much to know

My soul elated, yet serene,

Fair I'syche bade me follow her

Still farther on as worshiper,

The granduer of immensity.

The end no nearer than before:

The molicule or the bounding sea,

He keeps them in (without a shock)

Their proper place, by laws intent

Force holds the mystery profound

Keeping all worlds safe in their course

On planets grand, in firmament.

By this one grand deific FORCE.

And thus it is we're made to see

That innate Force is Deity,

Intelligent Force is the God

And everywhere is his abode

Elsewhere as on this earthly ball.

IS IT TRUE?

Creating and sustaining all

And thus in one eternal round

Immortal minds or spirits free,

The subtle gass or granite rock,

I saw that "evil is to good

And saw how intricate the same:

A culmination of design

While all life's forces still move on

External force with one acclaim,

Within the darkness as in light,

To form one body, mortal man,

For one grand purpose all do aim:

And looking back upon the clay, that you are liberal enough to admit of investigation I wish to call your attention to the laws of the physical and spiritual universe as they are called by many theologians who believe in science. Agreeable with their views Likewise the tome fell from my hand spiritual laws are coexistent and coeternal with And lay outspread upon the stand. physical. While the Atheist says there is no Thus, being freed from worldly care God but force, the Deist says there is no force but God. According to the Deist, force could not be without God, nor could it demonstrate itself without matter or organs to act And, save the breathing living breath, upon. Then in accordance with the Athe-The dormant brain no thoughts evolve. istic view there could be no God without force, and a universe. So we infer that God works by ways and means and also that light, heat, magnetism, electricity, and gravitation are counterparts of God. Upon this hypothesis there can be no science without God, neither can there be God without scientific facts to demonstrate it. Also with regard to the corporeal or physical man who is intimately and inseperably connected with the metaphysical or psychical man. From their incipiency they co-operate until dissolution by death, though That proves the planned quite divine sometimes intercepted by idiocy, idiosyncrasy and insanity. SCIENCE AGAIN .- Mr. Editor; being aware

THE MISSISSIPPI SOURCE. - The source of the Mississippi has been discovered again. Capt. Willard Glazier announces that he has discovered a hitherto unknown body of water south of Lake Itasca, which he says is the trae the source of the river, long supposed to be Itasca lake, was "moved on" some years ago to Turtle lake; and now Capt. Glazier asserts that he has discovered the true source "In the unfrequented region between Leech lake and Red river, not less than one entire degree of latitude south of Turtle lake," and that this newly discovered body of water is not less than three feet higher than the level of Lake Itasca. In some quarters the alleged discovery is ridiculed, and "Glazier lake" is classed with "Jones river."-Oregonian.
