The Time to Sleep.

Another important hygienic rule is never to thwart that advance guard of sleep-the drowsy impulse, which in healthy individuals will be found to occur about the same hour each night At its approach the individual should invariably take himself to rest, nor should he tarry until this drowsiness verges on unconsciousness, but at the very first intimation of brain weariness he should seek to assume a horizontal position as quickly as possible of this rule be scrupulously maintained it will usually be found that sleep supervenes almost as the head touches the philow, if there has been no previous abuse of the pleasures of the table if however, there has been gor mandizing and abuse of wine shortly be fore retiring the aspirant for bonors in the arena of cerebral combat must not be surprised if he be subjected to all the in conveniences of semi consciousness total aubility to sleep, or sleep in which all the terrors of nightmare are unrolled before the irritated imagination - Dr. J. How a Woman Is Won.

Good looks cut a small figure in love making ed acre plays no part at all in youth Cople have to get old before they become sordid and then love has taken wings A man may have a voice like an unbinged barn door, a nose like a cucumber a foot like a tiddle box, hands like hams teeth like a step ladder, eyes like a jay's and a mouth like a cellar door. and if he sues judiciously no arrows of misfortune can keep the wreath from his brow provided he keeps clean shaven. clean linen and a clean mouth He may be attenuated to the very verge of emaciation or be elephantine in movements and dimensions but perfumed with the scent of fresh linen and possessed of wit enough to use his tongue, he may win any woman whom he studies with care .-

American Good Nature.

"What was the temper of America before the year 170 2" was a question put to Benjamin Franken in the house of commons. "The best in the world," was the prompt reply. They submit willingly," he went on to add. "to the crown, and cast it little for keeping them in order. They were governed at the expense of only a little pen. ink and paper; they were led by a thread." The temper of the American people, although severely ruf-fied for a time toward Great Britain, be came, as soon as the temporary irritation ceased in independence, "the best in the world," and the best in the world it continues to this day. In no respect is this good temper more conspicuously shown than in submitting to personal inconvenience.

The Frenchman will smirk and bow; and forthwith he is is in a frenzy, with the guns unlimbered on the boulevards and grapeshot sweeping public squares. The German, during the funeral of the late emperor, to cite no other instance, was so exasperated by the dogged conduct of the military police that he got himself ridden down by cavalry hoofs and carried in latoons to the station houses. The Eng ishman, although a respecter of laws and ordinances by habit, is surly and gruff under the slightest personal discomfort, and shows his selfishness in street crowds, on railway trains, and on steamboats, with little regard for women, children, and other dependents on man's chivalry American good temper is part of the na tional philosophy. It is the economy of nerve power. The good tempered man nerve power. The good tempered man saves not only his sensibilities from fruitless rasping, but his soul from wrath, and generally his body from blows. It requires fewer policemen to keep a public assembly of Americans in order than any other body of people in the world .- Chi cago Tribune

People of the Teche Country.

There are in some parts of the Teche land settlements where a fascinating and unique people dwell, so closely united, so materially independent of the outside world that they are almost like tribal communities. The climate has done al most its genial best for these people They know nothing of books or literature. they never have heard of any of the ologies and isms that percolate brains elsewhere, but they live close to nature. They produce absolutely everything they use or cat. They make pretty pictures in their simple little homes, pictures that ap peal to one as a barn yard scene on can vas, or the suggested coziness of a Dutch interior painted by a great master appeals. rather than the representation of a wizen Faust nosing over tomes in his dim laboratory.

The great truth of life for these is to live and to love, to dwell in comfort with many children, to fear God and to obey the priest, to die confessed and absolved. to lie shrived in the sweet little church and afterwards to sleep under the purple gorse and passion vines in the grass green cometeries; this is life's truth and mis sion for these simple folk. This history of such a home, the convincing proof of its existence, is the best immigration do cument any parish can put forth. We want nothing better, more moral, more progressive than immigrants striving to earn sweet homes; for these will bring with them the manufacturer and the business man, planting industries that shall yield good harvests of work and prosperity .- Catharine Cole in New Or eans Picayune.

THE HISTOGENETIC MEDICINES

Bring Health and Happiness to Gladden Many Hearts.

SEATTLE, WASH., December 11, 1890. Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, Seattle, Wash .- DRAR Sia : One year ago last October my little girl was vaccinated against my wishes. Her arm was inflamed for seven weeks. After that her head broke out in terrible sores, discharging pus and never healing until spring. She had such terrible pain in her head that it drove her almostiusane. In August she received a fall which made her much worse, and she was taken with spinal meningitis in its worst form. She grew constantly worse, and the doctors could do nothing for her. She was just about dying, perfectly speechless, almost blind and suffering intense agony. We had given up all hope, and would have been glad to see her die to end her terrible suffering, when, hearing through Mrs. McDougaid of Dr. Jordan, we sent for you. When you came, about 9 o'clock in the evening, you said she was as low as a child could possibly be and be alive, but that the Histogenetic Medicines, if used according to directions, would cure her. We began giving her the medicines at 10 o'clock the same evening, and she never had a paroxysm after that. Previous to this the spasms would come on about this time in the evening and con-tinue without intermission until 4 in the morn-ing, during which time we had to hold her in red to keep her from injuring herself. When the straggle was over, she would lie more like a corpse than a living child. As you said would be the case, the cure was slow, but sure, and she is now perfectly well. I cannot sufficiently ex-press my gratitude to you for what the Histo-gene ic Medi lines have done for our child. I remain very slowerely. We began giving her the medicines at 10 o'clock
