THE CHICAGO FIRE.

It is quite remarkable how of late years the public fancy has turned towards pictures; within the last decade, newspaper after newspaper has been compelled to illustrate their publications daily. There is a wide-spread desire to see. A book without illustrations is like roast turkey without the "fixings"—rather uninviting and not altogether palatable. For years back the great artists have turned their attention to the illustrating of history, and they have done more to give people an idea of how great battles were fought than any description of them could ever have done. The last great effort to pictorially represent any historical event is the Cyclorama of the burning of Chicago. This is said to be by far the most difficult subject ever attempted, and it was thought by many to be impossible to faithfully portray. If one may judge from the glowing accounts given of this great scene by the Chicago press, it must be the most remarkable production in the realm of art. The effects produced are startlingly realistic and faithfully show the situation in Chicago when the great fire was at its height. This unique and remarkable exhibition is attracting a great deal of attention in the World's Fair City. It is housed in elegant quarters on Michigan Avenue, between Madison and Monroe, and will remain in Chicago until after the World's Fair.

The mile bicycle record was last week lowered from 2:14 1/2 to 2:11. This is considered wonderful time inasmuch as the start was made from the standstill. They will get it down "as fast as a horse can trot" pretty soon.

Congress has at last adjourned, though with little or nothing to its credit. During its eight months session it has done nothing to commend it to the people, yet it has gained great publicity by its enormous expenditure of money.

A thief entered the residence of J. H. Cradlebaugh, editor of the Hood River Glacier, not long since, during the family's absence but after making a thorough search, left without tapping the vault. The thief made a great mistake by not enquiring into Mr. Cradlebaugh's business, for had he learned that he was an editor he would not have gone to the trouble of breaking a lock.

A few days ago the Review, of Spokane, was sued for libel. This seemed to please the Chronicle, of Spokane, greatly. But the richest part of the joke is the fact that suit has been brought against the Chronicle for publishing the same article, though the item was originally telegraphed to the Review, and was stolen by the Chronicle the following afternoon. This is believed to be the first case on record where a newspaper has stolen a libel suit. However, to the Chronicle it is not so funny as it "used to be."

SPECIAL MEETING OF COUNCIL. The town council of Heppner met in special session, last Friday evening, Aug. 5, 1892, for the purpose of canvassing the vote on the proposition to bond the town, and to pass ordinance No. 50, (contract ordinance.) Mayor Matlock presided. In the absence of Recorder Roberts, Otis Patterson was chosen as acting recorder. On roll being called, the following councilmen were noted present: Garrigue, Gilliam, Lichtenthal, Farnsworth, Morgan and Patterson. The committee on elections, Morgan, Garrigue and Gilliam, then proceeded to canvass the vote, and made a report, of which the following is substantially a copy: In the matter of canvassing the returns of the special election to vote bonds in the sum of $15,000, held August 4, 1892, in the town of Heppner, Oregon: We, your committee, have examined the returns and find them correct, for and against:

S. P. GARRIGUES, Election Com. FRANK MORGAN, THOM GILLIAM. Attest: OTIS PATTERSON, Acting Recorder. Dated this 5th day of Aug., 1892. On motion of Farnsworth, seconded by Lichtenthal, the report of the committee was adopted. On motion of Farnsworth, seconded by Garrigue, the well machinery and lot was turned over to Mr. H. V. Gates. Ordinance No. 50 was then taken up and passed the second reading by title. On motion of Gilliam, seconded by Lichtenthal, this action was sanctioned. On motion of Garrigue, seconded by Farnsworth, Ordinance No. 50 was put up on its final reading by sections, and each adopted unanimously by the "yeas" and "nays," on motions of Morgan, seconded by Farnsworth. (Ordinance No. 50 appears on page 1.) Mr. Gates further agrees to furnish water, grates, for public watering troughs, but this part of the contract will be legalized by ordinance at some future meeting. Council then adjourned.

RAIL ROAD NOTES. From the Wasco Sun. Conductor Bennett is on the Heppner run. He will be here for about thirty days as Conductor French has taken a thirty days' leave of absence. Engineer Patterson went to Portland last week to have the skin of the wild cat he killed stuffed and mounted and articles of jewelry made out of the claws of the bear he killed. He is going to send them to his friends in Chicago. B. W. Carrington, formerly on Heppner run, and at one time an engineer out of La Grande, went to Portland last Monday to show his patent safety indicator to the U. P. officers. It is one of the most sensitive arrangements yet invented to aid conductors and engineers to keep in mind trains to be met and passed and work to be done at stations. It shows at a glance what is to be done for an entire trip. Conductor French and family and Mr. Burlingame and Mrs. Francisco, of Ten Dalles, started Tuesday, Aug. 24, for a month's recreation in the mountains southeast of Heppner. Mr. French worked hard Monday rigging up a wagon for the trip and when he got through he looked like a cross between a prairie schooner and an air ship. His friends met Monday night and labeled the wagon as follows: "On the way back to good old Missouri." "We'll show at the world's fair." "Going back to see our old home and friends in the good old ship in which we came."

TEEL SPRING NEWS.

To the Heppner Gazette. As you are all anxious to hear from the springs, I will send you a short letter. There is now a jolly crowd here of over 300 people. One of the most pleasant events here is the every night dance until 12 o'clock, when everyone goes to their home or rather to their tents for sleep, and at 8 o'clock next morning they are ready to eat everything in sight.

Almost every part of the country is now represented here, in fact the crowd is from everywhere. Among the crowd may be seen persons from Portland, Pendleton, Heppner, Albia, Grand Ronde valley, Boise City, and still they are coming.

There is every kind of amusement here one could ask for, and I assure you your humble writer is having a way up time. Some of the Heppner boys are a little bit short of cash, so will start home today. They do say that the boys play "out of sight" up here. Gene Noble is strictly in it, and seems to be thoroughly enjoying himself.

The Gazette is at a premium here, and when any mail comes in there is an effort to see who can get it first. Well, as this is enough for this time, I close, assuring you that I am as ever, Yours, "FOXY."

TEEL SPRINGS, Aug. 4, '92.

The World Enriched. The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasurable and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

SHOULD PROTECT BADGERS, SKUNKS AND WILDCATS. In conversation with one of our enterprising farmers the other day, the News man was informed that Grant county, instead of offering a bounty on squirrel scalps—why Morrow county tried and found ruinous—should protect badgers, skunks, wildcats, and even coyotes, by making it a misdemeanor to kill them. These animals are all great destroyers of squirrels, and before their wanton destruction become so common the farmer's grain fields and gardens grew un molested. Now if they are destroyed it is the farmer's own fault, for he has been instrumental in the death of the animals that destroyed thousands of squirrels every year. This farmer also said that he had often met his neighbors, who would boast of having just been instrumental in the ignominious death of some unoffending badger or skunk, and who in the next breath would whine about the squirrels eating their crops, and pay them for killing. Farmers and sheepmen, protect the badgers and skunks, as well as other useful animals. They will not be apt to eat your chickens while squirrels are plenty.—Canyon News.

A Reward of $500 Will be paid for any Case of Rheumatism which cannot be cured by Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. This offer is made in good faith by the proprietors, and there is no reasonable excuse for anyone to suffer longer. Where is the "We?" Exchange: The democrat and the republican were sitting on the fence talking politics in a neighborly fashion. "Well, I'm in favor of tariff for revenue only," said the democrat. "And that means," said the republican, "a general reduction of duties on imports." "Certainly," "To be followed by a larger importation of foreign-made cheap goods?" "Of course, and what we are after are lower prices." "Of course, and lower prices will result in a decreased demand for our home products?" "Naturally, yes."

"And that means closing American workshops and sending workmen to the farms?" "Well, haven't we millions of acres of the best land in the world?" "Sure; and when all the workmen get to be farmers the increased supply of farm products, with no factory hands to buy the stuff, will push prices down to the starvation point, and the farmers will have to quit the business." "But we shall have lower prices." "Who is 'we'?" asked the republican, plump to the point. "With the working men in factories turned to farmers, and the farmers starved and mortgaged out of existence, what have you got left to compose your 'we' to whom low prices will be such a benefit?"

The democrat asked for time to look up the record and find out where the 'we' was. How it Works in England. E. O. Republican: For fifty years it has been the unpardonable sin in England to question the beauties of free trade. Even now Lord Salisbury says, in his recent speech, at Hastings, I shall expect to be excommunicated for propounding such a doctrine, namely, that the free trade theory may be noble but it is not business like. He clearly proves that it is the cause of the commercial depression in England; for he says: "Fifty years ago everybody believed that free trade had conquered the world but now despite the prophecies of free trade advocates, foreign nations are adopting protection. They are excluding us from their markets and are trying to kill our trade. And this state of things appears to grow worse. Under our free trade laws we have no redress. It is a great admission for the Prime Minister of Great Britain to make, yet every word is true. The English workman sees that the protective tariff here has closed many of their works in Great Britain, has established new works in this country by the hundreds, has built up new and important industries in a single year; transferring as it by a magician's wand great establishments with skilled workmen and costly machinery across the ocean and in countless ways has stimulated business here while free trade depresses business in England. It is a great speech. Read it you American free traders.

It May Be So. Telegram: The editor of the Pendleton East Oregonian, Dem., says he is "a free-trade democrat," yet he believes the McKinley law "has made wages higher, made trade freer, and was a short step of legislation in the direction of ultimate free trade." He wants to "go farther in the same direction." Since he believes that a high protective tariff and free trade are the same, he should vote and work for Harrison, McKinley, Carnegie and Pinkerton. The democrats will not give him free trade, and if he gets it under McKinleyism, he should not want any change.
