

WOMEN'S PERCALE AND GINGHAM TUB SUITS

Such a scurrying out they made last season. It seems impossible to get enough of these great serviceable piece dresses. They are cut very simply indeed, from washable gingham. The Princess and Empire effects being strongly shown making them admirable for marketing household or plain business wear. Color harmony in beautiful blendings of different colors shaded from low tones to deeper hues, is one of the artistic tendencies of the season.

Death of Mrs. French.

Mrs. W. H. French died at her home, 10 miles south of Hardman, last Sunday, April 25, and her remains were laid to rest in the family cemetery at Reedville, 12 miles south of Portland, on Tuesday, April 26. The corpse, which was shipped from here on Monday morning's train, was accompanied by the father and the sister of the deceased, and by her two small children, a girl of six and a boy of two years. The husband, W. H. French, who is an extensive land owner and stockraiser, has been confined to his house and to his bed most of the time for the past month with a serious attack of rheumatism, and had to endure the additional anguish of being unable to attend the funeral of his beloved wife.

Mrs. French was 32 years, eight months and six days old, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. York, of Reedville, Oregon. She accompanied her husband to Morrow county about six years ago, and was distinguished among her neighbors and acquaintances as a woman of an exceptionally noble character and lovable disposition—a model wife and a most tender mother. Her sickness, caused primarily by gripper, was of brief duration, and a happy home was transformed into an abode of grief-stricken desolation.

Mr. and Mrs. French and their two babes were very happy, prosperous and contented in their cozy mountain home, but death's grim reaper has made a different picture there today. The heart of the community throbs with deep sympathy for the bereaved husband and his motherless little ones, the latter of whom, for the present, will make their home with their grand parents at Reedville. The messenger of death is merciless and indiscriminating in his selections, but his visitations are particularly heart rending when a home is invaded and the tender wife and mother of small children is taken therefrom. She has, however, left to her loved ones a rich heritage, in the memory of her pure and unselfish life, filled with kind deeds and loving words, and in these tender memories they may gather balm for their wounded hearts.

Would Take Chances.

Mr. Philanthropist was passing a bakery when he observed a little girl gazing with longing eyes at some cakes displayed in the window. The youngster's wistful gaze was too much for Mr. Philanthropist, so he took immediate measures to satisfy her longing.

When she had in short order disposed of a rich bit of pastry she calmly asked for another.
 "I should like very much to give you another," said the kindly man, "but I'm afraid it would make you sick."
 "Get it for me anyhow," quickly responded the little girl. "I can git all the medicine I need at the dispensary for nuttin'!"—New York Herald.

A Dangerous Place.

The two tramps had been particularly lucky, and, having funds in hand, they discussed plans for the night's shelter. "We can sleep under a roof if we like," said Higgins.
 "Sure we can," responded Higgins, "but some way these lodging houses make me nervous. Supposing a fire was to break out in the night?"
 "You've got it right," agreed Higgins dolefully. "It's no place for us. They'd turn the hose on us in a minute!"—Youth's Companion.

Scorched.

Mr. Crimsoenbeak—What in the world is the matter with this shirt? Mrs. Crimsoenbeak—Oh, I guess the girl boiled it a little too long, dear; that's all. Mr. Crimsoenbeak—Looks to me as if she had fried it.—Yonkers Statesman.

Lacking Warmth.

"The critics all say that my pictures lack warmth."
 "Do you work in oils?"
 "Yes."
 "Then why not paint in a few oil stoves?"—New York Times.

The Bedouin's Bed.

An interesting patient at the medical mission at Haifa, Palestine, is alluded to in the annual report of the S. P. C. K. Dr. Coles writes: "During the year we have had many patients from very desolate parts of Asia. One was a Bedouin who had never been inside of a house with windows and had never seen a bedstead. He wanted to sleep under the bed, fearing to fall off if he tried to sleep in it, saying, 'I can't stay awake all night holding on to this bank. Besides, it will not keep still!' It was a spring mattress.

MONEY FOR OUR HOME PEOPLE

We believe that the people who deposit their money at home should have the benefit of it.

We believe in taking care of home interests always.

The farmer who has necessities to buy for the winter and wishes to hold his crop for better prices should be taken care of by his home bank. The merchant who wants money to take advantage of low prices should be able to enlist his home bank in his enterprise. The man who desires to purchase a home, a farm to advance his business interests should feel free to call upon his home bank for whatever help he wants.

This bank adheres strictly to the above principles. The money deposited with us by the people will be employed to supply home demand.

We do not believe in buying foreign paper and then be compelled to refuse our home people when they require a loan. Our policy is to be able at all times to give the people such service as satisfies their demands.

Give your business to your home bank. Your home bank will do many favors for you, your friend and neighbors.
