Coxey who marched to Washington some years ago with an army of unemployed is now riding in an automobile.

The rains that fell the fore part of the week while too late to help in some sections, will greatly benefit the hay crop and late sown grain. It will also help fall wheat to fill.

It is reported that Harriman is considering the plan of making a park of the Union Pacific right of way for a distance of 2000 miles, by planting trees and alfalfa. The plan is not entirely for the beauty that would result, but also to aid against drifting sands and wash-outs. The Heppner branch would be a good place to start this work. Fine, indeed.

According to a report to the State Tubercular Board, the number of cases of tuberculosis in Oregon is about 5000, that 504 died from the disease last year, 457 in 1907, and 670 in 1906. It says the same conditions exist in other states only to a more alarming degree, that Oregon is especially favored in climate and that it has a smaller percentage of cases of consumption in proportion to population than other states.

Judge R. R. Butler, of Condon, who delivered the oration here on the Fourth, spoke here once before in the last political campaign. All who heard him previously were anxious to hear him again, and those who had not heard him are glad they were here to hear the brilliant young orator. Judge Butler is certainly a gifted man. In manner of delivery, originality of grand thought, sentiment and expression he hasn't an equal on the Pacific Coast today. In fact, he is in a class by himself. The address was one of the features of the celebration. Born down in old Tennessee only 27 years ago, R. R. Butler is the youngest circuit judge in the west, if not in the United States. He is the grandson of R. R. Butler of Tennessee, who ably represented his state in Congress for 29 years.

By far the largest flag in the world was hoisted to the breeze July 4th between the Alleghany County courthouse steeple and the Frick building. It is 180 feet long, 90 feet wide and is suspended from a two inch steel cable, one end of which is fastened around the courthouse steeple, and the other passing through the massive Frick building. When unfurled the flag reaches within two stories of the ground and it is estimated that a wind of 12 miles an hour will put a pressure of 60 tons on the steel cable which holds it. Instead of but one flag being unfurled there were really 501 of them, as at the top of the great flag there were 500 smaller ones arranged so that with the dropping of the great flag they too unfurled.

REVENUE RESTRICTIONS ON DEADLY WEAPONS.

Thomas U. Sisson, of Mississippi, believes that deadly weapons, pistols, dirks and guns are excellent game for the revenue collector. He has submitted an amendment to the Payne bill to that effect, which we may or may not hear from, with the emphasis of probability on the "may not."

By reason of its novelty the Sisson proposition will be considered freakish. It involves a revenue stamp tax of $2 each on all weapons manufactured, with an additional ad valorem of 25 per cent and a charge of one-tenth of one cent on all cartridges of twenty-two caliber or less, and one-fifth of one cent on all cartridges of greater caliber. The list of deadly weapons specifically covers "all pistols, dirk knives, bowie knives, sword canes, stiletos, brass or metallic knuckles, and all other instruments commonly known as deadly weapons, which it is a violation of the law to carry concealed."

A drastic measure, but not without reason from one who lives in Mississippi. Nor, putting the novelty aside, is it without reason from the viewpoint of sober-minded people who reside in any other state. The principle involved is good, whether the proposed application be practicable or not. It is identical with the principle by which a tax is levied upon intoxicants and tobacco. It is a tax upon what is either an evil or a luxury. This is clear as Congressman Sisson puts it in alternative fashion: "Let us tax pistols, not plows. Let us tax dirk knives, not disc harrows. Let us tax cartridges, not corn planters." There is the sign of wholesome but unavailing statesmanship in all this.—Exchange.

While the crowd was not as large as was expected, everybody had a good time at Heppner's Fourth of July celebration.

A man near Milton sold this year 275 crates of strawberries off of 1 1/2 acres, receiving $2.75 per crate. Until this year he had just 1 1/2 acres of berries in, and he says that in three years he has received $1700 from the sale strawberries, leaving plenty for home consumption.

School Notes.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—

On June 28-29, the writer attended the annual convention of county superintendents at Salem. Thirty superintendents were present. Several important topics were discussed. It was the unanimous opinion of those present that the annual convention is of great value to the superintendents and that every year will add to its helpfulness.

After the adjournment of the convention, nearly all the superintendents went to Albany to attend the state teachers' association. A large number of teachers and superintendents was in attendance. The lectures and addresses were exceptionally good. Altogether, the meeting was a pronounced success.

On Monday, the writer visited the school in District No. 42. A new blackboard has been added recently. The work of the school is moving along nicely. The work in writing and spelling deserves especial mention.

On Tuesday, the writer visited the school in District No. 3. Here pupils and teacher were working enthusiastically. The effects of the celebration had not continued as it often does, to the detriment of the school work. It shows that pupils are interested in their work when they at once resume hard work after a festive occasion. It might be interesting to our eastern friends to know that it was necessary to have a good fire to make the pupils comfortable.
