

CHICKEN RAISING.

By Rev. E. F. Warren.

Is there money in the poultry business? Yes and no. This, like every other enterprise depends on how run. Many people have been in it to their sorrow. Don't undertake it blindly. You might say, eggs are always in demand at good prices and no danger of over-stocking the market. Fowls are ready sale at any time of the year, therefore there is money in the business.

The intention of the fowl is to pick up the waste around the premises, and like people, they need some room, plenty of fresh air, and an abundance of pure, clean water. When shut up in close quarters they become diseased, more expensive and less profitable. I know numbers of persons who have gone into the business by putting money into extensive buildings, incubators and blooded stock. In a short time they were out and disgusted with themselves and the whole thing.

This scribe speaks somewhat from experience. My advice is don't plunge into it on a large scale at first, or depend on it solely for livelihood, but take on as a side issue. Give plenty of room, fresh water, green feed, alfalfa in winter, corn along with wheat, occasionally oats. The above is for laying hens. The common kinds are profitable as any for eggs. I prefer the White Leghorn for laying, and the Plymouth Rock for table use. Keep a few blooded fowls from which to raise and replenish your stock. If you wish to raise fowls for the market use an incubator. Hatch any time of the year. Have a good warm place for your young birds. Keep young turkeys on a dry floor for a month or more and then you will have no trouble in raising them. Ducks can be successfully grown by keeping up in close pens on dry ground. Turn them out late in the afternoon for a little exercise, but shut up at night. They only need water for drinking purposes. Build cheap, but comfortable houses. Keep thoroughly clean. Whitewash perches often with lime to keep off vermin and disease. Don't keep old fowls for laying, or allow them to get too fat. Have sheds with plenty of straw for exercise in winter. Scatter grain and let them scratch. Give crushed bone, coarse sand or gravel. Remember chickens especially need a great deal of attention and care. There is money in it.

School Notes.

By S. E. NOTSON, Co. Supt.

On the 8th inst., I visited the school in District No. 8. Mr. E. H. Hedrick teaches here. The pupils were very orderly and attentive to their work, and all seemed to be making good progress. I noted some excellent work in phonics. There is some talk of a new schoolhouse in this district.

The next day I visited the school in Joint District No. 39, where I found Mr. G. R. Huff and eight pupils making good use of the time. Since my former visit, a new porch has been built and the grounds surrounded by a good woven wire fence. Each window is provided with a board for ventilation. This school has been giving some attention to debating. The teacher and pupils have also taken an active part in the literary society which meets at the schoolhouse.

The day following, I visited the school at Castle Rock. Prof. J. A. Gibbons is in charge of this school. This school has the best library to be found in any rural school in the county. An excellent sectional bookcase is provided for the books. On the walls are found several neatly framed pictures, among them a picture of Washington and the pictures of the three martyr presidents. The windows are provided with new shades. The outbuildings are excellent and are kept in first class condition. The pupils seemed to be taking a lively interest in their work.

DO IT NOW

Heppner People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from headaches, back-ache, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

Mrs. G. W. Thomas, of Heppner Ore., says: "A member of our family used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them very effective in bringing relief from caused by disordered kidneys. This remedy is worthy of indorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
