The case was again brought before the court, on a writ of riview, and yesterday the court affirmed its former decision and judgment. This will fully settle the right of a man to recover from agambler after he has been "robbed." The other case settled yesterday is one of yet greater importance to business men. It denies the right of a money in dotter to exact an exorbibait amount from the borrower, even by contract, in case of a suit for the collection of money, to pay attorney's fees.
