The British bark Marion King is chartered to load wheat, flour or salmon at Astoria. She will reach here about the middle of May from Rio.

From the Hon. Joseph Nimitz, Jr., we have received a copy of his annual report on the foreign commerce of the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1890.

The stockholders of the Olympic gymnasium will meet at the office of Hon. C. W. Fulton to-morrow (Wednesday) evening at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing and electing officers.

We are indebted to Messrs. Thayer & Lincoln for copies of the proceedings of the National convention of ship owning and other commercial bodies, held in Boston last October, and for the address on free ships, delivered before that convention by Mr. Wm. H. Lincoln.

One of the advantages pertaining to the new method of engraving by electricity, an electric pen having been invented for the purpose in Paris; is that the artist does all parts of his work, and with no more trouble than if working with an ordinary pencil, and he can even operate in a dark room, with no other light than the glare from the induction spark. If a sheet of tissue paper with a sketch upon it is attached to a plate of copper or zinc, it is said that an engraving may be made with extraordinary facility by aid of the electric-pen engraver.

Mrs. Derby finds that she will be compelled soon to put unpaid bills of long standing, overdue her, into hands of an attorney for collection. She is in need of money and respectfully invites all to call and settle their accounts as soon as possible.

Fresh smelt, first of the season at Warren & Eaton's.

A wonderful discovery, Kendall's Spavin Cure. Read Advertisement.

The Doomed Crew.
The sea gives up its dead, and the certainty is now fully established that not a soul survived the loss of the Lugata, one week ago last night; off Tillamook head. At low tide last Sunday Mr. Cloutrie, the Sea-side mail carrier, passed under the cliff of Tillamook head and there found the ghastly remains of twelve men. Five in one heap, and seven in another. They were all divested of clothing, and the probability is that before leaving the vessel they prepared to take the best advantages possible of the last chance of saving their lives. But alas, the place where they came in was the most forbidding spot along the whole coast, an almost perpendicular cliff of rock, against which possibly, if living to reach it; they were dashed to death or perished in their futile attempts to get away. The wreck is not in sight from the place where Mr. Cloutrie found the bodies. Our informant, Mr. Grimes, says the vessel lay about one mile from the head, and one mile from the light-house rock. The bodies will be given Christian burial, and a sharp look out will be kept for the others. The vessel is supposed, from all information which we have; to have carried fourteen men besides Capt. Ravens and his wife. Capt. Irven was not in command. It is most assuredly a very sorry incident with which to begin the new year, and we hope we may never be called up to chronicle a parallel to it.

Our Bulk Exports.
Before the days of elevators the great bulk of exports of breadstuffs from the Atlantic seaboard consisted of flour, since then, however, the exports have been mainly in grain. But lately the exports of flour have shown a larger relative increase than grain, because of the improvement in milling and the increased use of sacks in place of barrels. Minneapolis takes the lead in the flour interest. During the month of November the purchases of wheat by the millers of Minneapolis exceeded the receipts of wheat at any other primary wheat market in the United States except Chicago. It is evident that the time is fast approaching when Europe will receive the surplus product of America's wheat fields only in the shape of flour. Some of the largest mills of Minneapolis have the facilities for turning out as high as 4000 barrels per day. The largest mill in Europe has a daily capacity of but 2,800 barrels, and none of the European mills are fitted with the perfection of modern machinery used in the Minneapolis mills, lately described in THE ASTORIAN.

A Possible Customer.
Mr. Seeborn, in an interesting book recounting his recent experiences in Siberia, says that birds go to the Arctic regions to breed, not by thousands, but by millions; and he tells us that the cause of this migration is the search after food, which is there provided for them with lavish prodigality. Seed eating birds find an immediate and abundant supply of cranberries, crowberries and other ground fruit, which have remained frozen during the long winter and are accessible the moment the snow is melted; while insect eating birds have only to open their mouths in order to have them filled. The fact appears to be developing, that Siberia has been a greatly underrated territory. It is no colder than Canada, and much more fertile. It is said that the United States might successfully cultivate an important trade with it. It needs many things that we produce, and no other country lies so convenient to it as the United States. Its vast rivers empty themselves into our Pacific, and through them goods can be conveyed into all parts of the interior of the country, as readily as to Alaska.

Attention No. 1.
Regular monthly meeting this evening at 7 o'clock sharp. L. E. Smith, Secretary.

A Millionaires Visit.
Hon. Charles Crocker, of the Central and Southern Pacific railways, last month visited the old stamping grounds, "where we were poor together," in Hoosierdom. The Mishawaka Enterprise thus refers to the visit:
Chas. Crocker, the California millionaire, whose wealth is estimated at the modest figures of from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000, was in town Sunday for a short time, having stopped off to visit South Bend relatives, on his way through the country by special car. The site of Mishawaka, where he used to drive an ox team, work at the forge, and toil for his daily bread like an ordinary mortal, must have aroused strange recollections in the mind of a man who now ranks himself among the wealthiest men of the world. He had, however, not forgotten some of his old friends, it appears; for he stopped and spoke to not a few of them.

Some idea of the amount of money which is annually taken out of the country by foreign ship-owners for performing our carrying trade may be gathered from the statistics of exports and imports. Thus during the fiscal year the exports to foreign countries amounted to $825,956,353, an increase of $125,005,563 over the previous year; but while this great increase is noted, our participation in the carrying trade has diminished, having been less in the late fiscal year than in any which preceded it. In 1877-78 the percentage of American tonnage in the carrying trade was 26; in 1879-80 it was but 19. The returns of steam tonnage are still more significant. In 1877-78 the percentage was 21, while the past year it has fallen to 16. Nearly five-sixths in value of our foreign trade during the last fiscal year was carried on under other flags than our own. There ought to be statesmanship enough in this country not only to arrest this encroachment of foreign shipping upon our carrying trade, but to devise ways and means for a new growth of our merchant marine. As the case now stand, we pay into the pockets of foreign ship-owners annually well on toward $100,000,000.
