STRENGTH

to vigorously push a business, strength to study a profession, strength to regulate a household, strength to do a day's labor without physical pain. All this represents what is wanted, in the often heard expression, "Oh! I wish I had the strength!"

During the war I was injured in the stomach by a piece of shell, and for over two years suffered from indigestion, and for over two years could not eat solid food and for a large portion of the time was unable to retain even liquid nourishment. I tried Brown's Iron Bitters and after taking two bottles I am able to get up and around and am rapidly improving.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is a complete and sure remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Weakness and all diseases requiring a true, reliable, non-alcoholic tonic. It enriches the blood, gives new life to the muscles and tone to the nerves.

ONE OF THE OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE REMEDIES IN THE WORLD FOR THE CURE OF Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Croup, and Every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS AND CHEST, INCLUDING CONSUMPTION.

A WELL-KNOWN PHYSICIAN WRITES: "It does not cure a cough, and have the child, as in the case with most preparations, but tonics it, cleanses the lungs and allays irritation thus removing the cause of complaint."

JOHN HOBSON.

Another Balloon Experiment.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has the following item respecting M. Gentil, the inventor of the balloon, of which our Western contemporaries have lately had considerable to say: M. Gentil was a medical practitioner in France, but owing to political reasons he came to America in 1822, and settled in St. Louis as a locksmith. It has been his life dream to make an air ship, and he has constructed four different machines, each susceptible of improvement. The final effort is a cigar-shaped balloon, with gas compartments, a rudder at the thick end, and screw shaped sails at each side to raise or lower the altitude. He claims that he can steer his air ship at will, work his pinions, and raise her when the lifting power of the gas is exhausted. The whole is enclosed in a network, from which depends the car supported by a series of guys, ropes, stays and gaskets, having the look and gearing of the main deck and bulwarks of a full-rigged ship. The model is suspended from the ceiling of his little shop in St. Louis, and is his idol. "It is for the scientific public," M. Gentil said, "the work of my life; and shall I, then, prostitute my grand work by putting it upon exhibition at ten cents a head like a stuffed whale or petrified hog? I want no money. I give it to the people, and I am happy."

Plenty of Land Yet.

Some will tell you that all the really valuable western lands have long since been taken up, and that only rocks and arid deserts remain; others, that after the completion of the Pacific railroads there will be only a few branch lines left to be built in the far west; others that the mines of the Rocky Mountains will soon be exhausted, and that when they fail we shall see that region deserted. Such is the language of the croaker. The disappointed man who failed in the west, as he would have done everywhere, of the eastern man who thinks civilization is bounded by the Mississippi. But if you have lived in these regions, or visited them, you will believe that never at any time in the history of our country have her prospects for rapid growth and continued prosperity been any better than at the present. Good lands are everywhere, and new regions not only opened up, but others discovered to be valuable for some purpose, while the ever-growing network of iron bands binds the whole country in a closer union.

Gov. Newell says that the Indians are monopolists; that each man, woman and child owns over 5000 acres of the finest land in Washington Territory, and that, in connection with the N. P. R. R. they own nearly one-fourth of this grand empire.

SLIGHT ODDS.

A Little Story with a Large Moral - One Man who Ran his Own Business.

"No, my dear," said the venerable keeper of a country store to a timid little girl who had scarcely come up to the level of the counter. "No, my dear, we haven't any red flannel, but we have some first rate New Orleans molasses." Softly hinting that she didn't think this would answer the purpose quite as well, the child went her way in search of the article she wanted.

"Have you BENSON'S CAPSICINE PLASTER?" asked a customer of a certain druggist whose name could be given if he desired. "I am troubled just now with a touch of my old friend, the lumbago, and the Benson's Plaster seems to go to the spot almost as soon as it reaches the skin."

"Not at present," replied the druggist, generally, "but we have lots of plasters just as good. There is Allen's, the Castilian and others - won't one of them do as well?"

"My dear sir," retorted the gentleman, with a slight show of temper, "I say nothing against those articles, but I am a business man, and always act precisely what want, and for nothing else. I pay attention to you, however, when I say that sometime ago, for another disease, of which the Capsicine has since cured me, I tried all those you mention, with no appreciable benefit. They are inefficient, every one of them, the mostest act of the proprietors of some of them being this: that they make plasters with similar sound names to deceive the unwary into believing they are the same thing. Experience taught me the difference. I'll go to the next man in your line. Good day."

Go on your guard against imitations. The genuine has the word CAPSICINE cut clearly in the middle of the plaster. All others are impostures.

BAD BLOOD SCROFULOUS, INHERITED, CONTAGIOUS

IN 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until my breast was only a mass of corruption. Some of these ulcers were not less than six inches in diameter, the edges were raised and seemingly dead, the cavity open to the bone and filled with offensive matter. Everything I saw to the relief of my body was tried in vain. Gradually the bone itself became diseased, and then the suffering began in earnest. Some Ulcers began to take the place of those hitherto on the surface. I became a mere wreck. For months at a time I could not get my hands to my head because of extreme soreness.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED.

Keenest pain I ever felt was an hour even from pain. Had reason to look upon life itself as a curse. In the summer of 1887, after several weeks of this kind of existence, I was advised to use the CUTICURA Remedies, and after two years' persistent use of them the last ulcer was healed. The disease has recurred, but after three to four hundred and fifty-six pounds, and the good work is still going on. I feel myself a new man, and all through the CUTICURA Remedies. JAMES H. HIGGARDSON.

Sworn to before United States Commissioner, J. D. CRAYTON.
