PRIDAY ......AUGUST 31, 1888,

A GRAVE ERROR.

THE river and harbor bill which became a law without the president's signature was supposed to aggregate in appropriations the sum of $22,750,-000, but a clerical error makes it aggregate nearly $25,000,000 more. One item was $25,000 for the improvement of Black Cove, Portland harbor, Maine. But the bill as enrolled and signed by speaker Carlisle, and president pro tem of the senate Ingalls, says "twenty-five thousand thousand dollars." The supreme court has decided that there is no license in construing acts; that they must stand as they are passed by congress and sent to the state department. In 1873 a bill intended to admit among other things fruit-plants free of duty should have hard a harbon between the words this age timed the state department between the words this say is been constructed that keeps out the shrewd and determined burglar, and that's the way in everything. But I don't recall a case in which this truth was more brilliantly demonstrated than the Maxwell case." "What case was that?" queried an old newspaper man present. "I don't recollect of ever hearing of it before?" "No, I suppose you don't," said Mr. Bonfield, musingly. "The fact of the matter is, it never was a case that properly belonged to the department, but I can speak of it now. You see it was at the time when the telephone had just been introduced into business and private use. George Maxwell—that's not the real name, but it will do as well—was at the time one of the most successful. had a hyphen between the words this way "fruit-plants." Leaving that little hyphen out in the enrolling put woman. It was an out-and-out love foreign fruit on the free list, and millions of dollars had to be refunded to importers of fruit as the supreme court decided it was entitled under the act to come in free.

But it is probable that the secretary of war will not allow more than $25,-000 to be spent in improving Black Cove, Portland harbor, Maine.

A Political Speech Factory.

An impecunious young man, who at one time was in great demand as an orator at local political meetings, but whose fondness for fiery drink has made him unpresentable on state occasions, has hired an office on Park Row and sent out cards to every po litical organization in the city, stating that he is ready to write ANY POLITICAL SPEECH IN TEN MINUTES

When a Telegram reporter called at his den this morning he was en-gaged in writing a speech for one of the city fathers, who will deliver it at the next meeting of the board. It was not of a political nature, but that made no difference to the former orator. He got the idea of what the al derman wanted to say, and in a few minutes put the ideas in proper shape.

"This is a great scheme," he said. "and I'll make lots of money. There are hundreds of men whom I know who want to speak at public meetings but they don't know how to express their ideas. I write it out for them, and if they have any intellect at all they can commit the reuse of the speech to memory and then speak their little piece."—N. Y. Telegram.

Strange Story Told by Inspector Bonfield of the Chicago Police.

"Hello" That Disturbed a Member of the Board of Trade, and Finally Forced Him to Pay Over $20,000.

"It is a well-known fact that no other section of the population avail them-selves more readily and speedily of the latest triumphs of science than the crim-inal class," said Inspector Bonfield yes-terday. "The educated criminal," he continued, "skims the cream from every new invention, if he can make use of it. new invention, if he can make use of it. No safe has yet been constructed that was currently reported to have some woman. It was an out-and-out love match. A score or so of messages were dispatched every day during business hours. They contained such important queries as: 2:10 P. M. How are you now, lovey? And replies like this: 2:35 P. M. I sigh for you. How is my sweetest? Well, to save expenses and to increst the facilities of communication, Mr. Maxwell connected his office with his home on Ashland avenue by sprivate home on Ashland avenue by private telephone wire. He was one of the first men in Chicago to do so. About five out of six business hours were now spent by him at the
