woman's nand nas ever, though often concealed, payed a conspicuous part, hence we may write her down, not only the mother of all kying, but the mother of all history. All along the highway of this world's march woman's power sometimes upon it has been signally felt. She has thus proven her ability when an opportunity has been given her to stand side by side with her associates of the sterner sex in during, suffering, self-denial, sympathy, kindness, culture, cun-ning, crime, cruelty, control, and not unfrequently his superior. Of woman the poet wrote:

"Not from his head was woman took,

"Not from his head was woman took,
As made her husband to o'erlook;
Not from his feet as one designed,
The focustool of the sterner kind,
But fashioned for himself a bride,
An equal, taken from his side."
Proof of this fact is found in three eventful periods of the races history. In Jewish history I need but name Myriam,

Ruth, Mary, Precilla and Jesebel, In During the week the bureau of navigation assigned official numbers to the following Pacific coast vessels: At Seattle, sloop Apollo, gross tonnage 5.11 net 5.11 No. 107,178, and sloop Nancy, gross tonnage 8.04 net 8.04 No. 130,697. For man could never walk alone, and even in Eden's bowers,

He pined for woman's smile to cheer his task of tending flowers."

May we not ask just here, "What are the distinguishing privileges and opportunities of the average girl of today?"

This question may in part be answered by saying, the long mooted question of her equality with her brother man has been settled in her favor by the verdict of the schools, of the business world and the church, and through the influence of this verdict there have been opened to The dereket, which was timber laden, burned nearly to the water's edge, and was in such a position as to render her a menace to safe navigation.

and laugh, according to society's rules; to learn to play and sing a few little songs, such as "Oh, how mother, dear mother, will miss me when I'm gone;" while the poor, silly old mother at the same time is drudging her life away in the kitchen to give dear Lillie the pleasure of appearing well in society with soft white hands, with the hope of getting her safely offit of her hands upon the hands of someone eige, who when first married to such a stell hands upon the hands of someone else, who when first married to such a girl feels like eating her up and in after years wishes he had. Against all of these tyramical demands of society the (deal girl will enter a strong and positive protest and refuse to bow to its galling yoke and cruel sceptre. To her we must look to lift her class out of the "dreamy play of life" (sto the sublime realm of noble useful effort that will take hold of and help the world to a better life. I am not quite certain, brautiful and innocent as they seem to be, that many of the Caina dolls are the best playthings for little girls, with their painted faces, dilicate hands and little feet, with crimped hair, for many a grown up girl has often wished she had the face, hands, feet and hair of the doll she once played with and she has made many a fruitless effort to imitate her china doll. It might effort to imitate her china doll. It might have been better if some of that class of girls had been dolls, for effort to imitate her china doll. It might have been better if some of that class of girls had been dolls, for then they would not only have been painted to stay and in the "market," but would have stood a good chance of being bought by somebody. It is an open secret that many a socity girl has remained on the market betause of her "high notions of the demands of society." She is too expensive a commodity for the average young man to take upon his hands at all times. Its a common remark among a certain class of honorable, industrious young men, "I cannot afford to get married just now," it costs too much these expects me to keep her," for most girls expect to start where their parents leave off after years of toil and sawing, I had better atay a single man and I will," so he does. It is also a conceded fact that the rigid rules of this tyrant society in its style and dreas has driven many deserving girls to ruln. They were made to feel that they were not wanted because they could not keep up with the style of "our set." Or they were given to understand that they did not belong to the select "four hundred," and hence were ruled, dressed, sneered and elbowed out of society and too often, alas, out of courage, honesty and heaven. God, rewere ruled, dressed, sneered and elbowed out of society and too often, alas, out of courage, honesty and heaven. This discourse would be very incomplete were we not to give a few moments in considering the all important and much discoursed question of "woman's sphere." May we not appropriately ask "who dare define with metes and bounds woman's sphere any more than he would man's sphere any more than he would man's sphere? and yet we think we can answer this seeming vexatious question in one round sentence. Her sphere is wherever and in whatever she is most needed and can be most herself and do most for the uplifting of the race.
