Russians to arrive on Jan. 20

The Russians are coming! That was the word on Tuesday from State officials as they confirmed that a high-level Soviet trade mission will use Cottage Grove as its base of operations for a three-day visit of area wood-products plants.

According to Howard P. Traver, manager for international trade with the state's department of economic development, the seven member Soviet trade mission and state officials will arrive in Cottage Grove on the evening of Jan. 20 and stay at the Village Green.

"It is firm, as firm as it can be," Mr. Traver said. "The only thing that would change would be if they suddenly cancelled the trip or if we got two feet of snow dropped in the valley."

Mr. Traver said the mission will be headed by V.F. Zaretsky, deputy minister of the USSR timber and woodworking industry, and will include five timber-industry administrators and plant directors and an interpreter.

On the morning of Jan. 23, the Soviets will visit the Weyerhaeuser Glu-lam Beam Plant in Cottage Grove and later that day, Mr. Traver said they will depart for Portland. Also on the last day, Jan. 23, the Soviets will be guests at a Weyerhaeuser Company luncheon at the Village Green, according to company officials.

Mr. Traver said the trade mission is planning stops in Washington, Idaho and Oregon. The group will arrive in the Pacific Northwest on Jan. 14 and the Washington Trade Fair will coordinate the Soviet's two-week swing through the three-state area.

The original invitation to visit the Pacific Northwest was extended to the Russians in the fall of 1973 by Washington State, Mr. Traver said, and the invitation was repeated in May 1974 when an Oregon trade mission visited the Soviet Union.

The Soviets' visit is sponsored by the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission, a federally-funded economic development agency headed by the governors of Washington, Idaho and Oregon. The commission mission's export-promotion activities are carried out through the Pacific Northwest International Trade Council.

Commenting further, Mr. Traver said the Soviets want to see the machinery in operation. He said indications are such that, if the equipment proves compatible with Soviet needs, they might be "interested" in obtaining the machinery from northwest firms.

According to Mr. Traver, the Russians' firm itinerary will have the trade mission visiting area industries on the following schedule:

— On the morning of Jan. 21, they will visit the Roseburg Lumber Company chip mill in Goshen.

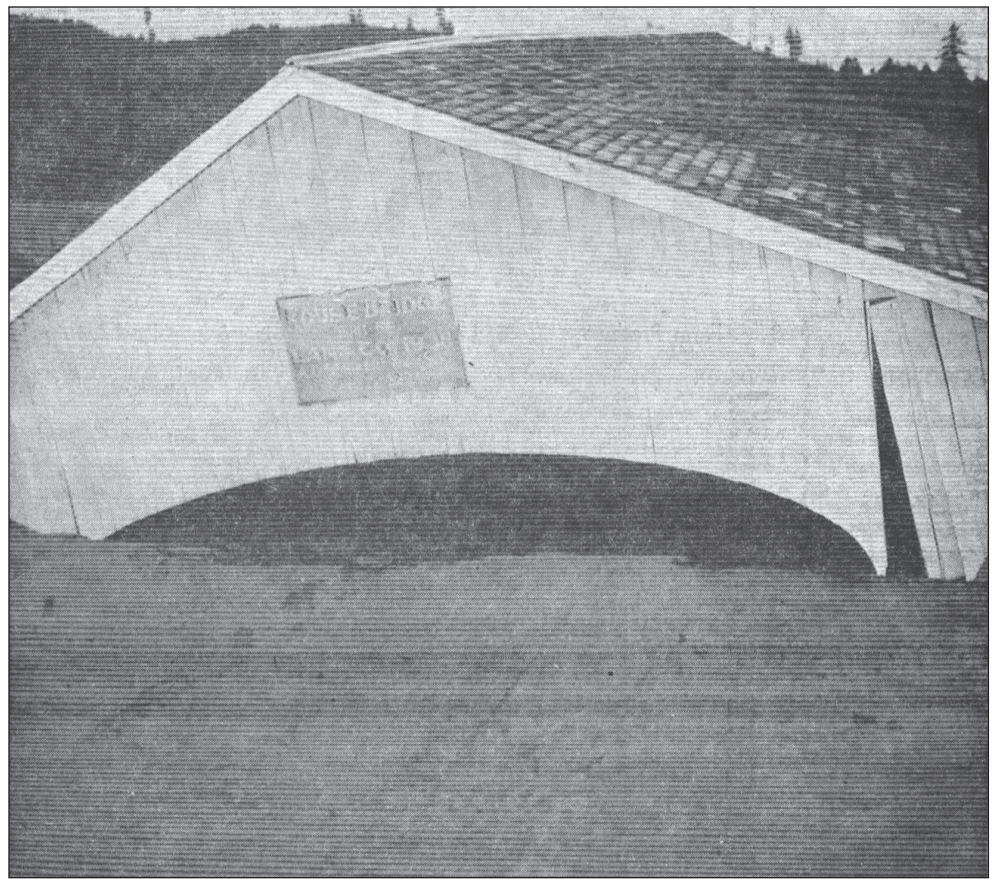

During the afternoon, the trade mission will tour Pope and Talbot's new mill in Oakridge.

— The morning of Jan. 22 calls for a visit to Roseburg Lumber Company's plywood plant in Dillard.

— The afternoon plans are for the Soviets to tour an automated stud mill in Roseburg owned by Sun Studs, Inc.

— On the morning of Jan. 23, the group will visit the local Weyerhaeuser plant.

Mr. Traver said the Soviet government is paying for the mission's transportation to the northwest, the Pacific Northwest trade council has set aside money for transportation and housing while the group is in the northwest and various participating firms will host the delegation during their two-week visit.

Jan. 7, 1965: It was a covered bridge — This covered bridge located two miles above London on the Black Butte Road was a victim of the recent flood. Although it had been replaced by a new concrete bridge by Lane County, the old covered one had been left for the convenience for some residents in the area and also as a land mark. It is doubtful now that the bridge, which was known as Rouse Bridge and built in 1938, will be replaced.

JOYCE

something here: Although God loves us unconditionally, He does get angry at sin, wickedness and evil. But He is not an angry God. God hates sin, but He loves sinners! He will never approve of sin in your life, but He always loves you and wants to work with you to make progress in living a holy life in Christ.

Psalm 103:8 (NKJV) says, "The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abounding in mercy." God is merciful—that's His character. He's gracious—that means He's good. And God is slow to anger.

People who don't know the true character of God—who don't understand He is merciful, gracious and slow to anger—can never have a close, personal, intimate relationship with Him. It grieves me to think there are so many who live in the darkness of constantly feeling guilty and condemned when God is longing to have relationship with them.

The truth is God created us to have relationship with us. He wants to love us and take care of us, and He wants us to love Him. That's where our walk with Christ has to start.

We need to be obedient to God and do the good works He has for us to do, but first we need to understand and believe He loves us. Then we can have a relationship with Him and live by faith in Him with the power of the Holy Spirit in us, giving us the ability to live the way God is calling us to live.

I'm so grateful God opened my eyes to the truth! He has taught me to believe by faith that He is pleased with me, not because I do everything right, but because I believe in Him and trust Him. And this is just as true for you as it is for me.

If you struggle with feeling that God is disappointed in you or angry because you don't do everything right, I want to encourage you to take hold of this truth today and believe it: God is not mad at you!
