In other months we forget the harsh winds of Spring. But they have their use, as some say, to blow out the bad air accumulated after Winter storms and Spring thaws. There is far more important accumulation of badness in the veins and arteries of humanity, which needs Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This great Spring Medicine clarifies the blood as nothing else can. It cures scrofula, kidney disease, liver troubles, rheumatism and kindred ailments. Thus it gives perfect health, strength and appetite for months to come.

Kidneys—"My kidneys troubled me, and on advice took Hood's Sarsaparilla which gave prompt relief, better appetite. My sleep is refreshing. It cured my wife also."—MICHAEL BOYLE, 3473 Denby street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dyspepsia—"Complicated with liver and kidney trouble, I suffered for years with dyspepsia, with severe pain. Hood's Sarsaparilla made me strong and hearty."—J. H. EMERTON, Main street, Auburn, Me.

Hip Disease—"Five running sores on my hip caused me to use crutches. Was confined to bed every winter. Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my life, as it cured me perfectly. Am strong and well."—ANNIE ROBERT, 49 Fourth street, Fall River, Mass.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

And How Mrs. Pinkham Helps Overcome Them.

Mrs. MARY BOLLINGER, 1101 Marianna St., Chicago, Ill., to Mrs. Pinkham: "I have been troubled for the past two years with falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, pains over my body, sick headaches, backache, nervousness and weakness. I tried doctors and various remedies without relief. After taking two bottles of your Vegetable Compound, the relief I obtained was truly wonderful. I have now taken several more bottles of your famous medicine, and can say that I am entirely cured."

Mrs. HENRY DORN, No. 806 Findley St., Cincinnati, Ohio, to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For a long time I suffered with chronic inflammation of the womb, pain in abdomen and bearing-down feeling. Was very nervous at times, and so weak I was hardly able to do anything. Was subject to headaches, also troubled with leucorrhoea. After doctoring for many months with different physicians, and getting no relief, I had given up all hope of being well again when I read of the great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing. I decided immediately to give it a trial. The result was simply past belief. After taking four bottles of Vegetable Compound and using three packages of Sanative Wash I can say I feel like a new woman. I deem it my duty to announce the fact to my fellow sufferers that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable remedies have entirely cured me of all my pains and suffering. I have her alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am grateful. May heaven bless her for the good work she is doing for our sex."

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

DESIGN FOR A STABLE.

The Building Shown Here Was Erected as a Model of Its Kind.

A well-planned and carefully constructed stable as an adjunct to a handsome residence is often the exception instead of the rule. In situations where the stable and house are seen at the same time the former should match the latter and be in every way in the same general style. It ought to be a picturesque, pleasing design, adding to the charm of the landscape. When a nice house is erected and it is necessary to have a private stable in close proximity, it is often difficult to know just how to plan to meet all requirements and still have a combination of style and effect that will be in keeping with the residence. Another very important thing in a study of this kind, which is often lost sight of, is the great desirability of the building being rat and vermin proof as near as possible. First, the site should be a level one and the foundation so built that only a few inches will be out of the ground. Then fill the inside ground level with the wall with good, solid dirt, free from loam or vegetable matter.

Study the needs of your stable just as you would those of your kitchen. Be sure to embody in it everything that can be of use to you. Let it be a labor-saving building in economy of materials used as well as in the other requirements involved. The more thought you expend in this direction the more of a success you will have. Be sure to plan so that you will have a dry base and plenty of air under the floor. Good ventilation is the life of all good work, and without it decay will quickly ensue. Good drainage is also necessary. Carefully graded and constructed stall floors, with drain connections which can be washed out readily, are important from a sanitary point of view especially. In fact, the occupants of a house or stable have most to gain from first-class drainage and ventilation.

This building was erected as a model of its kind, and has proved to be so. It is in every way desirable for its uses and is a good example of what a properly equipped stable should be. There is one large box stall with hard dirt floor. The carriage room is floored with tongued and grooved plank two inches thick; second story with ordinary flooring. The foundation is of stone. The structure above the foundation is strongly framed; the first story finished with drop siding; second story and roof, shingled. The roof is left unpainted; all other wood work is painted two coats. The width of the building is twenty-two feet, and the depth eighteen feet. The height of the first story is eight feet, and the second story up to the rafters. The cost of a structure of this kind would naturally vary with the market as influenced by local conditions, but it could probably be built in most places for about $300.—E. A. Payne.

Why Sheep Are Woolly.
If you want to ask a sheep where he got his wool and why, take a dog into a mountain pasture band and if the sheep are afraid of the dog they will invariably run uphill rather than down. You have your answer. The ancestors of the domestic sheep, like wild sheep of the present day, lived among high mountains and needed their woolly covering to protect them against the constant cold of high atmospheres. They chose the high and inhospitable region to live in because they found the fierce flesh-eating animals of the plains too strong for them. A proof of these facts is that the wool grows on a sheep the year round.

Shop-Worn Socks.
The National Advertiser tells a story of an old bachelor who bought a pair of socks and found attached to one of them a slip of paper with these words: "I am a young lady of 20 and would like to correspond with a bachelor, with a view to matrimony." Name and address were given. The bachelor wrote and in a few days got this letter: "Mamma was married twenty years ago. The merchant you bought those socks from evidently did not advertise or he would have sold them long ago. Mamma handed me your letter and said possibly I might suit you. I am 18 years old."

His Peculiar View.
"Doesn't it sometimes make you gloomy to hear the wind howling about on a wild night?"
"No," answered the man with a careworn look. "I rather like to hear it. The wind doesn't come up and ring your doorbell and ask how about that bill, or tell you you'll get arrested if you don't tag your dog. It doesn't say 'I won't go home till morning' away off the key and disgrace the neighborhood. It howls because it enjoys it. But it never says anything to hurt anybody's feelings. I sometimes honestly wish that there was more wind in this life and less people."—Washington Star.

To Mend Shell Combs.
As tortoise shell combs are always prone to break easily, many may find this hint a useful one. First slope the margins of the broken pieces for the distances of about a quarter of an inch from the edge; then overlap these margins and when thus arranged clamp them together with a strong letter clip, and immerse the comb in boiling water for some time. As the horn softens it unites. After it is thoroughly dry, the place where the break had been will be almost invisible.—Boston Globe.

Railroad Across the English Channel.
The English Parliament is considering the plan of connecting that country with France by railway. Engineers say a roadbed can be laid on the bottom of the English channel, and by mounting trestlework on wheels, so that it projects above the water, the railway can be operated. This seems beyond belief, but it is perhaps no more remarkable than some of the cures accomplished by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in bad cases of dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation.
