

Looks Encouraging—

C. H. Burkholder who spent last week in the Bohemia camps, said the other day in an interview, "I have always had a good opinion of the Bohemia camp, and every time I go up there my opinions are strengthened, and it seems to be catching. Every miner up here greets you this year with a happy expression that tells you without words that his mining property is panning out as he expected. Another year and Bohemia will take strides heretofore not dreamed of."

On't Sold—

Last Monday evening W. S. Chrisman sold his handsome team, and complete outfit, rigged expressly for mountain travel to the enterprising proprietors of the Fashion Stables. Mr. Chrisman had everything arranged and expected to start with his family for a trip to Southern Oregon Wednesday, but striking the deal, let his outfit go. The turnout is an exceedingly good one and the Fashion Stables will place it at the convenience of their patrons, adding another new comfort to mountain travel.

For Bohemia?—

Wednesday afternoon Dr. R. E. Smith, Superintendent of the Riverside Gold Mining Co., Bohemia, and wife and child, Mrs. R. E. Hawley and daughter, and several others arrived from Eugene and were met here by Geo. S. Battice, mining broker of Portland. The party procured conveyance from the Fashion Stables and started immediately for Bohemia. Mr. Battice has become interested in the flattering reports from Bohemia, and came to investigate the same.

On to Manila.—

A letter from Lewis Betters to the Bohemia Nugget dated at Eugene the 9th, and which was mislaid to the Bohemia P. O., reaching this office July 19, stating that Mr. Betters would pass through Cottage Grove on the night of the 10th enroute to San Francisco. Mr. Betters had already purchased his ticket to Manila at a cost of $270. Well old man, good luck to you, may you dig out the yellow stuff by the pail full.

For an Outing.—

El Hebard, B. Larch's cracker-jack counter jumper, will leave Saturday for Yaquina, where he will visit some of his old friends and arrange for a two weeks outing. They have not as yet decided whether they will sojourn in the whiteness of the whitherness of mountainous regions adjacent, or listen to the howling of the breakers of the rolling deep, etc. However the Nugget wishes El and his party a way up time.

Serious Fall.—

Josh, the 15 year old son of D. C. Brown of the Cottage Grove hotel, fell through the floor of the hay loft Wednesday night and sustained severe injuries about the head and shoulders. Dr. Snapp was called and did his best for him, but the boy was in an unconscious state most of the night. At press hour he was resting easy, and it is thought he will pull through all right.

Industry and Mining.—

W. J. Homer, business manager of Industry and Mining, a live mining journal of Seattle Wash., was in the city this week, looking after the mining interests of Bohemia. Mr. Homer is a wide awake, rustling business man, deeply interested in his work, and undoubtedly a "good thing" for the mining interests.

Holding it Down.—

During Mr. Frank Goodman's absence on his outing trip to the Bohemia district, his very obliging clerk Willie Orrell has charge of the confectionery store. Willie is a very clever fellow, and a careful and obliging clerk, and will hold his job down in a commendable manner.

Both Dangerous.—

Arthur Ham, of Lorane, is now satisfied that there is danger in a mowing machine as well as a gun. A few days ago he shot the tip of one of his fingers off, and Wednesday he got another finger on the other hand into the gearing of a mower, and now that finger is on a par with the shot-gun finger.

Unfortunate.—

Win. Hawley of Lorane, is indeed unfortunate. Five weeks ago he was kicked in the leg by a horse injuring him severely. Last Wednesday the same horse kicked him again, this time crushing his hand against the side of the barn.

Regretted.—

The Bohemia Nugget regrets to say to its correspondents that it was forced to lay over some excellent out of town items this week. However if correspondents will overlook it, the Nugget will use every effort to avoid so doing in the future.

TROUBLE IN CAMP.

Difficulty Over a Mining Survey— Exciting Times, These.

The first difficulty between mining men in the Bohemia mining camp occurred last week on the 13th inst. The trouble grew out of the case of Jennings Bros. & Brunson vs G. Warner, to prove the ownership of the famous Helena mine. Jennings & Brunson are in possession of the mine and during the past two years have spent a large amount of money and time in its development which has proved to be immensely rich.

Last March Mr. Warner brought suit in equity against Jennings Bros. & Brunson, in Douglas county circuit court for injunction, which was denied and at the June term of court, the case was dismissed. Then Mr. Warner brought another action in ejectment, for possession and title which is now pending.

During the interval Jennings Bros. & Brunson filed their intent on to make final proof upon the property. Last week Mr. Warner accompanied by County Surveyor Collier and several men went into the mines for the purpose of surveying the property, with the view of establishing the lines, that Mr. Warner might set up a remonstrance to the claim for patent by Jennings Bros. & Brunson.

The claim in question had been thoroughly posted against trespassers. And when on the morning of the 13th the surveying party made its appearance they were met by Dick Jennings who warned them not to trespass and told them that the lines had been run to their satisfaction and that they did not want any more surveying, and that they would not allow a survey to be made without an order from the court. Surveyor Collier demurred but finally they left the ground and not till the next day did they make another attempt.

Shortly before noon on the 14th they again made their appearance. Upon crossing the line they were met by Chas. Brunson, who again warned them from the premises. They refused to go, and after some talk Mr. Brunson left them and sent Jim Jennings to the scene. Mr. Jennings told Mr. Collier that no surveying would be permitted, and told the surveyor to quit the premises, Collier refused to go, maintaining that he had a right to survey it and was going to do it. Jennings was just as determined that no survey should be made, and after warning Collier again to leave, which warning was not heeded, he struck Mr. Collier's surveying instrument which he carried on his shoulder, with a Winchester rifle, smashing the instrument into smithereens, and bending the rifle barrel in such a shape that it was completely ruined.

After Surveyor Collier had gazed upon his delapidated instrument for some minutes, upon further demand from Mr. Jennings he quitted the premises and got back into the oad. Here he demanded his instrument and Mr. Jennings was obliging enough to see that he got it, that is what was left of it.

As the surveying outfit was hardly in condition to continue the survey, and as it was more definitely understood that no surveying could be done on the property without an order from the court, Messrs. Collier, Warner and party returned to the peaceful city of Cottage Grove.

Mr. Collier left on the next train for Roseburg where he swore out a warrant for Jim Jennings, charging him with destruction of personal property. A warrant was served on Mr. Jennings and he arrived here Monday and went down for trial on Tuesday morning's train. Mr. Jennings says he was determined that no surveying should be done on his property unless by order of the court, and about the only way to avoid a personal conflict was to damage the instrument, which he evidently did to the queen's if not Mr. Collier's taste. However, it can be truthfully said of Mr. Jennings that he afterwards offered to pay Mr. Collier for the fun he had had with his instrument also to reimburse him for any time he had lost. Mr. Collier refused this offer and so the preliminary trial was had which resulted in Mr. Jennings being bound over in the sum of $2,000 to await the order of the circuit court and to keep the peace in the meantime.

Mr. Warner claims that he is the rightful owner of the property, and that he had a right to survey the ground, by his having had prior claim.

Messrs. Jennings Bros. & Brunson are in possession and upon the claim, which is established beyond doubt by the denial of the injunction and the dismissal of the March term equity action.

As the matter stands both parties claim the property, and the surveying trouble was brought about by the Warner party attempting a survey without instructions from the court.
